HEARST RANCH, San Simeon, Cal., Jan. 25.

TRAVEL HAS changed, since the late Senator George Hearst rode horseback over mountain trails, three hundred miles from San Francisco, to look at his thoroughbred horses and cattle on his "little" ranch of forty thousand acres.

His other ranches were bigger, one of more than a million acres, one of nine hundred thousand, but this was most convenient, in the days when Los Angeles was a stretch of uninhabited sand.

W. R. HEARST has added about two hundred thousand acres to the little ranch, which is now his principal California residence, and yesterday Senator Hearst's grandson, George Hearst, flew down from San Francisco, to see his father, and back, in time for luncheon.

AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK yesterday morning, another plane left Los Angeles, with "Babe" Meigs, of Chicago, who flies his own plane, T. J. White, of New York, and Felix Lowy, of Chicago. They arrived for luncheon at one thirty and flew back to Los Angeles, saving about twelve hours on the round trip by train.

THEY BROUGHT this story, to prove that Albert Lasker trains his office force to think about advertising, and Lasker's clients, in particular. Vice President Curtis, Lasker's intimate friend, was expected to call at the Chicago office, and the head office boy, told to look out for him, had this conversation, with Mr. Curtis, on his arrival:

"Are you Vice President Curtis?"

"Yes."

"No."

"Of the American Tobacco Company?"

"No."

"Of the Pepsodent Company?"

"No."

"Then of what are you vice president?"

Mr. Curtis said:

"Only Vice President of the United States."

Gov. Roosevelt has officially written that it is his duty to run, if the people want him, "but please do not ask me to neglect my New York work."

FORMER GOV. SMITH has nothing to say about what Gov. Roosevelt says, nothing to say about his own possible candidacy. Watch Roosevelt and Smith, with Garner as dark horse. Soon many Democrats will be telling you that all the country needs is a Democratic administration.

If that two billion dollar dole for the rich should prove a failure, which heaven forbid, the Democrats will have something to talk about.

THE DEATH of Paul M. Warburg, of the house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., is a serious loss to American finance and high-grade business. Mr. Warburg, conservatively constructive, rendered great service in the planning and organizing of the Federal Reserve Bank, and set an excellent example in the wise use of his wealth.

THE DAY'S exciting news tells of a serious rebellion in the British Dartmoor prison, 600 prisoners taking part, fighting police and guards with table legs and chairs.

Rifle fire and the courage of 50 policemen with staves, no revolvers, suppressed the rebellion, which seems to have been based on the American plan. British journalists asked at once how many American-born prisoners were at Dartmoor. There was none.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS were burned, including one frame building that had been used to house American sailors imprisoned during our War of 1812.

History, perhaps, will record that we did not make a complete job of it, considering the extent to which the British have run our Treasury, controlled our defense plans and bamboozled our imitation statesmen, during the last 10 years.

LADY ASTOR, who represents a British constituency in the House of Commons and the state of Virginia in her own person, likes Will Rogers "because he is so American."

She called him on the telephone in Paris to say:

"Will, you MUST go to Russia again."

When Rogers asked why, she replied:

"To see a hundred million people standing on their heads."

RUSSIA MAY be standing on her head, but she does not think so, as she begins her second five-year plan, with promises of better pay for workers, more and better food for everybody.

CANADA, ENGLAND and this country were sending gunboats and cruisers to the little Central American republic of San Salvador yesterday to suppress a revolution of "Reds," on the Russian plan. Canada's war boats arrived first, England's next.

AT THE SAME time, Spanish troops and government airships were busy with plans to control a "Soviet strike" called in many Spanish cities.

We are really beginning to pay for the war, into which we

ANNA KRANICK

Miss Kranick, 3229 Juliet street, who looked into a Negro bandit's gun after he smashed the window of the auto in which she was sitting with John Latch, 300 Coltart square, on Pitt hill, had $9 taken from her purse. Her escort lost $19, watch, chain.

3 YEARS GIVEN DEATH DRIVER

Clement Garrahan, 21, of 15 Admiral Dewey avenue, Ingram, was sentenced to three years in the workhouse after he had pleaded guilty to three charges of involuntary manslaughter which grew out of an automobile accident September 9.

Garrahan, who admitted in court that he had been drinking wine in a speakeasy before the accident, was driving a car which collided with one driven by Edward J. Mitsch, 32, of 2943 Sacramento street, in Steubenville pike, near Crafton.

Mitsch, and Andrew Irvine, 35, of 2736 Stafford street, and the latter's daughter, Marjorie, 10, were killed, and three others injured.

In passing sentence, Judge H. Gray said:

Indore's Princess Denies Divorce Idea

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Ridiculing reports that she was planning to divorce the former Maharajah of Indore, the Maharanee Sharmishthabi Holkar, formerly Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, left here today for Seattle to visit her former home for two weeks before leaving to rejoin her husband at Cairo.

She said that as the wife of the Maharajah she has far more freedom than the average American woman.

Boy Violinist Wears First Long Trousers

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Wearing his first long trousers, Yehudi Menuhin, 15-year-old California violinist, played his first concert of the season to a filled Carnegie Hall yesterday. Many paid to stand through the program and there was frequent applause.

BOMBS FIRE BUILDINGS OF VOLPES

Wilmerding Fire Causes $30,000 Loss; Two Held as Suspects in Gang War

Fire, following three early morning explosions, swept six buildings in Bridge street, Wilmerding, today.

All of the buildings except one were owned by one or another of the Volpe family, Republican political chiefs who were swept from borough control at the last election.

Borough police, although expressing belief that time bombs had caused the blasts, started an investigation into the origin of the explosions.

Fire Marshal T. L. Pfarr and his instant, Capt. John Lippert, after making an investigation, ordered all the witnesses to the marshal's office for questioning. Lippert said that, while they found nothing to bear out a bombing theory, they did believe the fire was of incendiary origin.

The blasts followed by just three days a series of raids by night riders, who, armed with sawed-off shotguns, blasted away the fronts of three Webster avenue stores and that of one in Larimer avenue.

SUSPECTS HELD

Greensburg state police today revealed they have had two bomb plot suspects under arrest since Saturday night in connection with other bombings.

The men, who gave their names as Dominick LaBella, 27, and August Shiapa, both of McKeesport, were arrested near East McKeesport in a car containing 31 pounds of black powder and three coils of fuse, Capt. Albert Carlson, of the Greensburg barrack, said.

Carlson declared they were being questioned as to operations of a bootleg gang in the McKeesport district and probably had no connection with the Wilmerding explosions.

Rudy Travels Far For Farewell Kiss

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Rudy Vallee came all the way from New York today to kiss Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee goodbye—again. She is on her way to California and Rudy accompanied her as far as this city on her way and then took the next train back to New York. Few recognized the slant-eyed young man in a cap who sat for more than a half hour in the waiting room reading a newspaper.

Mercury Rise, Rain To Follow Cold Snap

Clear skies today will be followed by rising temperature and rain late tomorrow, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted, continuing the mild winter which is likely to break all records.

Recent rains at the headwaters resulted in the rivers reaching 18.6 feet at the Point today. They will begin falling this afternoon, Brotzman said.

Long in Senate, Favors Garner For President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Clad in pink pajamas, Louisiana's picturesque political czar—Huey P. Long, urged the Democratic party to nominate Speaker Garner, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, or Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, for president.

In Washington to change his title from Governor to Senator, Long was sworn in at noon by Vice President Curtis.

BREAKS TRADITION

Long was escorted to the rostrum by Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader, although the former's colleague, Senator Broussard (Dem.), of Louisiana, was in the chamber. Long's act in ignoring his collegue violated the tradition of the Senate which requires an incoming Senator to be escorted to the rostrum by his colleague.

Long and Broussard are political enemies. The new Senator had said today he would seek the defeat of his colleague for re-election.

Long got out of bed early to discuss presidential possibilities and national affairs with newspapermen. He sat on a sofa in the reception room of his Mayflower

NEW DEBT PLAN AVOIDS U. S.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Premier Laval has made a new debts and reparations proposal to Great Britain predicated upon non-participation by the United States in any settlement agreement, it was said today in well-informed quarters.

In a long talk with Lord Tyrrell, the British ambassador, it was understood he suggested a short moratorium on reparations to carry over the American elections and to expire before December 15, when the next French payment to the United States is due. After the French elections in May there would be a conference at Lausanne or elsewhere to negotiate a permanent agreement.

Payment of unconditional reparations installments would be made to the world bank and loaned back to Germany as under the Hoover moratorium. At the expiration of the proposed new moratorium, it was said, the Premier suggested that France and Great Britain try to reach an agreement determining the amount Germany is to pay.

Atterbury's Son Fined for Speeding

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—A youth, who said he was George R. Atterbury, son of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, was arrested for speeding on the White Horse Pike near here and fined $10 by Justice of the Peace Mrs. Gertrude Peoples, of Absecon, yesterday.

LAW ON VOTE MACHINES IMPUGNED

Phila. Attorney Will Test Validity of State Purchase On High Court Suggestion

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The question of the constitutionality of the state voting machine law was raised by Justices of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court today while hearing argument on the appeal by the Philadelphia County Commissioners to prevent the purchase of 800 machines.

The County Commissioners petitioned for a supersedeas to prevent the carrying out of a contract let by Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish to the Automatic Voting Machine Company of Jamestown, N. Y.

The commissioners had refused to order the machines on the ground that funds were not available. Beamish awarded the contract, as permitted by state law, after the Dauphin County Court dismissed an application by the commissioners for a restraining order.

In answer to a question by Justice John W. Kephat, Attorney W. P. Conner, representing the commissioners, said the constitutionality of the state law had never been raised. Justice Kephart asked:

"Why was not the constitutionality not questioned? That would show whether the Legislature has transferred the functions of government from the officials of the city and county to the Secretary of State."

Connor immediately said he would amend his petition, incorporating in it an attack on the constitutionality of the act.

Justice James B. Drew asked Connor if the action by Beamish had not been made necessary by reason of the commissioners' failure to purchase the machines. Connor replied the machines were not ordered because money was not available.

Boy in Respirator 123 Days, Improves

BEACON, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—After spending 123 days in an artificial respirator at Vassar Hospital, Birdsall Sweet, 14, once helpless with paralysis and unable to breathe without its aid, yesterday showed such improvement he was able to test his own respiratory organs for a four-hour stretch.

Dr. Scott L. Smith, the boy's physician, said that while complete recovery would be a tedious process, it now appeared assured.

Deportation May Part Parents, Baby

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(Universal.)—Angus MacClean and his wife will be deported back to Scotland this week without their baby unless they are able to raise $45 immediately. They have overstayed their leave, but the baby was born in this country and no provision is made under the law for its transortation back to the old country.

Flier Herndon Saves Bride From Octopus

MRS. HUGH HERNDON, JR. . . HONEYMOON NEARLY TRAGEDY

SEA MONSTER CAPTURED

Pilot Herndon

Mrs. Herndon, the former Mary Ellen Farley, daughter of W. W. Farley, of Albany, was swimming in deep water off Sandy Key Island near Nassau when the octopus appeared. It had apparently followed her in from farther out at sea. Mrs. Herndon, not realizing her danger, approached it, Herndon said, and as she did so it spurted forth the inky liquid with which is blinds its prey.

Mrs. Herndon screamed for her husband, who was on the beach, and he dashed to the rescue. Beating the octopus with sticks, the aviator drove it into shallow water and onto the beach, with his wife assisting. They presented it to the aquarium at Nassau. The flier said:

"Mrs. Herndon was excited at first. But she was brave. There is no doubt in my mind that if she had approached a few inches closer the octopus might have dragged her down and drowned her."

Tunney Witnesses Prisoner Stand-Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion prizefighter, was the guest of Police Commissioner Mulrooney today at the lineup at police headquarters.

He made no comment after witnessing the questioning of prisoners.

POOR FUND QUIZ BALKS TAX RATE

Fixing the 1932 county millage rate was held up today when two members of the County Poor Directors, Dr. W. L. Henderson, secretary, and H. H. Dixon, vice president were unable to explain satisfactorily to the County Commissioners what become of the balance left from 1930 and 1931 revenues.

The Poor Board is asking a 100 per cent increase in millage from 1½ to 3 per cent. County Commissioner C. C. McGovern said:

"We intended to set the millage today, but inasmuch as the Poor Directors failed to enlighten us on what became of the unexpended portion from the last two years, we adjourned the meeting until tomorrow afternoon."

Bazley Made Chief Of County Airport

H. R. (Hal) Bazley was appointed director of Allegheny County's new $4,000,000 airport. County Commissioner C. C. McGovern announced today. Bazley, former manager of the Curtiss Airport at Bettis Field, succeeds C. W. Forcier, protege of the late Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

Two Die in Flames Destroying Theater

IOWA CITY, IA., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Two persons were burned to death here early today in a fire that destroyed the Garden Theater, the Mandarin Inn and two retail stores. The victims were Sheer N. Yee, of Cedar Rapids, manager of the inn, and Mrs. Maud Kuhn, 45, of Cedar Rapids, a dishwasher.

CITY'S FORTS FACING ATTACK

Sun Fo and Chen Resign As Government Leaders; Serious Clash Expected

International News Service.

The great Chinese commercial city of Shanghai lay under the guns of Japanese battleships today with every prospect that before nightfall Japanese Marines would seize harbor forts, occupy portions of the native city, and possibly enter the foreign settlements, bringing complications with the United States and other powers.

Parleys between the Chinese mayor and the Japanese consul over the Japanese demand that anti-Japanese boycotts be suspended and anti-Japanese organizations suppressed reached a deadlock this afternoon and were broken off.

Far to the north other Japanese forces passed out of Manchuria and into the Mongolian district of Jehol in continuance of their campaign against so-called Chinese bandits.

Premier Sun Fo, of the Chinese Nationalist government, and his foreign minister, Eugene Chen, resigned today in protest against their colleagues' refusal to break off relations or call upon the League of Nations to declare an economic boycott of Japan.

The League council reconvened at Geneva today and is to resume consideration of the Sino-Japanese conflict late this afternoon.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed as governor of Manchuria by Japanese troops, told International News Service the Chinese people had lost all faith in the League and were paying no attention to the council proceedings.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 25.—A conference between the mayor of the Chinese section of Shanghai, Wu Te-Chen, and the Japanese consul, Kuramatsu Murai, ended in a deadlock today when they failed to agree on a settlement of the tense international situation in Shanghai.

Serious trouble was in prospect as announcement of the failure of the meeting was made. There was little hope for a peaceful settlement, and the Japanese were expected to use force to press their arguments.

Japan was expected to seize the Woosung forts near the city, the Lunghwa arsenal, and the entire Chinese section of Shang-

Noted Lawyer Quits As Allen Defender

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—John R. K. Scott, prominent criminal lawyer, who was to have defended young Edward H. B. Allen, accused of the murder of Francis A. Donaldson, will not appear at the trial next week, it was announced today.

Although the reason given was "illness," it is believed that the defense prepared by Scott, that of a brother avenging his sister's honor, has been blocked by the rumor that Rose Allen will deny she ever was betrayed by Donaldson.

Sunday and Morris Renew Friendship; Beer No Bar

Almost 40 years ago two young fellows were inseparable roommates and inseparable teammates on the Pittsburgh baseball club. One was a swift outfielder; the other one of the best left-hand pitchers of his day.

The same two "boys", as young in spirit as of yore, held a reunion in Pittsburgh today. The former "ball hawk" is now the Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday; his buddie is Ed Morris. Morris likes his glass of beer or home brew, while Billy frowns upon them. Listen to Ed:

"A sincere fellow is Billy Sunday and a great companion. See those knuckles! Still out of place. Well, I busted them swinging on wise fellows who razzed Bill when he became an evangelist.

"We all admired Billy for his sincerity. Once in Cincinnati, I felt like having a glass of beer, so I says to Bill: 'Excuse me, Bill, I think I will have a glass of beer.'

"And Bill replied: 'Well, I'll have a soda.' Bill still demands his soda and I still like a glass of beer."

Sunday said warmly:

And Ed replied:

"Lefthanders today get $30,000 per season for the same stuff I served."

Surgeons Balk at Mother's Gamble for Baby's Life

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Surgeons disagreed today whether to subject little Diana Moore to an operation which would give her 1,000 to 1 chance of leading a happy, normal life.

Moral and scientific reasons were advanced why the operation on her skull to permit her brain to expand and grow was inadvisable, even though it was conceded that unless it were performed, the baby would not escape idiocy.

Mrs. Lillian Moore, 18-year-old mother of Diana, was eager to have surgeons undertake the delicate operation which, she said, would give her daughter a "fighting chance." She said:

"If I, who of all people in the world, love my baby best, can make up my mind to endure the risk of this terrible operation, why can not the doctors agree to give my baby that one hope of growing up like others?"

The baby will be examined again tomorrow, after which a definite decision regarding the operation will be made.

ROOSEVELT'S CANDIDACY FACING NEW ENGLAND BARRIERS

SMITH FORCES THREATEN IN EAST

New York's Governor May Have Difficulty Holding Own Delegation in Line

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Now formally in the race for the presidential nomination, Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, finds his candidacy far in front of Democratic rivals, but facing hurdles of a most difficult sort.

Announcement Saturday that Roosevelt accepted campaign efforts on his behalf came with West and South rallied up for him about as well as possible at this stage of the campaigning. But the eastern states and New England offer a challenge which may nullify this advantage while scattered favorite sons states hold off to see which way to jump. Besides the several yet unreclaimed possible contestants and the announced candidacies of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, the eastern challenge is largely tied up with the engrossing question of Alfred E. Smith's intentions.

SMITH ENIGMA

The enigmatic silence of the party's 1928 nominee, combined with active efforts on his behalf along the northern Atlantic seaboard, lies directly across the path of his successor in the New York governorship. The answer may come early in March when New Hampshire holds its preferential primary. Roosevelt's campaign is to be waged there and there also Smith's volunteer supporters are at work.

By contrast with the Democratic leader's prospects, President Hoover is in the Republican race substantially by himself, so sure of renomination that some foes within the party are giving earnest thought to organizing outside the regular G. O. P. fold.

WESTERN INDEPENDENTS

These are the western independents who have tried without audible response to obtain Hiram Johnson's entry against Mr. Hoover. If any their third party movement seems due to blossom after the Republican and Democratic conventions, for should Roosevelt win, some of the western band apparently would be satisfied to back his candidacy, and the third party idea would collapse.

Senator George Norris, of Nebraska, has put the New York executive on his very short approved list, and Norris is the man who logically would be chosen to head the revolting Republican wing.

Virginia Paper Demands Roosevelt Tell Views

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 25.—Gov. Pollard, of Virginia, said today he is for former Gov. Harry F. Byrd for President and therefore had no comment to make on Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's candidacy. The Times-Dispatch will say editorially today:

"The Times-Dispatch has no quarrel with Gov. Roosevelt, but with a vast number of thinking Democrats in the South, it asserts its right to know where he stands before it admits his acceptability as a candidate. We await his definite pronouncements on the tariff, on prohibition, on foreign affairs. A clear cut statement showing actual convictions on outstanding issues would clarify the situation, for it would permit friendly Democrats to judge the man accurately. We ask something to go by and fail to understand the type of man who will not show his hand. The time has come for Roosevelt to declare himself. The South wants to know what manner of candidate he is."

Finland Eliminates Local Option Plan

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The financial committee of the Diet made several changes today in the government's new liquor law eliminating the local option provision by which the Council in any community could still continue to enforce prohibition if it wished to do so.

The bill will be given first reading tonight and then will go to the grand committee for examination, after which it will go to second reading, probably tomorrow and to third and final reading probably Saturday.

Council of Churches Opens State Meet

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—With nationally known clergymen featured on the speaking program, the third annual state convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches opened here today.

Simultaneous round-table conferences of church groups on comity, evangelism, social service and international relations were to be climaxed by reports of discussions at each of the conferences.

Long Favors Garner in Race

'KINGFISH' AT HOME

Long said that though he favored the nomination of Garner, Robinson or Harrison, because any of them would be winners, he felt that "Al" Smith could be elected. He predicted that if Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, were nominated, he would be defeated. This statement about Roosevelt was viewed significantly on Capitol Hill. Long was asked:

"Have you any ambitions yourself?"

He replied:

"I have too much sense to have any."

He has been mentioned as Louisiana's "favorite son" candidate.

A question whether he should be called governor or senator brought the remark:

'LITTLE FISH' IN CAPITAL

Long was told his Senate office is next to the quarters of Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho. He said:

"That's good. I'm a great admirer of that fellow. He, next to Bryan, is one of our greatest."

Calling himself "a little fish in a big pond," he said he had no legislative plans.

As to prohibition, he said:

"I'm not interested. The public is disgusted with the prohibition talk on both sides."

Long said Garner, Harrison and Robinson were the "three outstanding Democrats in the nation today," and any one of them would "win in a walk." But he added the people of his state had not expressed themselves on the presidency yet and he would follow them.

AIDS HOOVER ON RELIEF

Roosevelt, the 38-year-old political leader said, had been tried once as a vice presidential candidate "when we suffered the greatest typhoon" in 1920. He continued:

"I saw nothing at that time that indicated he helped us even as a vice presidential candidate. If he gets nominated I'm for him, but Smith made a phenomenal race last time, and the religious issue, which had a great deal to do with his defeat, would not affect him again."

Long pledged his support to President Hoover in restoring prosperity. He said:

"The President ought to be given every hand in the world to help out. I'd give him the benefit of more than a doubt to help out."

Long Follower Takes Oath, Police Armed to Balk Foe

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The war of the governors was on again in Louisiana.

Gov. Huey P. Long's departure for Washington and his seat in the Senate has left the arena to two men—one his friend and the other his foe—and armed guards today patrolled the capital against invasion by the enemy.

The foe, Paul N. Cyr, the elected lieutenant-governor, announced readiness to take up the battle he left off when the Supreme Court decided against him in his attempt to oust Long and take his job on grounds Long could not be both governor and a senator-elect.

Meanwhile, the friend, Alvin O. King, the president protempore of the Senate whom Long appointed Lieutenant Governor on the contention Cyr's action in taking the Governor's oath in his ouster proceedings lost him his elected job, was sworn in as Governor, with squads of husky highway policemen with six-shooters strapped to their hips standing on guard in the state capital at Baton Rouge.

Couch and Jones Appointed As Directors to Assist Dawes on Corporation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Two southerners were named today to the board that will direct a $2,000,000,000 injection to quicken the pulse of business.

Harvey C. Couch, of Arkansas, and Jesse H. Jones, of Texas, were appointed by President Hoover as two of the three Democratic directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. A third probably will be named in a very short time.

Couch, a financier residing in Pine Bluff, is well known in the capital through his connection with various industrial and other activities.

Jones was especially active in connection with the last Democratic national convention held in his home city—Houston.

President Hoover sent the names of Jones and Couch to the Senate for confirmation along with that of Charles G. Dawes. The nominations called for a two-year term from January 22.

At about the same time they arrived, the $500,000,000 appropriation measure reached the Senate with the approval of its Finance Committee.

Chairman Jones said he would seek Senate action on the bill today, but a minor amendment, if adopted, will send the measure to conference before it can go to the White House.

Applications came from thousands of persons for positions with the corporation. They were filed away for the personnel officer, who will be appointed as soon as the corporation is organized.

TWO ARE HELD IN GANG WAR

request that all police watch for thieves who stole more than 30 sticks of dynamite from a mine of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Company at Gallitzin.

The first Wilmerding blast, according to Patrolman Plumer Churchfield, blew out the front of the confectionery store operated by Aaron Mallinger at 106½ Bridge street.

FLAMES SPREAD

Swelled by two more explosions, fire spread to the adjoining barber shop of Carmen Trink, then to the Friedman department store, 102-104 Bridge street, the A. & P. store at 100 Bridge street, a poolroom at 108 Bridge street and the adjoining building, Berkoben's Grocery and Meat Market.

The burned buildings, damage to which was estimated at $30,000, were all Volpe property with the exception of the Berkoben store, which is owned by its proprietor, Harold Berkoben, Sr.

Berkoben told police he was awakened by his 18 months old son, who was pulling his ear and nose. He saw the flames in the buildings across the street from his home and turned in the first alarm, he said.

THREE FAMILIES FLEE

Three families were forced to leave their homes as the fire spread.

Mallinger, who lives in the apartment over his store, was not at home, his wife and daughter having gone to visit friends in Clairton for the week-end.

VANDERBILTS SPURN POLICE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Assistance proffered by the police in a search for a diamond and emerald bracelet lost by Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church Phelps was rejected today at the home of her mother, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, in East Ninety-third street.

A police detective who went there was informed by the butler that Mrs. Vanderbilt could not be disturbed, and that no police assistance was needed. No report of the loss had been made to the police.

Mrs. Phelps said yesterday the bracelet had apparently slipped out through a small hole in the bottom of her handbag last Tuesday.

$115,000 Safe Buried In Bank Fire Ruins

MANSFIELD, O., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed the Farmers' and Citizens' Bank Building at Tiro, northeast of here, yesterday causing an estimated loss of $30,000.

A safe containing $115,000 in cash and securities was buried in the wreckage. Guards were placed about the smouldering ruins to protect the safe.

SENATE TARIFF HEARING ENDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Senate Finance Committee today concluded hearings on the House Democratic tariff bill, but deferred a vote until Thursday.

Indications were the measure would be favorably reported with some modifications. The Democrats hope to win a vote or two from the Republican independents on the committee to get the bill to the Senate.

The bill would take away the President's power to proclaim increases and decreases in duties under the flexible provision after Tariff Commission inquiry. It would restore this power to Congress and, if Congress did not reject within 60 days, a commission report would take effect.

This 60-day limitations is regarded by Democrats on the Finance Committee as unconstitutional. They hold it would give the Tariff Commission rate-making power, which is reserved to Congress alone under the Constitution.

Ignores Brother, Plunges to Death

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—While his brother leaned from a window of an adjoining suite and begged him not to jump, Erroll O'Brien, 43, an attorney and former magistrate in the British West Indies, plunged to his death yesterday from the tenth floor of the Hotel Woodward. The body crashed through a glass marquee, narrowly missing a doorman. O'Brien recently was released from a sanitarium.

SENATORS URGE MOONEY PARDON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—An assertion that San Francisco's 1916 Preparedness Day bomb outrage was perpetrated by interests eager to discredit labor and not by Tom Mooney or Warren Billings was made last night by Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana.

He, Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, and Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, addressed a mass meeting of several hundred at the little Quaker meeting house which President Hoover often attends. Other speakers protesting the continued imprisonment of Mooney and Billings included representatives of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish organizations.

Resolutions were passed urging a boycott of California products if Mooney is not pardoned within six weeks, asking that Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, take a public stand in favor of the pardon, setting aside February 24 as Tom Mooney day for protest.

'Got Dirty Deal,' Suicide Note Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Ross E. Young, 56, a stock broker, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel yesterday. He left a note addressed to his wife, in which he said:

"I got a dirty deal. I love you, but I think this is the best way out for both of us."

Japan Acts to Curb Fishwives' Revolt

TOKIO, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Armed police were dispatched today to the islands of Saisho, off Southwest Korea, where 500 native fishwives stormed police headquarters and demanded higher prices for seaweed and fish, which the government purchased from them.

Sale of Property For Taxes Balked

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court today granted an appeal to a group of Monongalia County taxpayers in their fight to halt immediate sale of 1930 property delinquent for taxes.

TRUNK SLAYER'S LOVE LIFE TO BE REVEALED

By ARTHUR L. MAREK
International News Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 25.—Intimate details of the love life of Winnie Ruth Judd, "velvet tigress," were expected to be bared today as the state neared the end of its "trunk murder" case against her for killing Agnes Anne Leroi.

Mr. Halloran

Lucille Moore, a nurse, was prepared to testify that Mrs. Judd, accused of killing Mrs. Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, "her best friends," and shipping their bodies in trunks from Phoenix to Los Angeles, became infuriated when she saw her playboy friend, rich and handsome Happy Jack Halloran, Arizona lumberman, bestow a kiss upon Mrs. Leroi.

NURSES JEALOUS

Jealously among nurses at Grunow Memorial Clinic where Mrs. Judd and Mrs. Leroi were employed over the fancied favoritism of young physicians for whom they worked, and which later flared into murderous hate, was to be bared by the state as a possible motive for the "double trunk murder."

These doctors and nurses were ready to testify about the bickering and quarreling which disturbed the quiet hospital routine as Mrs. Judd, the attractive young wife of an elderly Los Angeles physician, complained that Mrs. Leroi, who worked as technician in the X-ray department, was "getting all the breaks."

FLAMING HATE

That a jealously even more flaming may have sent Mrs. Judd back to that bungalow on the fateful night of October 16, 1931, was expected to be related by Miss Moore, the pretty clinical nurse.

The state hoped to conclude its case today.

Among states witnesses to be called today were Phoenix police who investigated at the bungalow where Mrs. Leroi and Miss Samuelson were slain and also inspected Mrs. Judd's apartment into which, it is charged, she removed the bodies before shipping them in trunks to Los Angeles.

NEW BEER, WINE BILL IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—A new proposal to modify the Volstead act was submitted to Congress today as the association against the prohibition amendment appealed to wets and drys alike to grant a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment.

Representative Golder (Rep.), of Pennsylvania introduced a bill in the House sponsored by the League for the Modification of the Volstead Act which legalizes four per cent beer, 14 per cent wine, permits medicinal liquor to be sent by parcel post and removes restrictions on physicians' prescriptions.

The modification league, supporting the wine amendment, said California courts had ruled wine a non-intoxicating beverage.

House Quiz to Sift Rumors of 'Akron'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The House Naval Committee tomorrow will begin its investigation of reported defects in the world's largest airship, the Akron. Chairman Vinson said his committee intended to "find out just what, if anything, is wrong with the Akron."

'Alfalfa Bill' Scored For Alien Artist

25 Pct. Tax on Bootleggers Urged Before Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Bootleggers and speakeasy operators will be assessed a 25 per cent tax on their gross receipts under a plan submitted today to the House Ways and Means Committee to help balance the nation's budget.

The recommendation was made by Joseph J. Klein, of New York, associate professor of taxation, College of the City of New York, and a member of a firm of certified public accountants. He said:

"Regardless of our views of the virtues of prohibition, it is a source of almost universal chagrin that the profits of the bootlegger and the speakeasy operator appear to be immune from taxation.

"I suggest that a flat tax of at least 25 per cent be imposed on the entire gross receipts from all sources of the person or organization engaged in such unlawful activities, and that the levy be retroactive to at least 1930.

"The proposal cannot be construed as in any way condoning trafficking in liquor, but merely as providing a substitute for a tax which is admittedly more enforced in the breach than in the observance."

RICH VICTIM FREED AS FAKE NOTE SPLITS KIDNAP GANG

3 GUNMEN ROB DRUG STORE DOWNTOWN

Bandits Peril Girl, 3 Men, Escape With $483; Scene Of Murder Last August.

Three armed robbers entered the Walgreen drug store at Sixth avenue and Wood street — where an assistant manager was fatally wounded in a holdup August 4 — locked two clerks, one a girl, and the porter in the basement early today and then forced M. Epstein, assistant manager, to open the store safe. They escaped with $483, police were told.

Thomas Price, the manager, who was in another store at the time, told police that the men drew revolvers after ordering soft drinks, and forced Catherine Cain and Howard Hancock, clerks, and P. Walter, porter, into the cellar.

FORCED TO OPEN SAFE

Epstein was then ordered to open the safe. While he was opening it one of the men rifled the cash register, and after the others had scooped up the contents of the safe they fled.

The same store was held up a year ago, when the manager was killed.

Anna Kranick, 20, of 3229 Juliet street, and John Latch, of Coltart square, told Oakland police that while they were seated in a machine in the University drive, a robber smashed the window of the machine and escaped after securing $9 from the girl and $19 and a watch from Latch.

"I'm sorry you got cut."

Then he strolled leisurely away, Latch said.

ROBBED BY COUPLE

George Hill, of 6020 Cypress street, told police he was robbed of $50 and a watch by a man and a woman who attacked him in a hallway at 714 West North avenue, where he had been invited to attend a party.

Mrs. Louise Brazell, 3515 Penn avenue, reported to police that when she was about to enter her home she was held up by two men, who took a ring valued at $150.

Mrs. Brazell struggled with her assailants and was knocked down. Both her eyes were blackened and her jaw bruised.

Two men held up Jerry O'Shea, of 4326 Millgate street, in Minerva street, according to a police report, and took $15.

NEW CAB FIRM PROPOSED HERE

A new cab service which will offer approximately 50 per cent reduction in fares is being proposed for Pittsburgh, it was learned through an application on file with the Public Service Commission. The hearing was to have been held today, but postponement was made at the request of attorneys for both the applicant and protestant.

The new concern is to be known as the City Cab Corporation. It is to be one of the subsidiaries of companies operating in Cleveland, Baltimore and Washington where the zone system is in force. Plans call for the use of nearly 300 machines of the light type and employment of local drivers.

Registration for Jobs On Dam Scheduled

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 25.—R. L. Meermans, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. and superintendent of the New Castle State Cooperative Employment Bureau, will have charge of the registration of the unemployed of Beaver County, at Rochester, Thursday and Friday of this week, who desire to work on the Pymatuning Dam project.

OIL CITY, Jan. 25.—One hundred men from Venango County will receive employment on the Pymatuning Dam project during the next six months, W. R. Magee, in charge of employment for Venango County, said.

Wendell Claimant Hopes for $10,000,000

GRANBY, Mo., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—A $10,000,000 share in the huge Ella Wendell estate was believed possible for Mrs. Maggie Perry Yost, 72-year-old millinery store operator, who assertedly traces her relationship, on her mother's side, to the late New York recluse. Records and papers, now in the possession of Representative J. J. Manlove, are said to show that Mrs. Yost is a blood cousin of Ella Wendell.

N. Y. Gets Cash To Pay Old Bills

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The banking syndicate which last week underwrote and sold for New York city a $100,000,000 issue of 6 per cent corporate notes, today placed that amount of money to the credit of the municipality.

Thus New York was able to pay current bills, some of which had been up while the city government was negotiating with the bankers.

HARDING DEATH HELD FACTOR IN SLUMP

Daugherty Declares Late President Faced Great Career, in 'Inside Story'

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The late President Harding is defended by Harry M. Daugherty as a man who, had he lived, would have gone down in history as one of the country's greatest presidents.

In a book published today, much of which had previously been revealed by his collaborator, the former United States Attorney General asserts the country "might have escaped the boom and collapse of business" that followed Harding's death had he lived for a triumphant re-election.

DEFENDS SELF

Daugherty's own career is pictured in "The Inside Story of the Harding Tragedy," which he wrote in collaboration with Thomas Dixon, as that of a blameless and courageous public servant, driven from office by the Reds of Moscow, by the American Federation of Labor, by friends of millionaires whom he jailed under the Sherman anti-trust law, and by influential Republicans whose displeasure he aroused.

The famous "Little Green House on K Street" is denounced as a myth. Daugherty denies that either he or Harding ever entered the place.

COOLIDGE OATH

One hitherto unrecorded bit of history emerges with the book. Daugherty writes that President Coolidge quietly received the oath of office a second time after he had been sworn in by his father in the old Coolidge homestead in Vermont. Daugherty had advised Coolidge, he writes, that the legality of the first oath might be questioned.

Mrs. Biddle Thrilled by Gunplay Hoax

MRS. EDWARD M. BIDDLE

Triangle 'Killing' at Dance in Alaska To Awe Visitor

SEWARD, Alaska, Jan. 25.—(Universal)—Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, society woman of Philadelphia, now exploring the wilds of Alaska, experienced a realistic but make-believe shooting affray at Nanana that gave her "the thrill of her life."

The affray, staged for Mrs. Biddle's benefit at a dance given in her honor, took place just before she departed for the Kantishna River country.

The act involved a "jealous husband" and "the other man," the parts taken by leading citizens of Nanana.

While the band blared full blast, W. J. Barrow, noted Alaska flier, and Slim Johnson, began to quarrel violently.

Johnson shouted:

"You keep away from my wife or I'll plug you."

Barrows replied:

"You mind your own business!"

Men shouted. Women screamed. Men and women rushed for cover. Some tried to leave by way of windows.

Then there was the flash of a gun . . . Barrows fell to the floor . . . and was carried out . . . dead.

After the hoax was exposed and some of the frightened dancers had been coaxed to return, Mrs. Biddle admitted she had been "nervous."

CHIEF'S RUSE SAVES $50,000 IN RANSOM

Suspecting 'Double Cross' by Pal to Get Cash, Outlaws Release Denver Baker

DENVER, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Return of Benjamin P. Bower from a mountain cabin in which kidnapers held him five days was followed quickly today by revelation of a coup whereby police and a newspaper tricked the gangsters into suspecting each other of treachery and thus broke up the plot to extort $50,000 from Bower's family.

Mr. Bower

Bower, 62-year-old Denver bakery manager, was taken by motor car to West Denver and released early yesterday. His eyes were covered with adhesive tape, which he was instructed to wear until he could no longer hear the motor of the kidnapers' car.

SUSPICION IN GANG

In a copyrighted article the Rocky Mountain News revealed it had published last Saturday morning a false note written by Police Chief Albert T. Clark and purporting to have been received by Mrs. Bower from the kidnapers, to create suspicion in the minds of the gangsters.

Although almost identical with one written by Bower to his wife Friday, the note differed in designation of a place of rendezvous for the payment of the ransom, indicating one of the members, probably the "pay off man," had destroyed the original, substituting the fictitious, in an effort to grab the $50,000.

The desired result was achieved and Bower was released as a result of the note, the News said. It reported there were four men in the gang.

VICTIM UNDER GUARD

Bower is being kept under heavy guard at his home because of a threat made by one of his captors as he was being released. Bower was told:

"You'd better get that $50,000 together because we'll be back to see you in a day or two."

Joyous at his escape from the gang which dragged him from his home last Tuesday night, Bower said the tape never was taken from his eyes save for a brief moment when he wrote a short letter to his wife at dictation of the men who guarded him. He said:

"They fed me ham and eggs, strawberry jam and bread. It was dark all the time and the place was warm, so I slept. They treated me civilly and didn't harm me in any way."

The News said it was "reliably informed that not one cent of the $50,000 demanded by Bower's abductors has been paid, and not one cent will be paid."

DELAY DRAWING RIOT OVER FOOD OF KLINE PANEL WRECKS PRISON

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 25.—Selection of the 75 talesmen from which the jury for the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, and his ousted supplies director, Bertram L. Succop, will be taken, was delayed today until the new Jury Commissioners' clerk can be sworn into office.

District Attorney E. H. Negley has requested Sheriff Thompson to inform him of the drawing date—which probably will be fixed for the latter part of the week—so he can attend and personally witness the selection from the wheel in which 900 names were placed by the Jury Commissioners the first of the year.

Subpenas were served on commonwealth witnesses today for their appearance at the trial of Mayor Kline on malfeasance charges scheduled to begin in Butler County Court March 14.

Grenet Now Willing To Talk, Park Says

Assemb'yman S. J. Grenet, whom subpena servers failed to find while the December grand jury was probing the affairs of the former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley with the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, is ready to talk to him, District Attorney Andrew F. Park said today.

Park said he is too busy now to talk to Grenet, reported to be in Chicago, but that he will hear him later and decide whether Grenet's story should go before a grand jury.

Bunting Wins Delay In Alderman's Court

Harry Bunting, former chief clerk in the county delinquent tax collector's office, who is charged with embezzling $18,000, won a postponement of his hearing before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan today. County Detective Mike Stabile explained that Bunting, bedfast in the county jail hospital, was too ill to appear. Bunting was arrested Friday night as he was being taken to a Pennsylvania Railroad train in a wheel chair.

Postal Robber Tells Of Good Time in Pen

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Disgusted with a life of crime, a postoffice robber today begged Federal Judge Charles C. Simons to sentence him to a long term at Leavenworth Penitentiary. Burt Lindsay, 40, and his pal, Clarence E. Lence, 38, of Chicago, were each given five-year terms for stealing mail bags from New York Central trains at Hudson and Jonesville, Mich.

Lindsay in asking the court for a long term said he had enjoyed life at Leavenworth prison.

Italian Aviators Quit Record Flight

TABORA, Tanganyika, East Africa, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Italian aviators, Francis Lombardi and Leonida Robbiano, who were attempting to establish a new record for a flight from Rome to Capetown, abandoned the flight today because they were far behind the record.

Mrs. Hurley to Name Towboat Mark Twain

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Bearing a bottle of water from the Arkansas River, Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, arrived here today to christen the Mark Twain, an Inland Waterways Corporation towboat.

In the party of government officials were Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, executive chairman of the board of directors of the corporation, and Mrs. Ashburn.

Warren Wife Slayer Files Insanity Plea

WARREN, O., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Arch F. Knisely, prominent Warren clubman charged with first-degree murder of his wife, today entered a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity. Knisely was alleged to have shot his wife as she entered a downtown building last January 13. He fled through Pennsylvania and West Virginia, but gave himself up four days later at Wheeling, W. Va.

Weather Conditions.

An offshoot from the plateau high is now centered over the Lower Ohio Valley, while the pressure remains stationary. There is a center of low pressure over Quebec, one over Alberta and one south of New Mexico. The weather is mostly clear over the country this morning. The southern low is causing rain over Texas and Louisiana and conditions are far north as Central Missouri, while the northeastern low is causing rain and light snow fall in that section. There was a drop in temperature over the states east of the Mississippi since yesterday, while over the Mississippi Valley and the central states the temperature change was towards warmer.

STRIKE OF REDS IN SPAIN FAILS

MADRID, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The Communist revolutionary strike at noon today appeared to have failed.

Barcelona, seat of the Red activity, was calm as federal troops had the situation well under control. The most serious disturbance was at Seville, where Communists and civil guards exchanged shots.

While Jesuit priests today quietly left the country or fled to friends' homes and donned civilian clothes under the dissolution order signed by President Zamora, the government busily began confiscation of all the property of the Catholic order. There were no disorders.

About $30,000,000 in church property was readily available.

Swift Summer Home Near Chicago Looted

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Loot of undetermined value was taken by robbers who entered the summer home of Gustavus Swift, president of Swift & Co., Saturday. The robbery was not discovered until late yesterday when the caretaker entered the house.

The house, located near the Great Lakes naval training station, was ransacked and many valuable articles were reported missing.

Blast Wrecks Theater In Chicago Film War

The bombing was blamed on a renewal of the war between theater owners and the motion picture operators' union by Benjamin Bartelstein, owner of the theater.

HOUSE SLASHES INTERIOR FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Slashing $6,273,920 from President Hoover's budget estimates, the House Appropriations Committee today reported the Interior Department supply bill for the next fiscal year, carrying $50,431,432.

The Interior bill, third of the supply bills reported thus far, is likewise the third to suffer at the hands of the Appropriations Committee. The committee cut $14,000,000 from the first deficiency bill and $11,000,000 from the agriculture bill.

The committee included a clause similar to one in the agriculture bill prohibiting salary increases in the same grade and promotions except where vital to conduct of government business.

Mother of Eight Killed by Train

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Nellie Lambert, 30, of Perrysville, O., the mother of eight children, was killed when struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train near Scio, Harrison County, yesterday.

Mrs. Lambert was walking on the tracks with her sister, Rhoda Arbergast, toward the home of her parents, when the train rounded a curve. Her sister jumped to safety.

WHEELER ASKS 16 TO 1 SILVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Urging passage of his bill to stabilize silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, today told the Senate, remonetization of silver was essential to the restoration of prosperity. He said:

"In the light of what has happened in Germany, France and England since the war, it should be evident to all that for the United States to remain alone on the gold standard and maintain low commodity price levels is a handicap which industry cannot hope to overcome and the farmer and laborer will not long endure."

Wheeler said he failed to see how the administration's program would accomplish anything beyond temporary relief for the bankers, the railroads and insurance companies.

Army Air Pilot Cited for Heroism

Stranger's $8.75 Saves Jocelyn Lee From Jail

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A loan of $8.75 from a stranger saved Jocelyn Lee, film actress, from going to jail Saturday. She pleaded guilty before Judge Joseph Paul to charges of failing to pay an $8.75 wage claim and to giving a check without sufficient funds.

Judge Paul sentenced her to pay a fine of $100 or go to jail for 30 days. She tearfully protested that she was penniless and had two children to support. Judge Paul suspended the sentence on condition that she pay the $8.75 to Ollie Wagenlander, her former maid. Miss Lee said:

"But I haven't even got $8.75."

Whereupon a spectator advanced and tendered the amount.

RIGHT now it will pay you well to take a careful look at the new motor cars offered for 1932.

In a dozen ways they make plain why they have aroused more talk and interest than any cars in recent years.

And threading through all the comment about these stunning new models you hear two words again and again.

These two words are "safety" and "silence."

Safety—in lower center of gravity, better balance, better control, better brakes.

Because safety and silence have become the mark of the modern motor car you will find an impressive number of 1932 models on a most remarkable new tire.

Up to now there has been only one way to make a tire silent, and that was to sacrifice safety and traction by putting "sled-runner" ribs in the center of the tread.

This newest Goodyear keeps all the safe-gripping traction right in the center of its famed All-Weather Tread design—yet still banishes vibration—does away with noise by shifting a fraction of an inch of rubber.

It gives you silence plus safety.

You simply don't know what smooth-riding silent-rolling comfort and quick-stopping safety are, until you try one of the new cars on a set of these quiet, sure-footed Goodyears.

So take the wheel of any one of the 1932 cars shod with the Silent All-Weather—and give yourself a brand new thrill from driving!

Safety with Silence

Non-skid treads are vital to safety, and the new Goodyear Silent All-Weather gives you that safety, yet ends all noise and vibration by the shifting of a fraction of an inch of rubber in the husky blocks of the design, so that blocks of the same size never follow each other. The result is the quietest, smoothest-running non-skid tread that ever gripped a highway hopped blithely, with our men and our millions.

The first item was what we called Spanish influenza, that killed millions. The next was the sudden depression, now lifting, we hope. The third is this Soviet propaganda and its uprisings, so disturbing to our best minds.

THE AVERAGE uninformed citizen believes that Russia deliberately butchered a kind czar and his family, abandoning a state of national bliss for the horrors of communism.

If you will read, in Von Bulow's recently published memoirs, the few pages in which he tells of the Kaiser's visit to the Russian court, you will learn with amazement that modern Russia is as mild as mother's milk, compared with the old Russia of czars and grand dukes.

For instance read this:

The Czar sent Count Muravieff to put down disorder in Lithuania. Muravieff, on arrival, received from the chief of police a list of one hundred suspects and marked at random twenty of them to be hanged next day. When the chief protested that those selected were among the least guilty, Muravieff replied:

"That is all right. When justice comes like lightning from a cloud, it strikes the greatest terror."

TOLD THAT Polish women had scattered flowers on the graves of his first victims, Muravieff "had the corpses dug up, and brought to the parade ground. They were barely covered with earth, and over them two Cossack regiments were drilled until the bodies were only shapeless lumps and fragments. Half a century later the Russian revolution and bolshevism gave the answer to such cruelty."

READ WALIZEWSKI'S history of Ivan the Terrible and his history of Peter the Great and you will be able to judge Modern Russia. Absolute tyranny and obedience ruled under the czars. The change has been for the better.

Von Bulow tells of one Muravieff, who was hanged by the Czar's order. The rope broke, dropping this particular Count Muravieff-apostle. While the hangman was preparing another rope, Muravieff, on the ground, remarked in French:

"In Russia they do not know how to do anything well, not even how to hang people."

BISMARCK LIKED to tell about a Russian sentry observed by Tsar Nicholas first standing stiff and silent in front of a bare rose bush. Fifty years before the Russian Empress Catherine II noticed a beautiful rose on that bush and gave orders that a soldier stand beside it, letting no one pluck it.

The order had not been countermanded and a soldier had stood there, night and day for 50 years. Tsar Nicholas discontinued the guard.

KILLS DIVORCEE, ENDS OWN LIFE

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A faithless wife was shot to death yesterday and 16 hours later an errant husband, who abandoned a wife and six children to be with her, killed himself to evade arrest for murder.

Officers said they believed David Schafer, 35, killed Mrs. Josephine Hudson, 24, because he believed she was planning to return to her divorced husband, Ray Hudson, and the two children whom she left last summer.

A shot, believed to have been the one that killed Mrs. Hudson, was heard about 5 a. m., but it was four hours later when her body was found slumped in an automobile in suburban Dearborn. Her description, broadcast by radio, and a newspaper photograph led to her identification 12 hours later, simultaneously by her former husband, who lives near Ann Arbor, Mich., and Sheriff Jacob B. Andres, of Washtenaw County.

Sheriff Andres dispatched three deputies to the farm home where Schaefer's wife and children live. While they were talking to Mrs. Schaefer, the fugitive killed himself.

O'CONNOR CITES 2 IN SHOOTING

James O'Connor, 21, nephew of Police Magistrate James J. O'Connor, today named Joseph Magnone, 21, of Chianti street, and Philip Scarpino, 21, of Shady avenue, as the two who shot him during an argument in a poolroom at 605 Larimer avenue, December 4.

A statement from O'Connor, who is recovering in Pittsburgh Hospital, was read at Central Police Court. Magnone and Scarpino denied the shooting, but were held for court on one charge of felonious shooting, five charges of pointing firearms, four charges of robbery and one charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The robbery charges were based on four store holdups. They are said to have admitted one. Detectives testified that when the two were arrested they were toting two revolvers stolen from the Hunt Armory.

SCHOOL BOARD WAITS AUDIT OF FUNDS

Solicitor Declares None of Its Money Was Tied Up by Schooley in Franklin Bank

J. Rodgers McCreery, solicitor for the Board of Education, wants to know what has become of the audit of the City Treasurer's office as it pertains to School Board funds. He made this statement today after a conference with George F. Taylor, Jr., special deputy secretary of banking.

"What I want to know is where is the audit? If I remember correctly it was October 10 or 11 that I told the auditors to go ahead and investigate the school board's records. I haven't been able to get a report from them yet. I've been promised reports day after day, but haven't gotten any."

McCreery's conference with Taylor presumably had to do with school funds improperly deposited in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company by the City Treasurer's office. But he said he had yet to learn when there were any school funds tied up in the closed bank. It is revealed that any discrepancies that existed have been accounted for to the School Board. City Controller James P. Kerr would will have to show there were school funds in the bank, McCreery said.

Taylor today planned to confer with Controller Kerr on unsecured city deposits reported given the bank by former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, and with City Treasurer Richard W. Thompson concerning the search for these missing securities.

Schooley, ill for months and his discharged investigator, Arthur Burgoyne, both indicted, were expected to appear tomorrow at Taylor's hearing into the affairs of the closed bank.

CLUBBER KILLS THIRD VICTIM

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—A maniacal club-wielder was sought today as the possible perpetrator of the "cross-word puzzle" murder of Dr. James M. Shaffer, 54, dentist.

The vicious slaying of the kindly neighborhood dentist, police pointed out, strikingly resembles two other unsolved murders committed within the past 10 days.

In the two previous killings, both victims—Charles Tyrrell, 45, and Charles Pagel, 48—were middle-aged. Both were mysteriously clubbed to death and in neither of the murders could robbery or any other motive be discovered.

Dr. Shaffer was bludgeoned to death from behind as he sat in his neighborhood office, poring over a partially solved cross-word puzzle. His skull was crushed with a blunt, heavy weapon.

Gazzam Street Home Damaged by Flames

Fire badly damaged the home of Charles Wiley, Negro, at 33 Gazzam street shortly before noon today. The house, a two-story frame, is located far up Gazzam hill on a dirt road, more than half a mile from the nearest fire hydrant.

Mrs. Wiley, her two children, Charles, Jr., 5, and Irene, 7 months, and two boarders, Mrs. Frank Heckman and Mrs. Sylvania Tole, were on the first floor when the fire started upstairs. None of the furniture was saved.

LOYAL TO LAD IN DEATH TRIAL

MISS REGINE RAIMER (FRONT), 17, AND "BILL" MEANS SUSPECT WILLIAM SCHERMMETZER

Miss Raimer, 2310 Sierra street, South Side, who says she'll be loyal to the end to her fiance, William Schermmetzer, young Broughton miner, who with a companion today at Troy, N. Y., went to trial for the roadside slaying of a questioning New York state trooper last summer.

2 MINERS TRIED FOR MURDER

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Stanley Chero and William Schemnitzer, Broughton (Pa.) youths, went to trial today in county court for the murder of Trooper Sergt. John F. Frey.

Schemnitzer and Chero, pale from their long confinement in jail, sat soberly facing Judge James F. Breuton as the preliminaries to the selection of a jury were disposed of. Chero limped into the crowded court room on crutches. His left leg was amputated as result of a wound from a bullet received when he tried to escape McAlester, Okla., police. The youths were captured in McAlester after a 1500 mile flight from the scene of the slaying near here.

Near the accused men were their relatives, Mrs. Mary Ann Jupina, 22, of Pittsburgh, sister of Chero, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schemnitzer, parents of William, and their daughter, Edith.

DOCTOR KILLED BY CYANIDE

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary has found that cyanide, probably absorbed from a solution with which he was making experiments in cancer research work, caused the death of Dr. Ernest Chellis Glover.

Dr. Glover, who, at 29, was regarded as having made promising steps in the field of cancer research, was stricken Friday while working in a laboratory at City Hospital.

The doctor, who had been experimenting with fatty substances derived from animal tissue, staggered out of the cubicle in which he was working and fell unconscious, dying within a half hour.

Shower of Beer In Bottles Hurts Teetotaler

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A weather note:

It rained beer in Chicago last night.

Servea Wanderwerf, who said he was a teetotaler, was walking along the street when the shower began.

It came in bottles, apparently from the upper floors of a hotel.

He was taken to a hospital for treatment, a number of the bottles having struck him on the head.

PARENTS SLAIN BY CRAZED VET

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Walter Hoffman, 37, shot and killed his father and mother at their farm home near here yesterday, wounded a brother, and was captured as, gun in hand, he drove into the farmyard of another brother.

Hoffman, a World War veteran, was placed in Allen County Jail. Neighbors said they believed he became crazed during an argument with his parents.

His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, was killed by a bullet fired into her head. The father, Martin Hoffman, farmer and former township trustee, was shot in the head and neck and died in a local hospital. The wounded brother, Ernest Hoffman, 19, was struck in the left arm and chest.

Walter Hoffman refused to explain his acts to police. Deputy Sheriff Charles Coulardot, who arrested him, said he apparently had been drinking.

'OFFICIALS' WIN BRIDGE BATTLE

Pittsburgh's own test of the competing systems of contract bridge today credited the honors of victory to the "official" exponents who defeated their Culbertson adherents by a score of 56 to 44 matches in the 100-hand tournament staged by the Sun-Telegraph and Pittsburgh Bridge Club.

Hundreds of bridge fans followed plays at the club's quarters in William Penn Hotel, where the fourth and final 25-hand session was concluded early yesterday morning. The tournament opened last Monday. Careful playing marked the four sessions staged during the week by the local experts composing the two teams of four players each. Entering the final match Saturday night with the "official" team holding a 13-hand lead, both teams exercised such extreme care in playing that the match lasted until 2 a. m.

Based on duplicate hands, each dial was played by both teams. "Official" players during the week were: Mrs. Grace Lear, R. J. Henderson, H. J. Bailey, George McClure and C. E. Moodey. The Culbertson team was composed of Mrs. Raymond J. Burns, Simon F. Gerber, Ross W. Lappe and Bernard Summer. Discussions on hands were led by Mrs. H. J. Bailey and Mrs. Florence C. Douglas. The referees were George M. Hosack and Ernest H. Heinrichs, Sun-Telegraph bridge expert.

JAPAN READY TO SEIZE FORTS

hai. These posts are guarded with but a few Chinese troops.

SUN TO RESIGNS

Meanwhile, a new governmental crisis arose at Nanking where Sun Fo, chairman of the executive Yuan, a position corresponding to that of premier in a European country, tendered office, after his foreign minister, Eugene Chen, had retired.

Sun Fo declared he fully supported Chen's position that China should either break off diplomatic relations with Japan or call upon the League of Nations to declare an economic boycott of Japan.

A national emergency commission is to be convened at Nanking February 1 with the object of bringing about direct negotiations between China and Japan. Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, ex-president of the Chinese Nationalist government, and Wang Ching-Wei are backing this movement.

PLANES ROUTE BANDITS

Japanese troops, assisted by airplanes, today crossed the border of Jehol pursuing Chinese bandits in a smashing cleanup drive.

One Japanese airplane crashed near Tahushan, a captain and a sergeant being killed while bombing the enemy. A third Japanese was killed and another wounded near the same spot.

Drug Traffic Linked To Japan's Drive

GENEVA, Jan. 25.—(Universal)—Chinese charges that Japan's occupation of Manchuria was partially motivated by a desire to expand its drug traffic are expected to be laid before the League of Nations' council when it convenes today for further consideration of the Chino-Japanese conflict.

W. W. Yen, Chinese minister to Washington and new delegate to the council, is understood to plan the presentation of a document charging that Japan is not only continuing military occupation of Manchuria, but is launching a campaign to spread the use of drugs throughout the Chinese population.

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

U. S. Will Protest Japanese Occupation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The United States will pointedly resent any independent Japanese military activities within the International Settlement at Shanghai for the purpose of coercing Chinese civilians there.

In high administration circles it was indicated today that this government would view with "serious concern" an attempt by Japan to land additional forces in the settlement. Such action could be taken, in accordance with international practice, only upon the ground that Japanese nationals or their property were endangered by lack of adequate protection in the settlement.

So far there has been no official communication between this government and Tokio regarding the situation at Shanghai, but officials here let it be known that they were watching developments in the Yangtze city with growing concern.

Maggie, Jiggs Sign Truce For Capital Dinner Tonight

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(Universal.)—"Maggie" has promised to let "Jiggs" eat all the corned beef and cabbage he can devour when official Washington gathers at the festive board tonight to pay homage to the world's most famous married couple.

The banquet, in honor of the twentieth anniversary of Maggie and Jiggs, the comic creations of George McManus, will be attended by members of the cabinet, senators and representatives and others prominent in diplomatic and official life.

And Jiggs has promised not to shock Maggie's sensibilities by insulting Lord and Lady Bilgewater and others of Maggie's high-tone friends.

Three cabinet members, 31 Senators, 91 Representatives and five members of the diplomatic corps will be among the guests at the dinner, arranged by King Features Syndicate. Speeches will be broadcast over the Columbia system from 10:45 to 11 p. m.

McManus will be the guest of honor. His comic strip, started 26 years ago, is now followed by millions all over the world. It is translated in 29 languages.

Messages have come from many nations wishing Jiggs and Maggie happiness, health and prosperity after a score of embattled years of married life. Among the first to send congratulations was Emil Ludwig, noted German biographer.

PROPOSE BONDS TO MEET EXPO SOCIETY DEBT

Kerr Plans Audit to Decide Whether City Shall Take Over Buildings Now Rented

An issue of 10-year bonds by the city to pay the debt of the Exposition Society of Western Pennsylvania and take over its buildings will be recommended by Controller James P. Kerr, provided an audit shows such a plan to be of advantage to the city.

Controller Kerr said he would confer with City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt today regarding procedure. Waldschmid, has already expressed the opinion that if the debts of the society are paid, the buildings will revert to the city.

The present net debt of the society, according to T. J. Fitzpatrick, of Crafton, its secretary, is $112,000. If this is correct, the city could issue 10-year bonds, pay sinking fund and interest and save about $100,000.

$30,000 YEARLY RENT

The city now pays the society $30,000 a year rent for the Exposition Buildings. The city sublets part of the property and uses the remainder for the municipal garage and repair shop.

Recorded with the 20-year lease, made November 25, 1919, was a stipulation by the society, itemizing the debt of the society as of November 15, 1919, and totaling it at $368,517.78. It pledges the society not to increase this debt and to use all of the $30,000 a year rental money paid by the city, with the exception of interest and not more than $1,500 a year administration expense, to reduce the obligation.

RIGHT GRANTED CITY

The original debt statement did not include life managerships in the society or a "loan account" designated as such. It included bills of the society, payable to contractors and business men, which debts do not bear interest.

An "irrevocable" right is granted to the city to take over the building of the society by paying its debts. Just what these obligations are at present will be determined by auditors of Price, Waterhouse & Co., working under the direction of Controller Kerr.

BOYCOTT SPURS HAWAII REFORM

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Realizing that the United States Navy's boycott of Honolulu as a result of existing conditions will cause a loss estimated at $3,000,000, Honolulu's citizens today moved to hasten legislation to "clean house."

Forty thousand enlisted men will not be allowed shore leave here during the annual winter maneuvers of the fleet.

An intensive training of Navy riot squads for use in any contingency incident to the expected trial of the four Americans charged with killing Joseph Kahahawai, one of five natives accused of attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, the bride of a Navy lieutenant, has started.

The riot squads were supplied with and trained in expert use of sub-machine guns, hand grenades and tear bombs "sufficient to protect the four defendants in event of acquittal, from mob violence," according to Navy officials.

Defense attorneys planned to argue in court today a motion to dismiss the murder charges.

Dance Hall Killers Hunted in Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A dozen thugs who beat and kicked Noel W. English to death early yesterday in the crowded Merry Gardens ball room, attacking with fists and knives other dancers who attempted a rescue, were sought by police today.

Investigators' theories ranged from rivalry between gangs to sudden enmity engendered by English's efforts to stop a group of men who were pushing onto the dance floor.

Ripe Summer Fruit Picked in Virginia

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 25.—(AP.) Residents had to look at the calendar twice to make sure it was January. A ripe, eight-pound watermelon was picked; ripe tomatoes were found in gardens and fishermen reported catching herring and shad. On January 24, at that!

$75,000 Gems Stolen From Boston Store

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The robbery of $75,000 from a Back Bay jewelry store was reported to police yesterday by Gino Peruzzi, the proprietor. Police were seeking a man and a woman who, Peruzzi said, had been frequent visitors to the store in the past two weeks.

Small Boy, Pet Dog Bite Each Other

HORNELL, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Here is news! Dippy, a puppy owned by 3-year-old Clarence Mason, is nursing a badly bitten nose. Little Clarence explained the injury with seven words:

"Dippy bit me and me bit Dippy."

Seward Escapes Damage in Quake

SEWARD, Alaska, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—An earthquake was felt early yesterday, lasting 45 seconds. The movement was from North to South and was distinct, but no damage was done.

MEYER JONASSON'S

Store-wide Janu

HORNE'S

HERE is the long awaited Store-Wide January Clearance at Horne's—all the more intense, vigorous, and uncompromising because of its deferment!

We have delayed the step as long as possible in the hope that favorable weather would accomplish part of what drastic price reductions must now achieve. Our fiscal year closes January 30, and surplus stocks must be reduced many hundreds of thousands of dollars before that date.

Here goes then—and may those who are genuinely thrift conscious profit to the full extent of the opportunities!

It is an all-embracing Sale involving surplus stocks in every department—not only distinctly seasonable things like winter clothing, but staple commodities of daily requirements.

These two pages furnish examples of the savings to be made. Hundreds more will be found throughout the store identified by January Clearance signs. Does anybody need further invitation to replenish seasonable needs under such circumstances?

Women's $10.50 to $18.50 SHOES

Another of those exciting table sales—when women choose two and three pairs of fine Horne shoes—at a mere fraction of their value!

In this group are pumps, straps, and oxfords—shoes for daytime and evening wear—in black and brown kid, black and tan calf, black and brown suede, reptiles, and evening fabrics. There is a wide choice in every size and width—every pair taken from our regular stocks of fine shoes.

KROGER STORES

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

ALICE WHITE, CONRAD Nagel, Lionel Barrymore and other movie stars are to be featured in the Monday programs of the Sun-Telegraph Night Club starting next week. . . . Lois Miller, singing organist, occupies the spotlight of this popular attraction on WCAE at 11:15 tonight. . . . A testimonial dinner for George McManus, whose "Maggie and Jiggs" celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary yesterday, is a WJAS offering at 10:45 tonight, direct from Washington, D. C. . . . "Bugs" Baer as master of ceremonies. . . . If you like bass solos, give Ray Griffin an ear on WCAE at 8, when he sings "The Trumpeter." . . . "Wanting You" from "New Moon" is a Lawrence Tibbett selection on WCAE at 8:30. . . . What could be more appropriate for the tribute to Nevada (WCAE, 9:30) than the "Gold and Silver Waltz" which the orchestra offers as a highlight? . . . A Robert Burns program on KDKA at 9:30 and the debate on prohibition on WCAE at 10 are specials in tonight's Theater of the Air.

Question a Day

Are the musicians in the Western Penitentiary Orchestra, which broadcast yesterday over KDKA, taught to play in prison?—J. J., Negley avenue.

Answer—Some of them, yes. The boys assemble in the prison auditorium half an hour before the broadcast, attired in blue-gray trousers and white shirts. The soloist of this orchestra, who did a good job yesterday on "My Rocky Mountain Home," is a youth of 23 with great vocal promise. The orchestra practices from 6 to 7 p. m. every day and is coached twice a week by E. F. Sullivan, famous conductor of the Kilties Band. These concerts are to be continued the third Sunday of every month.

Studio Lights

While Tom Riggs' character of "Betty" in the "Riggs and Moke" act is purely mythical to him, THERE IS a Betty Riggs in this city . . . she's the wife of Glenn Riggs, KDKA announcer . . .

Everybody's talking China today; there's even a song about China in the Ziegfeld "Follies," said Eddie Cantor last night—"Chine-o-on, Chine-o-on, Harvest Moon" . . . And Cantor certainly scored heavily against Jessel in that game of contrasting names when he rebutted with "Interset, Cal.," for Jessel's "Somerset, Pa." . . .

The girl who sang "Il Bacio" on KQV yesterday has a promising future. . . .

Harry Frankel, the singing Master on KDKA Sundays, gave us an ethereal thrill the way he sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" last night . . . Frankel puts on a splendid show.

Lucille Wall (the Love Story Girl) finds herself stranded on the desert with Alfred Shirley in a new romantic feature, "Caravan," which has its debut on WTIC at 5 tonight . . . Ward Wilson impersonates Calvin Coolidge on WJZ, WLW, WGAR, WSB, at 6:30 . . . Ben Bernie on WABC-WBBM at midnight . . . Noble Sissle on WABC at 12:30 a. m.

If your high school band is preparing for the National Junior Band contest, tune WLW at 9 tonight for a few tips . . .

Stunt men at NBC have signed up radio's most temperamental artist—the Kileau Volcano in the Hawaiian Islands for an encore broadcast . . . date later . . .

Milton J. Cross, tenor-announcer, is to sing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Nearer My God to Thee," in commemoration of the birth of President William McKinley, over WJZ Friday night during Slumber Music . . .

Buddy Rogers and Flo Ziegfeld on WJAS tomorrow night . . . Andy Sannella coming back to NBC-WCAE Friday, February 12, on a sponsored series . . . Joe and Harry getting the glad hand on their return to Pittsburgh . . . KQV every morning at 9:45 . . . Jimmy Zummo, orchestra leader, has sent his pet monkey to the zoo for the winter . . . Only five people in 400 have guessed correctly the identity of the "Falcon" in the KQV play of that name . . . One must have verified reception of 25 stations in California to become a member of the World Radio Reception Club which suggests these DX "trys" for tomorrow (Tuesday) morning—

WTFI, 1450 kcs., Athens, Ga., 500 watts, 2 to 3 a. m.

KREG, 1500 kcs., Santa Ana, Cal., 100 watts, 2 to 3 a. m.

WLW exasperated the patience of many listeners Saturday when they changed the time of the "Follies" to 8 o'clock after announcing the feature for 8:30. . .

Little Mary Ann Bestor, speaking before the KDKA microphone Saturday during the "Raggedy Ann" program, invited all the little kiddies listening-in to visit her at her home in the hotel . . . she's the cutest youngster.

Seibel-ian Humor

George Seibel's talks on the drama and books interest us more than some standard network features and we know a lot of people who have become Seibel fans since the playwright-critic has taken to WCAE waves . . . His discussion of biographies last night was animated and colorful and we chuckled not a little at his remark that true histories now reveal "that Napoleon was a sort of gigolo, Cleopatra chewed gum and George Washington served drinks on election day"—quite upsetting the orthodox conception of these famous lives.

Seibel scored again when, ridiculing sophisticated people, he observed that there are many proclaiming to know the Einstein theory who can't even play contract bridge.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Politicians miss no radio opportunities these days. Not only are they accepting all invitations to speak to the firesides, they are courting the broadcasters as they have not courted them since Coolidge handed over the White House key to Hoover.

They prefer to be courted rather than do the courting themselves. The latter costs money, lots of it, and Raskob and Fess have not yet begun the weary job of collecting it for the big circus just ahead.

The Great God Gab is expected to preside over the American household more than ever this year. Broadcasters are already making plans, believing that the greater part of the campaign will be fought upon the microphones. And the plans call for no reduction in radio rates. Politicians will pay—and like it—$14,000 for an hour of network broadcasting.

Meanwhile, they watch each other's microphone activities as a crooner watches his rival, in order that one may not have had an advantage over the other.

* * *

But with all their watching there's an occasional slip, an occasional victory for one side to the discomfiture of the other. To date victory is to the G. O. P. The radio score stands:

Republicans 1
Democrats 0

And all because Secretary of Agriculture Hyde used his recent radio time not to remark upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, as he was scheduled to, but to deliver a rip-roaring campaign speech for Herbert Hoover.

* * *

Where were the Democrats? Why, they were busy counting out their hard-won money ($3,000 of it to be exact), paying for 15 paltry minutes of radio time in which to transmit some of their oratory at a so-called "victory dinner" to the parlors of the land.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

In spite of so many intriguing activities here at home, folks will succumb to that wanderlust that annually takes them to Palm Beach. The Pittsburgh colony there swells day by day until I wonder there is anyone left here. The R. P. Morrows are spending the season at the Breakers, and gave a tea last week in the Everglades Club. Hamilton Marshall and Daniel Wallace, of Sewickley, flew their plane there to attend the air meet at Miami, later visiting the Christopher D. Smitherses of Pelican Point, Delray.

Mrs. William M. Brown, of Pittsburgh, is leaving for Palm Beach soon to visit her son-in-law and daughter, the DeGrimm Renfros, of New Castle, who have opened their villa on the ocean front.

Dr. C. L. Lewis and his sister, Mrs. Alfred Hicks, arrived recently at the Royal Poinciana. The Thomas L. Cowells, of Pittsburgh and New York, who opened their villa "Mi Estrallita" in December, have returned to New York for a short time.

* * *

And now I can tell you who'll be in the cast of the first of the plays to be presented by Stage and Play on February 16 in the Twentieth Century Club. The play, "Pistol for One," is by Carroll Pittsburgh, president of the society, you know, and he will direct the cast. Mrs. Joseph Dilworth and George Collinson Burgwin, Jr.

* * *

Among the Pittsburgh women who are aiding Mrs. Charles Sumner Shoemaker, Pittsburgh chairman of the Frontier Nursing Service cruise beginning February 27, are Mrs. William Robinson Blair, Mrs. George Hubbard Clapp, Mrs. William Frew, Miss Mabel Lindsay Gillespie, Mrs. William Maclay Hall, Mrs. Howard Heinz, Mrs. Roy Arthur Hunt, Miss Laetitia Hunter, Mrs. Alexander Hays Hunter, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. Dudley S. Liggett and Mrs. George H. Love.

Aiding in Cruise

Catholic Council Head To Sail on Wednesday

Miss Mary G. Hawks, president of the National Council of Catholic Women and member of the Bureau of the International Union of Catholic Women's Leagues, sailed Wednesday to attend a meeting of the bureau, beginning February 20, in Geneva. Miss Hawks is accompanied by Miss Anna Dill Gamble, representative of the council on the joint peace committee of the union. The two will be in Geneva for the opening of the disarmament conference on February 2. Following the bureau meeting, Miss Hawks will go to Rome to present the greetings of the National Council to Pope Pius XI. She has accepted an invitation from the Pittsburgh Council to speak on World Peace on her return from Europe.

T. R., Jr. to Sail For Manila Feb. 6

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(INS)—Theodore Roosevelt will sail from Seattle on February 6 to assume his post as governor general of the Philippines, he announced today.

NEW NAVY BILL TO BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The House Naval Committee today approved the $616,250,000 Vinson naval construction bill, but postponed indefinitely future action by the Congress.

The bill likely will not be reported formally to the House until at least the next session.

After the committee voted 18 to 0, in favor of the bill, Chairman Vinson issued this statement:

"In view, however, of the very abnormal economic conditions which now confront us at home and abroad, and in the hope that some substantial result may be achieved at Geneva, the committee in agreement with the chairman has voted—for the time being—not to report the bill to the House."

Two members present did not vote. They were Representatives McClintic (Dem.), of Oklahoma, and Andrew (Rep.), of Massachusetts.

Drama Department to Present Major Productions as Part Of Fortnights' Program

The three major productions listed on the year's calendar of the department of drama, Mt. Lebanon Women's Club, will be presented within the next fortnight, beginning tomorrow afternoon with the radio broadcast of "The Grapes Hang High." This will be given during the Congress of Clubs hour, 2 o'clock, over KDKA. The cast is Mrs. Robert Kunz, Mrs. James Townsend, Mrs. W. W. Boyle and Mrs. Herman Hoffman.

The performances of the three-act benefit play, "Happiness," will be given tomorrow and Wednesday nights in the Washington School auditorium. This cast includes Mrs. A. J. Klein, Mrs. W. H. Walters, Mrs. H. D. Allen, Mrs. Catherine Harper, Mrs. A. M. Ramsey and Mrs. G. A. Danielson.

Joining in the main club's observance of the Washington bicentennial on February 8, the players will give "A Cup of China Tea," one act with a colonial motif. In the cast are to be Mrs. W. W. Boyle, Mrs. Herman Hoffman, Mrs. James Townsend, Mrs. Rolf Griem, Mrs. L. A. Wallgren, Mrs. G. A. Danielson and Mrs. C. L. Hickling.

The date for the next meeting of Le Foyer Francais, to be held at the International Institute, South Dithridge street, has been changed from Wednesday to next Monday.

BRITON QUITS LEAGUE POST

GENEVA, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Sir Eric Drummond, who has been secretary general of the League of Nations since its formation, submitted his resignation today at a meeting of the league council, but the council deferred action.

His action was not unexpected. It was said the climate at Geneva is bad for Mrs. Drummond's health; that Sir Eric has been wounded by criticism of the league's efforts to settle the Manchurian controversy; that Great Britain wants him back at home to take a hand in domestic affairs.

There has been some agitation to open the important position of secretary general to other nations, and Italy, Germany and several smaller countries have said the high league posts should be available to all league members.

Pleads 'Not Guilty' In Marriage Graft

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Deputy City Clerk James J. McCormick today entered a formal plea of not guilty to two indictments resulting from his acceptance of gratuities from couples he married in the municipal chapel.

COXEY MARCHES AGAIN—ALONE

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—(INS)—Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, Sr., veteran leader of unemployed armies, marched on Columbus alone today to present to Gov. George White a unique financial plan for food and financial relief of Massillon residents.

The grizzled campaigner hopes to receive official sanction for the issuance of $200,000 in bonds in his home city. The issue would be made on paper the size of ordinary dollar bills and would be divided into 50,000 bonds of $1 denomination, 10,000 of $5, and 10,000 of $10. All would be issued for a 25-year period at an interest rate of one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The "money," although not regarded as legal tender, would be accepted by the city for debts, fines and in the purchase of necessities.

Fire Truck Crashes Trolley, 2 Hurt

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(INS)—Two firemen were hurt and a score of passengers on a crowded trolley were shaken up and thrown into a panic when the hose cart of a fire truck struck the trolley today.

Third Victim Dies From Wood Alcohol

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 25.—The third death from wood alcohol poisoning since Saturday occurred today when William Livingston, 40, of Wheeling, died. Two men died Saturday and three others found with Livingston are recovering in Memorial Hospital.

4 ESCAPE FIRE OVER ROOFS

Four persons made their way over house tops to safety early today when fire swept their apartment homes in Soho, causing an estimated damage of $500.

Several pets, two love birds owned by Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Crawford, president of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, a canary, "Susie," a parrot and a dog were rescued.

The love birds, "Romeo and Juliet" owned by Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, who are in the South, were being cared for by Mrs. Mabel Morgan.

The fire, discovered in a stairway between 2218 and 2220 Fifth avenue. The alarm was sounded by John Feenan, of 2104 Fifth avenue, who awakened Mr. and Mrs. Abe Gardner, and his granddaughter, Evelyn Norton, 17, occupants of the third floor at 2218.

Rose Sanders, resident of an adjoining building, awakened by smoke, aroused Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morgan and their 12-year-old daughter, Doris. Morgan assisted his family to the street over the rooftops and then returned for Mrs. Gardner and Miss Norton.

150 Workers Fill Pymatuning Camp

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Pymatuning Dam Camp No. 1, at Espyville, was filled today with a new consignment of workmen from Meadville, Oil City, Erie and Franklin. Two hundred ten men are now at work. A. W. Motley, of the Department of Labor and Industry, said. 150 are living in the camp and 60 are commuting.

Heavy mud is slowing up work on the project, but No. 2 camp at Westford, with 150 men, will be filled by the end of the week.

'Metempsychosis' Wins for Girl Over Judge

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The word "metempsychosis" cast its spell over a distinguished company of actors, jurists and a state Senator or two last night, and Miss Nellie Callahan knew the answer.

Before Miss Callahan spelled that word correctly such persons as Supreme Court Justice William Harman Black and State Senator Henry L. O'Brien had gone down on "anthropophagi" and "mucilaginous," respectively.

Justice Black, after missing fire on "anthropophagi," inquired of Harrison Grey Fiske (who was conducting the spell-down for the Catholic Actors' Guild of America) what the word meant. Fiske said:

"You're out. I'm running this."

PARKS GROUP ASKS CHARTER

The Greater Pittsburgh Parks Association was to apply for a charter in court today, to make a comprehensive study of parks and playgrounds and co-operate with city and county authorities in planning future development of outdoor recreation.

The association will soon begin a survey through means of a grant of $18,000 by the Buhl Foundation, it was announced.

Arabs Urge Battle On 'Imperialism'

JERUSALEM, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Immediate formation of a Pan-Arabian federation, with powers to combat "imperialism," was demanded in a manifesto issued by five leading Moslems who form an executive committee for the calling of a Pan-Arabian congress.

They said the Arab countries were an indivisible unit and demanded complete independence. Parts of Arabia have inderendent status, while other parts are more or less under British protection.

VOTE ON RAIL PAY SECRET

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Labor took a secret vote today on the proposal of the railways to trim wages 10 per cent.

In secret meetings, the 850 general chairmen of brotherhoods and unions read the latest pronouncement of the railroad presidents on the wage and unemployment issues.

Some of the smaller labor organizations already had delegated plenipotentiary authority to their representatives on the committee of 21. The opinion of others, notably the "Big Four" of the conductors, the enginemen and firemen, the engineers and trainmen, was being weighed in group meetings.

The view prevailed about the conference that the latest dictum of the railway executives conceded little more than previous statements, but was drafted. Chairman Daniel Willard, of the presidents' committee, said, "to meet more nearly the view of labor."

The presidents were in conference, but there was no joint meeting scheduled today.

Churchill Scarred By Crash, Returns

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Displaying a deep scar on his forehead where the radiator of a New York taxicab struck him, Winston Churchill, British statesman, arrived today from Nassau, the Bahamas, to fulfill a long delayed lecture tour.

He went to Nassau to recuperate from injuries suffered in a traffic accident shortly after his arrival in New York several weeks ago.

Mencken Declares Cuba 'More Civilized'

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 25.—(INS)—H. L. Mencken, the noted American critic, author and journalist, is here in quest of Cuban bean soup rather than the scalps of blue law defenders. Stalked in a sidewalk cafe, Mencken, accompanied by his wife, declared that he liked the Cubans, saying:

"They are more civilized than the Americans."

Wife Ill, Hoover Alone at Church

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Because Mrs. Herbert Hoover is still confined to the White House with a slight cold, the President yesterday went to church alone. With his customary guard of secret service men he motored to the little gray stone Friends Church for the Quaker services and returned almost immediately to the executive mansion.

DESIGNERS URGE PAJAMAS FOR INFORMAL HOME WEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—It would seem that so far as the pajama is concerned, there is no place like home. Several houses tried to force the pajama as a costume suitable to wear at functions in resorts and restaurants, but the wise woman refused to be stampeded into this fashion and reserved the wearing of pajamas for the home. The pajamas for formal wear were made with leg sections wider than any skirt, with the bifurcation well disguised. And so the majority of women saw no point in wearing a costume that disguised itself, and gave nothing to the appearance that a good evening dress did not confer.

And so, except for individual models ordered by private clients for southern wear, we find that the majority of pajama models are made for informal wear at home, and, although making use of lovely colors and fabrics, refrain from any of the harem look that characterized previous models. Comfort, ease and a delicate charm mark the new models and women here are purchasing several of these pajamas for wear at home, when quiet leisure is the order of things.

* * *

THE NEWEST PAJAMA designs as done by the house of Vionnet and by Chanel are on display in the double drawing presented here. Both models are for informal wear at home. The first is the Vionnet model and has the sleeveless bodice and the wide pajamas done in thin silver lame. A surplice gilet with capelets for the sleeves is worn over the bodice, wrapping closely about the hips and tying at the side back. This of transparent velvet in a lovely deep raspberry shade that is grand with the silver tone of the lame.

* * *

THE CHANEL PAJAMAS have the trousers and jacket of ultra-marine velvet, while the sleeveless blouse is of pale green crepe de chine. The little jacket is cut on Eton lines and has four patch pockets with buttoned flaps. As can be noticed, absence of all fussy details mark the newest and the best models.

DIESEL PLANE UP 23,000 FEET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Clarence Chamberlin reached a height officially estimated at about 23,000 feet yesterday in his first altitude attempt with an oil-motored plane.

Chamberlin took off at 3:30 p. m. watched by a large crowd at Floyd Bennett airport and landed an hour and five minutes later. His altmeter showed a height of only 17,500 feet, but when John Heinmuller, of the National Aeronautical Association, examined the barograph he said the height probably would be 23,000. The barograph will be sent to Washington for calibration.

In this "flying furnace," Chamberlin recently made flights from Jersey City, N. J., to Washington and return.

On the return leg of his journey to the capital Chamberlin said he used only 70 cents worth of fuel oil.

CITY POLICEMAN KILLS SELF

William Flaherty, 41, a subpatrolman, was dead at his home at 3311 Milwaukee street today, a victim of a self-inflicted bullet wound, according to a morgue report.

His mother, Mrs. Anna Flaherty heard the shot and found her son dying. She told morgue authorities the shooting was accidental. Deputy coroners investigating the death said the bullet had been fired at close range into the right temple.

Dismissed from the police department for figuring in an automobile wreck, Flaherty recently had been reinstated on the East Liberty substitute list.

Police Fail in Hunt For Student Nurse

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—An intensive search of a week only deepened the mystery today surrounding the strange disappearance of Minnie Straub, pretty 21-year-old student nurse of the Allentown Hospital. No trace of the girl has been discovered since she dropped out of sight last Saturday a week ago during a recess in her duties at the institution.

Three Youths Held In Attempted Theft

Three Turtle Creek young men were in custody of state police at Greensburg today, charged with a third attempted robbery of John and Andrew Weller, brothers, of near Irwin, Saturday night. The suspects are Paul and William Adams, brothers, and George Relgia, according to Capt. Albert Carlson, of the Greensburg barracks.

GOOD CONDUCT WINS MEDALS

Good conduct medals have been awarded two Pittsburgh boys at Manlius School, Manlius, N. Y., it was announced today. They are William Berger Dunlap, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Dunlap, 516 South Highland avenue, and Thomas Macconnell, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas MacConnell, Jr., 5040 Warwick terrace.

Medals are awarded members of the school battalion of the R. O. T. C., who complete a 10-week period without a demerit. MacConnell has been made a sergeant and Dunlap a sergeant major.

Gas Well and Lease Sold for $135,000

KANE, Pa., Jan. 25.—Robert Hungiville, of Rixford, near here, owner of a gas well recently brought in at Hebron, Potter County, which is producing 8,000,000 cubic feet per day, is reported to have sold the well and lease of 1,300 acres to the Columbia Gas Company. The price is said to have been $135,000.

VATICAN PALACE WALL CRACKS

ROME, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A new long crack from the ground to the roof has appeared on the outside of the east wall of the Vatican Palace, but engineers said there was no fear of the building's collapsing.

The fissure was found after the arched ceiling which had cracked inside the same portion of the palace had been shored up.

The new crack was near the library wing that collapsed a month ago. It was narrow and showed no tendency to widen. Engineers were doubtful as to the cause of the cracks that have appeared lately, but suggested the ground around the foundation piers may have settled.

Ferryman Stabbed, Friend Arrested

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—D. W. McClung, a ferryman, of near Maxwellton, was stabbed, probably fatally, when he answered a call last night. A. H. Christian, his friend, was arrested and held pending outcome of the ferryman's injuries.

Price CONSCIOUSNESS Versus Quality CONSCIOUSNESS

Two Major Considerations For Those Who Will Buy Furniture In The Coming February Sales

Will you buy purely from a price standpoint---wherever you can buy the cheapest? Or will you select with quality consciousness, expecting to pay a fair price, and demanding extra value for your dollar in the February Sales?

Just as there are these two kinds of shoppers, there are two kinds of furniture. Cheap furniture and Good furniture. And two kinds of stores. Those which sell the cheap furniture and those which can be relied on for good furniture.

It is not our prerogative to determine the kind of shopper you are. But we can emphatically state the Boggs & Buhl policy of selling only good furniture and we can address our message on the February Furniture Sale, to the quality conscious shopper who intends to look beyond the price tag, who knows there is something far above price to consider. Who is looking only for good furniture at February Sale savings.

ADVANCE INSPECTION

in the February

FURNITURE SALE

The grandest collection of good furniture (and it's not high priced) we have ever assembled awaits your inspection. Furniture not only dependable for its guaranteed quality, but equally for its smartness, its dignity, charm and good taste. A splendid assortment of the kind of furniture people want today. Carefully selected furniture. Fashion-right furniture. Quality furniture. At February Sale prices as low as good furniture can be bought for.

You are cordially invited to visit the Furniture Floor, and compare Boggs & Buhl styles and prices with any others of equal quality.

Film Makers Wander From Beaten Paths in New Picture Plans

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.

Consider these three titles, which are on Paramount's production schedule: "The Island of Dr. Moreau," by H. G. Wells; "The Man With the Red Hair," by Hugh Walpole, and "R. U. R.," by the Capeks.

Compared to the movies of yesterday, these stories represent giant strides towards unconventional screen entertainment. "The Island of Dr. Moreau" is the tale of a scientist who turns beasts into men. "The Man With the Red Hair," a pure horror story, is a study in progressive sadism. "R-U-R" familiar as a play relates the conquest of the world by robots.

William Powell

Due to its similarity to "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," the Walpole story is in abeyance, but one of the three doubtless will get under way this spring.

At the time of its purchase, Paramount intended "The Man With the Red Hair" as a vehicle for Irving Pichel. Now, Charles Laughton, the English actor, has been put under contract to recreate his London role. Laughton also is slated for the lead in "The Island of Dr. Moreau."

D. P. Schulberg expects this actor to create a sensation on the screen.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

Tired of waiting for Gary Cooper, Paramount is going ahead with the production of "The Glass Key." Carole Lombard has just been assigned the feminine lead opposite Chester Morris. Regis Toomey is another who will figure in this Dashiell Hammett story of mystery and adventure. Screen treatment is by Louis Weitzenkorn, one time newspaperman.

DOINGS IN HOLLYWOOD

William Powell has taken up golf . . . Richard Bennett signed that Paramount contract. It takes effect after he finishes his stage engagement in "Cyrano de Bergerac" . . . War or no war, the Richard Barthelmesses leave for China a week from today . . . B. P. Shulberg was 40 last Tuesday . . . Elissa Landi is reading the galley-proofs of her new novel, "House for Sale." It will be out March 3 . . . Betty Compson will complete her Panchon & Marco tour $40,000 richer. She gets expenses paid . . . Johnny Weismuller is teaching Jackie Cooper to swim. Saw Jackie at the premiere of "Union Depot." He kept sneaking glances at James Cagney, in the seat behind . . . Jed Harris is wiring Jean Hersholt to name his own price, but M. G. M. has the drop on him . . . Claudia Dell finally got that Tom Mix lead . . . Ramon Novarro has gone to San Francisco.

Elissa Landi

Sylvia Sidney, March To Be Co-Starred

"I, Jerry, Take Thee, Joan," the novel by Cleo Lucas, will be produced as a co-starring vehicle for Sylvia Sidney and Frederic March. Dorothy Arzner will direct.

Comedian

Dick Powell Heading New Enright Bill

Dick Powell is heading the current stage show in the Enright. A feature is the appearance in person of George Fawcett, veteran character actor of the screen. Peggy Bernier also is prominent on the bill. The picture is "The Deceiver," mystery melodrama. The cast includes Ian Keith, Dorothy Sebastian and Lloyd Hughes.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: I found that letter from RH which tells how both of them would be "eternally grateful" . . . Very amusing, considering things. . .The boners you discussed in the "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and "Hell's Divers" flickers are boners all right, but did you see "Sob Sister" with Linda Watkins and James Dunn?. . .Well, Linda calls to Jimmy across the court to invite him to break fast with her . . . Yet, when Linda consents to visit Jim's apartment during the night—he lives across the hall?. . .The reason "Brief Moment" pulled down its blinds at the Belasco is that La Larrimore and Le Woolcott refused to take wage shaves, so Guthrie said the devil with it! But Jones and Green moved it to the Cort.

That fire at the New Yorker Hotel the other night was not of "unknown origin," as was reported, but because some plastered tenants fell asleep with smokes burning in their mitts . . . Of course, those responsible were permitted to live—so that some night soon again they may start fires that will wreck lives, property and so forth . . . Holzman of George White's office, called: To tell you that Cain's the theatrical storehouse for shows that fail, will soon open up a dormitory for theatrical producers!

Charlie Gilchrest, of the Chicago News, reports about you fencing with Bernie, and then adds: "But what spoils a good story is that Walter called Ben via long-distance the other night to plan for the war!" Oooh, Charlie! You dogone old giver-awayer-you! . . . Why not suggest this scene to the newsreel editors — Albertina Rasch nibbling on two peeled (raw) carrots in the Lillian Gishy manner as she watches her dancers go through the rehearsal paces . . . Hy Goldstein thought you could use this line—that genuine Irish lace is made in China . . . Steve Carruthers called to tell me that James (Bad Girl) Dunn will be in Philly for the next week or two . . . He'll get in touch with you on his return.

Burton Rascoe's in town. I hear, but where to reach him I know not . . . That lovely looker's name is Mary O'Neill, an up-stater . . . They nabbed another phony getting free theater tickets in the names of dramatic critics and others on newspapers—three years, so hurray!. . .The accident to Tibbett in "Peter Tibbetson" happens annually to leading men in that show . . . Happened last year during the cane-on-the-conk continuity, and Barrymore suffered abrasions years ago in it . . . Louis Armstrong's "Lazy River" just arrived, sent it to the hotel . . . You've lost another constant reader, who had a mania for proving to sceptics that your Things You Never Knew Till Now were all on the up-and-up. . . . On Saturday he tried to prove that a person could live five minutes without breathing, the dope . . . Mary said she would get you some ties and sox between shows . . . Leave check for the Colleen who stenogs the mail, and the insurance tariff is due again.

"Inside Stuff" (opening number just out) is running a clown photo on Walda . . . Can you guess what expression will be the battle-cry of the Democrats when they convene in Chicago? . . . The drinks are using it already instead of "whoopee"... By the way—why don't you take advantage of Dr. Viztelly's offer of over a year ago?. . . I mean when he wrote and said for you to send in your version of "whoopee" and he would put it in the dictionary alongside the word? Gosh, I would!—Your Girl Friday.

Benno Rabinof, another star from the Auer violin studios, made his Pittsburgh debut last night at the Young Men and Womens Hebrew Association. There was a large and attentive audience always eager to applaud the fireworks before the completion of the music.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program had nothing to recommend it in the way of novelty and gave many opportunities to compare this player's conceptions with the playing of so many other violinists, not always to the credit of Rabinof. This young man's style is marked by tremendous vigor, fleet fingers and all the tricks of the virtuoso, but he lacks intellectual repose. Without this restraint his music is wild—interestingly so at times — but lacks much finesse both in intonation and phrasing.

As encores he played an arrangement of Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me," Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," Auer's arrangement of the Beethoven "Chorus of the Dervishes," and a very beautiful Hebrew melody. Berthe Rich played very sure accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Harris Film Features Jack Holt

"Maker of Men," starring Jack Holt, opened Saturday on the Harris screen. Holt is seen as a football coach, whose big disappointment in life is his son who, it seems, doesn't follow the athletic footsteps of his father. Richard Cromwell portrays the boy role. A vaudeville bill, comprising comedy, song and dance, is headed by Dave Vine.

Melodrama

Miss Dresser In Lead

What the custard pie comedy was to pictures, old-time burlesque was to the theater—the first step in many a dramatic star's career. Gloria Swanson and Sally Eilers found their first cinema jobs at the slapstick studios. David Warfield rose from burlesque to Belasco roles. The burlesque circuit vied with the repertoire company as a histrionic training ground.

That is the opinion of Louise Dresser who portrays the role of an ex-burlesque queen in the film comedy, "Stepping Sisters." Miss Dresser made her stage debut in burlesque at 15. She graduated into vaudeville and musical comedy, and later transferred to pictures.

William Collier, Sr., who has one of the principal comedy roles in "Stepping Sisters," is also a product of the old line burlesque. He played in the Weber and Fields shows with Lillian Russell, Fay Templeton, Peter Dailey, De Wolfe Hopper and Frankie Bailey. One of Collier's favorite sports is to speculate what a cast like that would be worth in dollars and cents today. He regrets that these great performers were out of the running before the days of big money. Miss Dresser was a fellow trouper of Collier's in the Weber and Fields extravaganzas.

Clark and McCullough went straight from burlesque to musical comedy. So did Eddie Dowling, Lew Kelly, Frankie Heath, Leon Errol, Fanny Brice, Sophie Tucker, Sam Bernard, Victor Moore, Cecilia Loftus and Will Mahoney. George Beban, William Hodge and Aubrey Boucicault followed Warfield from burlesque to serious drama.

Plays, Players and By-Play

-By WILLIAM J. LEWIS-

Judith Anderson, who plays a leading role in "Mourning Becomes Electra," which begins a second and final week in the Nixon late this afternoon, scored her first success on the American stage in a failure. The play, "Peter Weston," was a flop, but Miss Anderson's part in it won such notice, that she never has lacked a good part since.

Following "M. B. E." in the Nixon will be Maude Adams and Otis Skinner in "The Merchant of Venice," which will play five nights in Pittsburgh, opening Tuesday, February 2. Tickles Thursdy.

After that the Nixon will go musical revusical again with "The Band Wagon," the bill for the week of Feb. 8. It has Fred and Adele Astaire, Frank Morgan and Helen Broderick, all the stars of the N. Y. production.

An unusual—in fact, we'll go so far as to say "unprecedented"—situation is that of the Alvin, where two successive weeks of darkness appear doomed to be followed by two more. Such a lapse in the height of the season is most extraordinary. But these be extraordinary times in the theater. The next thing in sight for the Sixth street house is "Experience Unnecessary," timed for February 8.

Mary Pickford has chosen for her next fillum an original story by Frances Marion titled "Happy Ending" . . . While the missus is making her talkie, Douglass Fairbanks will be travelogueing it again, this time in the South Seas. . . . Martin Johnson's latest fillm, soon to be shown on Broadway, is titled "Congorilla," subject of same being Africa, gorillas and pigmies. . . . After Jeanette MacDonald completes talkie work with Maurice Chevalier in "Love Me Tonight," she will begin a world tour that will end in Paris in an engagement in "The Merry Widow."

Poor Girls Borrow Dolls Like Books

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Wharton Memorial Settlement House now has a "circulating doll club." The dolls are loaned to children of the unemployed and, like library books, may be kept two weeks. When they are returned, a new doll may be taken out.

Irene Dunne, Comedian Sheridan Features

Frank Libuse, comedian, tops the vaudeville bill current in the Sheridan Square. Other acts include Bob Robinson, Walter Walters and Company, and Jerome and Ryan. The screen has "Consolation Marriage," starring Irene Dunne, Pat O'Brien and John Halliday are in the cast. The story concerns a girl who marries to get away from love.

Peggy Allenby, Star, Undergoes Operation

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Peggy Allenby, married Friday to John F. McGovern, radio broadcaster, was recovering from an appendicitis operation in Roosevelt Hospital today.

Relatives disclosed that the attractive Broadway actress had been ill for several weeks, and last week planned the operation. But before going to the operation table, she went to the municipal building and married McGovern.

Stunning Afternoon Frock
Pattern 2270
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN
By ANNE ADAMS

Simple tailored lines in an exquisite afternoon frock that is oh, so easy to make. The molded bodice extends into the smartly styled skirt gussets, back and front, causing slender, becoming lines. The sleeves are extremely chic with snug cuffs and graceful puffs at the elbow. A pert bow is pulled through slashes in the bodice, affording delightful contrast. The original was fashioned of gray crepe, the bow was orange satin.

Pattern 2270 is obtainable only in sizes 16 to 20 and 34 to 44. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Once is enough!

A sensational advertisement may fool you—but only once.

A "bargain" that looks good may deceive you—once.

A house-to-house canvasser may take you in, but he won't call a second time.

A & P stands in direct contrast to such temporary hit-and-run methods. A & P is a permanent part of the Nation's life and business.

After Sickness

...take S.S.S.—a splendid Tonic for restoring the appetite and for rebuilding the red-blood-cells

"DEAR, here is good news for you."

"Let me read you a message I found in the papers today . . . then I want you to start on your first bottle which I brought home for you tonight."

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality, when lowered in count, render the body weak and deprive you of an appetite.

S.S.S. is especially valuable in aiding the system to recuperate after the specific cause of a disease has spent its force.

Its tonic properties will help the body restore to normal a low red-blood-cell count and by so doing many ailments may be avoided—body resistance increased and conditions of a low blood count corrected.

Take S.S.S. and notice how much better you will "feel" . . . as it helps Nature build red-blood-cells it will also create an appetite for food. These two things working together aid the human body in its struggle for health and vitality.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

S.S.S.

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. — Tributes and messages of condolence poured in today to the family of Paul M. Warburg, noted banker and philanthropist, who died yesterday.

Warburg, 63, chairman of the boards of the Manhattan Company and the International Acceptance Bank of New York, suffered a slight stroke a few weeks ago. Hypostatic pneumonia attacked him about 10 days ago. Overwork following the European crisis last summer brought on the stroke, doctors said.

FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

With Warburg at the time of his death were his wife, his brother Felix, and his two children, James M. Warburg and Miss Bettina Warburg. The son is president of the International Acceptance Bank of New York.

Warburg was regarded as one of the most noted banking authorities in the United States. He was descended from a famous German banking family.

An emigrant from Germany, he was one of the high officials who steered the Federal Reserve through the perils of war-time finance, earning for himself commendation of President Wilson.

MARRIED IN NEW YORK

Warburg was born August 10, 1868, in Hamburg, Germany, the son of Moritz and Charlote Oppenheim Warburg.

After receiving his education he came to New York and entered banking with his brother, Felix. Two of their brothers in Germany also became prominent bankers. In 1894 Warburg married Miss Nina J. Loeb of New York. In 1911 he became a citizen of the United States.

Warburg became a member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and gradually acquired extensive interests in many other fields.

ROBBER SLAIN, MAN, 75, FREED

PARSONS, W. Va., Jan. 25.—A 75-year-old man, who battled two robbers in the darkness of his home, today was exonerated in the killing of Gorman Lewis, 35, of near Uniontown, Pa., last Saturday night. Lewis' brother, Lincoln, is held on a burglary charge.

John A. Evans, of Shaffertown near here, told police that when called to the door of his home Saturday night, two men attacked him.

While one backed him into a corner, the other turned out the lights, he said. As he struggled with Gorman Lewis, he seized a shotgun and fired, fatally, wounding his assailant, he told police.

At the shot the lights were turned on and Evans said Lincoln, with drawn revolver, advanced. Seeing his brother wounded he fled, dropping the revolver, Evans said. He was arrested yesterday.

OBITUARY

Purkiss Funeral.

Funeral services for Samuel Purkiss, 85, who died Saturday at his home, 1100 Lincoln avenue, East End, will be held tomorrow afternoon from his home. Burial will be made in Homewood Cemetery.

He was born in Poole, Dorsetshire, England, and came to Pittsburgh when 25. He was a member of the firm of the Pittsburgh Carpet Company and later connected with the Joseph Horne Company. He was formerly a captain in Company C, Eighteenth Infantry, known as the Duquesne Grays. He leaves his wife, two sons, Spencer S., of Chicago, and Robert B., of Pittsburgh; a brother, Robert, and a sister, Mrs. Isabel Bristow, both of Australia.

Schatz Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Amelia E. Schatz, 84, who died Saturday in Lakeside, Ont., will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home of her son, Albert Schatz, 38 North Starr avenue, Bellevue. She was born in Mifflin Township and for 52 years was a resident of Bellevue, being active in community affairs and work of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church. She leaves another son, Frank P. Schatz, also of Bellevue, and a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Webster, of Lakeside, Ont.

Fumes Kill Woman Before Fireplace

Emma Douthett, 70, of 66 Jacob street, Overbrook, was found dead before an open fireplace in her home today, the Coroner's office reported. Death was listed as caused by carbon monoxide fumes from the fire.

WALSH ACCUSER WAIVES HEARING

Mrs. Katherine E. Newingham, who was charged with violating the election laws after making similar charges against two sons of Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh and 14 others in the First Ward, waived a hearing for court before Alderman John J. Verona today. Information against her was made by Edward J. (Buster) Boyle, who charged her with illegally helping a voter.

Mrs. Newingham, an Independent leader, accused Paul Walsh, new constable of the ward, of passing out something resembling whisky to voters. Lawrence Walsh, she charged, illegally helped voters, including his father.

West View Board Studies Car Cut

Street car service, especially the curtailment of Route No. 15, Bellevue, will be discussed at the annual meeting of the West View Board of Trade tonight in the Lyceum Building, Wentworth avenue. Joseph B. Donley, of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, will be the speaker. The board will elect officers.

"Oh, My Rheumatism!"

How the suffering of an American railroad conductor brought Eade's famous English prescription to this country

As the conductor came for his ticket, this traveler noticed that the conductor was in great pain, and naturally he inquired if he could be of any assistance.

"It's my rheumatism," said the conductor, "Every bone in my body seems to ache and I get those terrible sharp twitches all the time. I haven't slept a wink for nights."

"Why, man!" cried the Englishman, "I've got just what you need—Eade's Pills. I would not be without them for the world. I used to suffer the same way that you do, and I never go anywhere any more without carrying a few packages with me. Here, take these and try them."

The name of this traveler and also of the conductor have not, unfortunately, been recorded—but this is known: That conductor got results from Eade's Pills which he was never able to get from anything else. Eade's brought him wondrous relief. He told brother railroad men about it, and year after year the demand for Eade's English Pills has grown as a result of this recommendation and praise.

Now the druggists of this vicinity make the following remarkable offer to all who seek the relief which this great English formula has brought to sufferers throughout the world.

FREE 5-DAY TRIAL

This coupon entitles you to full sized package Eade's Celebrated English Gout Pills on our liberal plan:

Eade's must bring you quick relief from the muscular aches and pains of gout, simple neuralgia, or other symptoms commonly mistaken for "rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis, sciatica, or lumbago."

Unless you are thoroughly pleased with your improvement within 5 days, you may return the partly-used package and have every penny of your deposit handed back! This honest offer made directly by us, the originators of Eade's Celebrated Gout Pills, is backed by your own local druggist. Eade's Pills are as safe as they are satisfactory. Tear out this coupon at ONCE.

"Her Nerves are Ragged . . . She Can't Face Another Day of Work"

"I can't go through another day . . . oh, what is the matter? What shall I do"? Did you ever feel this way yourself?

Nearly Nervous Prostration

DO you know her . . . this poor woman who wakes up as tired as she went to bed?

Her head is still aching . . . her nerves are ragged . . . she's on the verge of tears as she faces another day of work.

"I can't go through it again . . . I can't. Oh, what is the matter? What shall I do?" she cries.

How many young women are fast approaching a nervous breakdown because they let suffering due to female weakness rob them of their strength and health.

In offices or in their homes, they drive themselves, working "on their nerve." Hoping against hope that tomorrow they will feel better . . . but instead they become more and more prostrated.

It is a double tragedy because it is so unnecessary.

Nature did not mean women to suffer so cruelly. If they would only try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound! It has befriended women against their "peculiar" troubles for over 50 years.

It brings soothing, comforting relief . . . gently corrects through its strengthening tonic action the cause of the headaches and backaches that wear you out. Drives away the awful lassitude that kills ambition and makes life a burden.

This simple, safe remedy has justly earned its place in the Family Medicine Cabinet.

Won't you listen to the testimony of thousands of women who use it?

Hawks to Try Again For 3-Flag Record

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Friends of Capt. Frank Hawks said today he may try again to break the three-flag flight record held by James R. Wedell, of New Orleans, of 6 hours 40 minutes for a flight from Agua Caliente, Mexico, to Vancouver, B. C.

Hawks established a round-trip record of 13 hours 44 minutes between the Lower California resort and Vancouver Saturday. He failed by 8.5 minutes, however, to better the one-way mark.

Catholics Boycott Schools in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A Catholic boycott of all secondary government schools was announced today by Archbishop Pascual Diaz.

A pastoral letter of instruction commanded heads of all Catholic families under his jurisdiction to abstain from sending their families to secondary lay schools as a result of the presidential decree of December 28 which established a basis of absolute lay teaching.

The Night Call

BOB yawned wearily. His new job left him exhausted at the end of a day. Hauling heavy crates, stooping and straining, was no part of a machinist's training. But it wouldn't be for long, he hoped.

As he started for bed, the doorbell rang. "Wanted on the telephone," said the boy from the corner drug store. Bob groaned and struggled into his overcoat. Who would call him this late at night, he wondered.

The first words over the telephone told him. "Say!" Bob heard his old boss of the machine shop exclaim. "Do you want your job back or not? I'm tired of holding this telephone!"

Bob laughed. "You bet I want the job. And don't worry about holding the telephone. From now on I'll have one at home!"

As an everyday convenience, the TELEPHONE is worth many times its low cost. In emergencies it is priceless.

TROOPER TELLS OF SLUGGING IN DRY RAID

Resistance by West Park Proprietor Held Cause Of Officers' Actions

Nick DeAngelis, 50, in the Ohio Valley Hospital today with a possible fractured skull, was struck by a state trooper because he interfered with the raid on his place, Capt. Jacob Mock, of the state police, retorted today to DeAngelis' charge that he was beaten without provocation.

De Angelis charged that when four troopers and two roving constables entered the place at 45 Fleming street, West Park, one of them struck him with a blackjack because he objected to the raid without seeing a search warrant.

Capt. Mock said De Angelis had first tussled with one trooper, then another. The second time he was struck. Mock said his men then called a physician.

The two constables roving were Ross F. Shaffer and Charles Gordon, of Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan's office in Sewickley. They and the troopers reported finding two gallons of moonshine and a slot machine.

An X-ray was to be taken today to determine whether DeAngelis' skull was fractured.

Shaffer is the constable who was in the Imperial barracks of the Pittsburgh Coal Company when John Borkowski, miner, was beaten and fatally injured. Shaffer testified he slept during the beating. Walter J. Lyster and Harold P. Watts, coal and iron policemen, were convicted of involuntary manslaughter for the beating.

Penna. Bituminous Production Gains

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Bituminous coal production for the week ending January 16 amounted to 6,587,000 tons, a decrease of less than one per cent from the output of the preceding week. In that period, ending January 9, the Pennsylvania production reached 1,616,000 tons, an increase from the 1,435,000-ton production of the previous week, which was affected by the New Year holiday, the Bureau of Mines has announced. A similar gain occured in West Virginia, the Southern field of which produced 1,221,000 tons and the Northern 419,000.

Vincent Astor Sails On Tropical Cruise

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Vincent Astor, millionaire amateur scientist, left Miami aboard his yacht Nourmahal with a group of friends on a two-month cruise of tropical waters which will take him through the Panama Canal and across the Pacific to the South Seas. He will collect specimens of marine life. Havana will be the first stop.

Woman, Blue, Breaks Window of Grocery

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The urge was too strong to resist. Mrs. Marie Hill, 44, who said she was jobless and feeling blue, felt like hurling an ash can cover through a grocery store window. She did. Today she's serving the second day of a 10-day sentence in the workhouse.

YOUNG DOCTORS CRITICISED BY SURGEON

Cornell Man Declares They Are Uninformed as to Cancer, in Address Here

Medical school graduates are particularly uninformed on serious diseases, particularly cancer, declared Dr. Burton J. Lee, clinical professor of surgery, Cornell University, today. He spoke before the opening sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons in the William Penn Hotel.

Science's advance in prevention of postoperative pneumonia was stressed by Dr. George W. Crile, director of Cleveland Clinic Foundation, one of the principal speakers on the convention program which will continue through tomorrow. Delegates are attending from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

SURGEONS SPEAK

Leading authorities on surgery were speakers. Clinics at various hospitals were being conducted throughout the day. Other speakers were Dr. Joseph C. Beck, of the University of Illinois, and Dr John O. McReynolds, Dallas, Tex Dr. Clarence Cook Little, managing director of the American Society for Control of Cancer, will address a dinner meeting tonight.

Citing the treatment of cancer, Dr. Lee stressed that older physicians are aware of cancer information. He added.

"I feel we are falling down on the diagnosis."

Research study of the body cells rather than the body as a whole were credited by Dr. Crile as a preventative of post-operative pneumonia. This advance step has revealed how to examine the patient and apply proper adjustments, he said.

The public will be admitted to a community health meeting tomorrow night in the William Penn Hotel. Advancement in health programs will be explained as well as treatments, common ailments and the part played by the hospital.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

LONDON, Jan. 25.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Get the dope on these international bankers that are crying for us to cancel. Every American trade commissioner and businessman over here tells of the flock of bankers' representatives over in Germany and Europe in the last few years. Hotel lobbies full of 'em offering all kinds of commissions to help put over loans for American banks. The loans were forced over here as much as the sales of 'em were forced over home. Now they want the government to cancel to make up for their mistakes. Now if this is not the real lowdown on it then Borah is a Republican.

Yours, WILL.

POLICE ASSUME RELIEF WORK

Members of the Fraternal Order of Police here today prepared to carry out their own welfare program after having voted last night to release policemen of their pledge of three days' pay to the fund. In all 729 officers voted. Those who voted were unanimous in asking that they be relieved of their pledge.

Harry Hyer, president of the order, announced the result of the vote. Immediately after the vote was tabulated a letter was sent asking the fund to release the patrolmen of their promise to pay. The order will carry on its own relief work in the various precincts, Hyer said.

Accused By Woman, Officer Faces Board

Accused of having lured Mrs. Grace H. Edwards, of 208 Nobles lane, to his apartment after promising her a job as a private detective, Precinct Detective Edward Pritchard had been notified to appear before the Police Trial Board, it was learned today. Additional charges have been brought before an alderman against the detective, who is attached to Carrick Police Station, Mrs. Edwards' husband said.

Measles Again Lead Quarantine Cases

The following new quarantine cases were reported by the City Health Department today: Scarlet fever, 9; measles, 19; mumps, 8; whooping cough, 1; chickenpox, 12; pneumonia, 5, and erysipelas, 1.

1,900,000 CARS SOLD IN 1931

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—More than 1,900,000 new passenger automobiles were sold in the United States in 1931, a report by R. L. Polk & Co., official compilers of figures on automobile and truck registrations, today disclosed.

The estimate is based on reports of 38 states for 12 months and all states for 11 months.

December sales were estimated at 79,100 units, an increase of 4.31 per cent over the total for November. Trends toward an upturn in sales were seen in this increase, for it was the first experienced since April, 1931.

AUTO DEALERS OPEN 2-DAY MEETING

1,000 Chevrolet Agents Of Pittsburgh District Discuss Merchandising

One thousand Chevrolet dealers and retail salesmen in the Pittsburgh zone will study merchandising advances and dealer management at a two-day session here starting today. Three states are represented at this zone conference, as three counties in Ohio and four in West Virginia are included.

This is one of 50 similar conferences sponsored by Chevrolet throughout the country. Meetings will be held in William Penn Hotel and Syria Mosque.

W. E. Holler, former manager of the Pittsburgh zone, now assistant general sales manager, heads a crew of sales experts who are to conduct the conference.

Mr. Holler

This morning's session was devoted to dealers and associated bankers. At noon a luncheon party was to be held at Syria Mosque, with the retail organization as guests of A. F. Young, Flint region manager, and C. L. Milliken, Pittsburgh Zone manager.

Mr. Young

Salesmanship was to be portrayed at a stage show this afternoon in the Mosque, with trained actors, supported by a crew of stage hands, carpenters and a carload of scenery, dramatizing the art of selling.

Members of the Pittsburgh Zone 100 Car Club will be honor guests at a banquet tonight in William Penn Hotel. Officers of this organization, who were to be installed at noon today, are Benjamin Sheinman, president; R. I. Scott, vice president; B. F. Fulton, secretary, and R. L. Vensel, treasurer.

Congress Pay Cut Postponed Because of Rain

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Can't find out a thing about the congressmen threatening to take their own thrift medicine with economical intent.

Somebody said they were going to reduce their own pay just to teach themselves a lesson.

But it just seems to be another uncertified rumor that has been indorsed by the gossips.

The event was to take place last Saturday. Fortunately, it rained, and they had an excuse to postpone it.

The political leaders are in the same fix as the drum major who couldn't find a parade.

The Republicans will nominate any man who knows what to do until the doctor arrives.

The Democrats will rely on a candidate who has a good recipe for broccoli.

Took a walk past the Treasury in the rain. Remember when Europeans said Americans were vulgar because they had too much gold in their teeth?

Now we would like to get our teeth on some.

3,000 BASKETS OF FOOD GIVEN

Approximately 3,000 baskets of food have been distributed to the needy by the Sixteenth Ward Republican Relief Fund, according to Fred F. Dengler, its president.

Headquarters of the organization have been established at Dengler's home, 2104 Eccles street, and from there 650 baskets were distributed during the past week. The organization, functioning since last December, has provided shoes, clothing, coal and medicine to the needy, and will continue at least until the last of April, Dengler said.

Because of the increasing demands on the organization, Dengler said, a drive for funds will be started in the near future to continue the work.

Attacking Fellow Carman, Motorman Blames Rum

Albert R. Sargent, 36, a street car motorman, of 1110 Palo Alto street, in North Side Police Court today explained his alleged attack on a fellow motorman by saying he was under the influence of liquor.

Sargent admitted that yesterday morning while a Bloomfield car was in motion at Federal street and Plush way, he struck the operator, Joseph Lang, of 26 Ethel street, on the head with a monkey wrench, grabbed two books of trolley passes and fled. He was captured nearby. He was held pending recovery of Lang in Mercy Hospital with head lacerations.

Patrolman Herman Selinger, who arrested Sargent a block from the scene of the attack, testified that in his opinion Sargent had not been drinking. The latter insisted that he had.

Sargent said he was married, the father of five children and had worked for the railways company for 14 years.

Operator Lang stopped the car before slumping from his seat, witnesses who were passing by said. There were no passengers on the car.

TWO MEN KILLED BY AUTOS ON HIGHWAYS

Woman Companion of One Also Hurt; Five Injured In Triple Crash in Tube

Two persons are dead and many others injured as the result of automobile accidents yesterday throughout the city and county, according to coroner's and police reports.

The dead are George Faitula, 38, of Indiana County, and John Leo, 27, of 240 Banksville road. Faitula was found dead in the Ohio River boulevard after having been struck by a hit-skip motorist, deputy coroners said. Leo was killed while walking in Banksville road.

Police said Leo and Mrs. Sarah Kline, also of 940 Banksville road, were struck by a machine driven by George Calig, 137 Wabash avenue. Calig said he did not see them. Mrs. Kline was not seriously hurt.

CRASH IN TUBE

Evelyn Christopher, 17, of 101 Strauss street; Charles F. Sweeney, a city detective; Arthur Caughlin, 1222 Buena Vista street; James Beck, of 2436 Charles street, and William White, of 1531 Irwin avenue, were injured in a triple collision in one of the Liberty tubes. Miss Christopher was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Police said Sweeney, driving a police radio car, stopped in the tubes because of a traffic jam. White's car, in which Miss Christopher was riding, collided with the detective's, and was in turn struck by the third car driven by Beck, in which Caughlin was riding.

BOY BADLY HURT

John Pick, 5, of 1008 Soles street, McKeesport, was in McKeesport Hospital with a fracture of the skull received, police said, when he was struck by a car driven by John A. Lee, Jr., Bowman street, McKeesport, near the boy's home.

Norman Greatris, 62 Wabash avenue, was seriously hurt when his machine collided with another in Saw Mill Run boulevard. He will be arraigned later on charges of reckless driving and violating the auto laws. The other car was operated by Dominick Manuso, of 2523 Fifth avenue. After the collision Greatris' machine plunged into the home of William Ward, 2400 Saw Mill Run boulevard. Greatris is in Mercy Hospital.

John MacMichael, 7, of 532 Fifth avenue, New Kensington, was in a serious condition in the Citizens' General Hospital from concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull suffered, police said, when he was struck by an automobile driven by John Callahan, 31, of R. D. No. 2, New Kensington near Sixth avenue, New Kensington, last night.

DISTRICT 40TH IN RELIEF

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(AP.)—Rochester, N. Y., spent more than 50 times as much per capita in unemployment relief as San Antonio, Tex., during the first nine months of 1931, figures compiled by the Russell Sage Foundation showed today.

Rochester's total expenditure for that period was $2,807,992, which represented a per capita expenditure of $8.56. San Antonio spent 15 cents for each resident, it says.

In a survey covering 66 cities, the foundation found that the industrial northeast led in per capita expenditure based upon population, while the south trailed. All North Atlantic cities of more than 500,000 population are in the upper half with the exception of Pittsburgh, which ranks fortieth, with expenditure of $2,372,000. Per capita, based on population of county, $1.73.

Chicago Asks State For $20,000,000 Aid

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Immediate adoption of the $20,000,000 state unemployment relief program is an urgent necessity, Mayor Anton Cermak stated today. Funds of private charities are exhausted and the $10,000,000 raised in Chicago for the joint emergency fund will be gone by February 1.

CITY, COUNTY TO BE ASKED FOR AID

Work to End During May At Present Demand Rate by Unemployed.

The Welfare Fund and its affiliated organizations will ask city and county authorities for more than $2,000,000 additional for relief work, Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the fund, said today.

After asserting that "the plain truth is that we are trying to stop an avalanche with a toothpick in Allegheny County," Maxwell said:

"We intend to ask for city and county aid soon. When we find this is definitely impossible, only then will we go outside for state or federal aid."

He also stated:

"The Emergency Association also needs $3,000,000 more to carry out an adequate program."

Both welfare relief agencies and the Allegheny County Emergency Association so far have received $3,000,000 each, the former for relief and the latter for furnishing jobs.

To make available funds go farther, the rate of pay by the Emergency Association has been cut from $4 to $3.20 a day. Since November 2, more than 9,000 men have been given employment, it was said.

DEMAND UNCERTAIN

Concerning the requests for aid, Maxwell said:

"We know that there are over 150,000 unemployed in the county. If all of them asked for aid, the potential peak load, no one would be able to estimate what would be needed to furnish relief.

"According to demands based upon the present, we would be able to carry on until May on what we have, if we knew that after that we would not have to continue. And according to present demands, we need $2,225,000 more to carry out a full program until the end of the year. But next week we may be flooded to the peak. No one can tell. Nearly any estimate is a guess."

Declaring the state situation is "indeed grave," Mrs. Helen D. Tyson, deputy secretary of Welfare, declared that the milk situation at Avella will have to be closed in March, due to lack of funds.

MILK FUNDS NEEDED

She said:

"Our communities are poorly prepared to meet the unemployment crisis.

"In many of the counties the poor boards are the only source of regular relief. Relief has not been adequate, because of lack of funds, inability to borrow or to raise taxes. Their budgets have been increased only 25 to 50 per cent, while the load of applicants has tripled and quadrupled. Frequently families walk 10 or 15 miles to apply for aid, receive meager assistance once and must repeat the appeal week after week.

"The state milk station at Avella, which furnishes milk to nearly 400 children every day, reports it must close in March for lack of funds."

CRITIC INSISTS PRIEST ERRED IN BOOK

Tech Professor Defines Objection to Callahan's Parallel Theory Proof

Prof. T. L. Smith, of the mathematics department of Carnegie Institute of Technology, today offered a reply to the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, author of "Euclid or Einstein."

Let L and M be two straight lines cut by a transversal and so placed that the alternate interior angles formed with this transversal are equal, and let O be the mid-point of this transversal. Then the statement of the requirement should read:

When it shall be shown that a "parallelogram" exists with two of its sides on L and M and with its center at some other point different from O, then, and only then, will the Callahan proof be acceptable.

As originally printed this read "parallel" where the word "parallelogram" was intended, but the context should have made its meaning clear. The term "parallelogram" is used here in the Callahan sense, meaning merely a four-sided figure with its opposite sides and angles equal in pairs. Correctly stated, it is not a strange requirement.

POINT IN DISCUSSION

This is the only important point in the whole discussion. Fundamental in deciding if the existence of parallels has been proved without assuming the parallel postulate. It is still to be properly met by the Rev. Callahan.

If the lines L and M are parallels in the sense of Euclidian geometry, then everyone knows that they do meet this requirement. Since this was and is the whole point of my criticism, surely it was and is not strange that an answer to this requirement be given. It is not required that anyone show that there are 10,000,000 points other than O which can be centers of such "parallelograms"; only one such point is demanded.

ANALYSIS OF ANSWER

The answer of the Rev. Callahan to this requirement was like Gaul, divided into three parts:

(1) "The sides of the parallelogram could be drawn anywhere."

(2) "No geometry gives more than one concrete instance."

That is all that is demanded by this requirement.

(3) "The same parallelism could be shown with regard to 10,000,000 points."

To further amplify and explain part 2, it is evident that the point O is a special point which is fixed when the lines L and M are constructed as outlined at the beginning of this paper; it is similarly fixed when L and M are constructed by extending a median line of a triangle to twice its length. Then it surely is not illogical to make the requirement which has been made above, especially as just one such "parallelogram" and not 10,000,000, is the requirement.

Now what about the "smoke screen?" My criticism contained a part of one sentence mentioning geometry on a sphere, and a cut in the criticism gave this sentence undue prominence as the first sentence in the article. This brief reference was inserted with the thought that it would do no harm and would suggest ideas to all readers who were mathematicians.

The whole idea of this was completely misunderstood, but the idea was neither irrelevant, incorrect, nor trivial. There is a definite correspondence between plane geometry and the geometry of great circles on the sphere. This is well understood by mathematicians and is comprehensible to any high school student with ability in geometry, when explained to him.

'HEARING WEEK' OPENS MAY 6

The first week in May has been designated by the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing as "National Hearing Week," it has been announced by Miss Emma B. Kessler, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh League for the Hard of Hearing. She said today:

"Hard-of-hearing people were the first group of handicapped persons to organize to help themselves. In most cases unfortunates are helped by those more fortunate. We help ourselves by lip-reading and hearing devices."

During the week of May 6, in the league's rooms in the Buhl Building, new models of hearing devices, lip-reading demonstrations and literature for distribution are planned.

Recent surveys indicate one person in every two families has some form of ear trouble, and 3,000,000 of the 24,000,000 public school children have measurable hearing defects, Miss Kessler said.

Auto Wrecks Buggy, Driver, Horse Hurt

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Rounding a curve near here last night, an automobile driven by J. T. Ross, of Uniontown, crashed into a horse and buggy without lights.

Wesley King, 52, of Smock, who held the reins, suffered scalp lacerations. The buggy was demolished and the horse injured. After the crash, Tony Brocco, of Star Junction, King's companion, still sat in the seat of the buggy. He was uninjured.

British Shipbuilder, Engineer Dies at 90

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Sir Alfred Yarrow, noted marine engineer and shipbuilder, died yesterday at the age of 90. He was the founder of Yarrow & Co., Ltd., and designer of the Yarrow boiler.

His death brought to a close a career in which he rose from the builder of a small launch "about the size of a bathtub," as he described it, to head one of the largest shipbuilding firms in the world.

CITY MANAGER URGED FOR N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—New York City's government must be reorganized on non-political lines if it is to be raised "from the low and sordid estate to which it has sunk," Samuel Seabury declared in his preliminary report of the Hofstadter Legislative Committee which he will give today to every member of the State Assembly.

To break the grip of graft and corruption with which Tammany Hall burdened the city, the report indicated, Seabury in his final report as counsel of the committee, would recommend a revolutionary change in the administration of the city. The report followed an investigation of almost a year.

A modified system of the city manager form of government, and the preferential voting system in force in Cincinnati, O., will probably be urged in the complete report Seabury will submit to the Legislature.

SLAYER NAMED BY BECHTEL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—What police believe was Norman R. Bechtel's dying attempt to name his slayer was revealed yesterday while the victim was being buried in the little Mennonite churchyard at Bally, Pa., the village of his boyhood.

Bechtel, 31-year-old church worker and insurance accountant, was found dying on an untenanted estate in the Germantown section early last Wednesday by Rudolph Lehman, a policeman. He had been stabbed many times, Lehman said.

"I was picking him up when I saw his lips begin to move and heard him mumble something.

"I put my ear close to his lips, but I was in such an awkward position I could not hear very well. He formed his lips as if to make the sound 'Wa' and then another sound like 'Es.'

"He died before I could hear any more."

Advertising Club To Hear New Yorker

Importance of advertising and merchandising to stimulate employment through increased business will be stressed by Leonard Dreyfuss, president of United Advertising Corporation, New York, before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club Tuesday in the William Penn Hotel. He will be the second of four speakers to be heard during the year, representing the Advertising Federation of America.

SUNDAY SCORES MODERN GARB OF WOMEN

Dress Reform Essential, Evangelist Says; Urges Criminal Aliens Be Ousted

Denouncing the scant modern feminine apparel as one of the world's greatest evils, "Billy" Sunday, evangelist, last night pleaded for dress reform as one of the first steps to a moral revival.

He also declared unnaturalized citizens should be deported after the first criminal offense of which they are convicted.

Mr. Sunday, here for a three-week campaign in the First United Presbyterian Church, Union avenue, North Side, spoke with his old time acrobatic vigor.

VIGOROUS, NEARING 70

Mr. Sunday, belying his own admission that he will be 70 years old next November, still speaks with the same fire and zest which brought him fame years ago.

Speaking on "Thou Art Weighed In the Balance and Found Wanting," he continued:

"This old world needs a moral revival. The young people of today are subjected to greater temptation than ever before, but they are showing more resistance to that temptation than ever before. It is true that there are hundreds of cases of juvenile delinquency, but they are not as marked as people would have us believe."

FAVORS HOOVER

Speaking of politics he said:

"The Smith and Raskob people are not interested in any constructive program which does not begin with the brewing industry. I will fight Al Smith or Gov. Roosevelt to the finish, and if Hoover runs again I'll fight for him and support him with my last ounce of strength."

Returning to the topic of modern dress, he concluded

"The modern girl is what she is because of her worship of material things. We need to get back to old-time modesty in dress. And I don't mean the dress of our grandmothers."

Mr. Sunday will continue his services in the North Side church for the next three weeks, every afternoon and evening. Mrs. Sunday will join him here tomorrow or Wednesday, he said.

Two Men Arrested In Store Bomb Plot

FARRELL, Pa., Jan. 25.—Accused of plotting the bombing of a meat market, Frank Veress, proprietor, and Andrew Dobransky, 29, formerly of Duquesne, are under arrest today after police said they found 40 gallons of gasoline in the store basement.

Dobransky confessed he had accepted $100 from Veress to blow up the store so that the owner could collect $3,000 insurance, police said. Dobransky said he didn't want to endanger eight men who lived in the apartment, according to a friend, who notified the police.

FLOODS RAVAGE FOUR STATES

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Flood waters raced over widely scattered sections of the south today, spreading destruction in four states.

At least one death was attributed to floods in Arkansas where virtually every river and stream was rising under the impetus of heavy rains. The casuality was believed to be J. H. Scoggin, a Mauldin timber worker, who disappeared and was thought to have drowned in the swollen Ouachita river.

Highway traffic throughout many sections of Arkansas was crippled by overlapping streams.

Meantime, the incessant rains threatened to aggravate the already critical situation caused by the prolonged deluge in Mississippi and Louisiana.

In Texas the Trinity river was on a rampage, flooding a great area in the vicinity of Dallas and forcing many families to flee. Some streets of Dallas were inundated.

The announcement was made by the Rear Admiral Saturday night as he appeared in Meadville for a lecture.

CUBAN LOANS QUIZ DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Senate Finance Committee's investigation of American loans to Cuba and Chile will begin Wednesday.

The committee planned to open the inquiry today, but desired witnesses could not appear. Officials of the Chase Securities Corporation have been called to testify relative to Cuban loans.

No decision has been made as to the witnesses in the investigation of loans to Chile.

Before continuing its hearings, the committee is to consider Secretary Stimson's refusal to furnish it with secret State Department correspondence relating to the Barco oil concession in Colombia. Stimson offered to permit senators to see the correspondence, but would not present it in open hearings.

IS THERE DOPE IN IT?

THE ONE QUESTION YOU SHOULD ASK ABOUT COUGH SYRUPS

"Both of my children were suffering from coughs. My oldest child would not even taste Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup, but after I let her smell it I didn't have any trouble in getting her to take regular doses. It helped them marvelously. Both children lost their coughs completely." Mrs. G. G. Morgan, 318 Jones Ave., Burlington, N. J.

IT IS TRUE that many cough syrups rely on DOPE for their action. DOPE—that means opium, morphine, chloroform, ether—and similar drugs.

Don't take chances with DOPE! Why should you? There is now one SAFE way to stop a cough. That safe way is Smith Brothers' Triple Action Cough Syrup. This new type syrup contains no dope, no drugs, nothing that could upset even a delicate child. Instead of dope, "Triple Action" (—it's safe!) stops coughs quickly and surely. Even hacking coughs and those dangerous "hanging-on" coughs simply melt away! Children like the taste! Only 35c.

Girls Should Not Tolerate Insults From Boys

Why does the B. F. yell at her?

Shirley tries every way she can think of to act so he won't. She's meek as a little mouse. She hardly dares open her mouth.

She has always been a Good Girl—and still is—but far from appreciating that, the big boy goes right on "insulting" her when she speaks out of turn, just as if she were an old idiot.

What's wrong?

A lot of Dear Sweet Patient Good Long Suffering Females would like to know. And should be told.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I hope you will be able to help me as you have helped others.

"My story is that for the last three years I have been going with a certain boy. We are engaged, but due to the hard times we are not able to marry yet.

"Now, for the last year or two my B. F. hasn't been as nice to me as he used to be. He gets irritable and is tempered and at times has been quite insulting.

"Honestly, sometimes I feel almost afraid to say anything for fear he will say something mean to me. I have pleaded with him about this and what could be said he was sorry. But the next time he was even worse than before.

"I can't understand it at all. Why do you think he is like that? Last night I asked him why he said those things to me and what do you think he said? He said because I deserved them. Can you imagine that?

WANTS TO CHANGE HIM

"I am almost at my wit's ends. When we get along nicely for a few weeks, he says he is being too good to me.

"I am so worried. I have always been a good girl and I still am and do not intend to be different. Can you advise me? Please help me and tell me what to do. Is there any way to change him?

SHIRLEY.

What should she do?

Well, suppose we guess. I'm sure you'd better get a new Boy Friend. Now, this one certainly sounds like poison to me.

But that doesn't mean, however, that he is altogether to blame for the way he treats you.

You're to blame for the way he treats you just as much as he is.

MUST DEFEND SELF

You're to blame because you sit around and let him get away with it. You may think that you're just a Noble Little Girl who's getting a bum break. But it's really only the world's record for cowardice.

And you do deserve to be ill-treated if you're the spineless creature and let this boy where to get off.

But I'm a good girl, you say.

Yes? Good for what? This world is plumb full of good girls and that's nothing to hang a bouquet on yourself about. You can't just sit down and wait for the world or the B. F. to put medals on you because you haven't committed any crimes. You've got to earn your medals by coming to life and being something besides a bump on a log.

And one of the first things you'd better do now is tell this young man that unless he can treat you decently the door is open going out, and then close it behind him, and find yourself a Regular Girl.

Great Majority of Youths Earnestly Prepare for Serious Work in Life

FAY-KING

By FAY KING

In every generation a small minority of youth does foolish things until it sees the error of its ways.

In every generation the great majority of youth is earnestly preparing itself for serious work in life.

For every useful position which is held by an older person must in time be turned over to the youth that has prepared for that place.

Nothing is more inspiring and creates greater confidence and faith in the future than to contact bright intelligent young minds that are training and developing for worthy purposes.

One contacts youth everywhere, but most numerously where preparations for useful futures are in order.

Arrival of Dicky Interrupts Mother Graham's Comment

As if his mother's words had power to summon him, Dicky put his head in at the open door just as she had finished asking me reproachfully: "But I am wondering Margaret what your husband will say to your preferring your professional work to the care of your sick child."

"Oh hello there," he said as he saw me. "I've been looking for you everywhere. What do you think of the baby?"

She seems to be in wonderful condition. I said come over here and look at her.

He caught my hand in his as we crossed the room a little haunt of his most dear to me.

His tone was so terrified that I could not help being a bit anxious myself although I knew the reason for the sudden screwing up of the baby's face and the tiny wail she sent out.

"Don't worry," Katherine interposed promptly, "it's only hunger. She's almost starved, the precious. She's had practically no food since 10 o'clock last night. But she's perfectly all right. If you don't mind leaving her to me for a little while I'll get her ready for her feeding and her nap."

"All right, you're the doctor," Dickey said heartily. "Come on, Mange. There's nothing for you to do here and I want to show you how nifty those two acts were copped. I don't believe there's a single comma misplaced. Besides I want a look at this third act Lil's been raving over. If I'd known the stunt you were planning I'm here to tell you I'd have put you in a straight-jacket and locked you up. A whole act dictated in a night! But as long as it's finished, and you don't appear to be any the worse for wear—he looked me over critically—"I'm free to confess I'm simply cr-r-a-zee to see what you turned out. Some wife, I've got, Station R. G. broadcasting."

He thrust out his chest, pouter-pigeon fashion, as he caught my arm and rushed me to the door. There was genuine pride in his voice, and camaraderie. Somewhere, sometime, since I last had seen him, he patently had buried his deep jealous resentment of my work because of Philip Verstein's connection with it.

I could not resist a furtive glance at my mother-in-law from beneath discreetly-lowered lashes as Dicky's impetuous grasp of my arm propelled me to the door. How would she react to this open admiration and commendation of Dicky following her pessimistic query of the minute before concerning his possible comment upon my "preferring my professional work to the care of my child"?

But to my astonishment, where I had expected a sniff and a toss of the head I saw only a little smile of the genius Cheshire Cat playing around her lips. I think sometimes that Dicky inherits his propensity for doing the unexpected thing from his mother for both he and she often astonish me by their unexpected divergence from the mental roadway along which they usually travel.

Long experience of my mother-in-law's psychology told me, however, that gratification being left alone in charge of her granddaughter with no hint of divided authority impairing her hours of care-taking, was the greatest factor in making her so complacent over Dicky's unexpected interpolations into the lines she had mentally written for him.

That hasty furtive glance showed me something else also—something I often had seen before—the adoring look upon Katherine's face as she bent over my baby. But I was proud of the fact that no jealous twinge marred the happiness of my departure upon Dicky's arm. I knew Katherine's thwarted maternity and how much she had longed for a baby of her own. I had seen how she had lavished the affection of her starved heart upon my children and subconsciously I had feared that if outside work took me away from them she would unwittingly supplant me and that I would be second to her in their affection.

But, blessedly that apprehensive jealousy of mine was silenced for the time and I went triumphantly out of the door with my husband, only to be stopped in the hall by Lillian who had followed us out.

"Was it your little idea," she asked suavely of Dicky, "that you should listen to this third act now?"

Hats and the Dinner Jacket

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

JOHN.

Yes, a man may wear with his dinner jacket a soft felt hat either in grey or black, or a derby hat, or if he wishes to be very "dressy" a top hat.

Addressing Mother-in-Law

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me the correct way to address one's mother-in-law? All my relatives and friends use "Mother Nelson" or whatever the name may be. If one addresses her "Mother," how can one distinguish from one's own mother?

READER.

Mother Nelson is, all things considered, I think the best form of name to use when addressing your mother-in-law. And it has grace and dignity and respect. To the beautiful word Mother it adds the last name, which indicates at once that it is your mother-in-law and not your mother to whom you are referring. If you wish to address her as Mother, and you know she likes this, there isn't any reason why you shouldn't do it . . . many people do. But when you refer to her, it would be best to use the last name, too.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Many Tuberculosis Deaths Are Due Solely to Neglect

I know a man who for many years suffered from a hacking cough. His family continuously urged him to consult with a physician. His reply was always the same: "The cough does not bother me and I feel fine. Why should I go to a doctor?" He contracted an acute infection and was confined to his bed. A physician was called and discovered that the man was suffering from rather advanced tuberculosis.

Dr. Copeland

No one should take a chance on tuberculosis. If proper care is not taken, the course of the disease is very rapid. When the disease is recognized in its early stages and proper care is given, tuberculosis is curable.

One who shows any tendency toward tuberculosis or who has early tuberculosis can be treated at home. The treatment is beneficial only if instructions are carefully followed. Complete rest in bed for one month or longer is imperative. During this time meals should be served in bed.

A daily program is of great value. The following suggestions may be of service to you in forming a schedule: At 8 o'clock serve breakfast, including a glass of milk. At 10 o'clock another glass of milk is served. At 12:30 lunch is given, and this, too, should include a glass of milk, and at 4 p. m. milk is again served. Early dinner is important. It should not be served later than 6:30, and must include a glass of milk. Before retiring at 9 p. m. another glass of milk should be served.

The patient should remain in bed until ordered out by his physician. Between the hours of 2 and 4 the patient must sleep or have complete rest. A sponge bath followed by an alcohol rub should be given every morning.

The windows of the bedroom are to be kept wide open at all times. Protect against draughts and colds by placing a screen around the bed and keeping the patient well covered.

Smoking and alcohol are absolutely prohibited. Too much company should be avoided.

It is important that hygenic measures be practiced at all times. Precautions must be taken to guard others against the spray coming from spitting, coughing or sneezing. These precautions must be closely observed when there are children in the household. Remember that children are more susceptible to this disease than adults.

By the use of common sense in the early stages of this dread disease, its control is practically certain. Be sensible about it and follow the advice of your doctor. A few weeks of sacrifice will give promise of a long life of health.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Normal Two and Three Bids Continued

Under the official system normal two bids are empowered freely for showing holdings requiring slightly less than average support for game. Partner will pass an opening bid of one when he holds normal trump support and average strength of three probable tricks. Partner either will shift the opening bid of two or assist upon less than the average strength of three probable tricks. Much of the proven efficiency of the official system centers in the great utility of this semi-forcing opening bid of two of a suit.

Personally I would make an opening bid of only two on the first hand shown below. If partner holds too little to shift or support a bid of two the chances for going down exceed the chances for game. That the second hand shown below calls for an opening bid of three or the conventional bid of 2-Clubs, according to which you prefer, there can be no doubt.

♠AK63 ♥AK94 ♣7 ♦A852
♠AK63 ♥AK94 ♣7 ♦AQ32

There are several other types of hands also calling for opening bids of two, either in major or minor suits. There is the solid seven card suit without side strength. There is the solid six cards suit with one side trick, like the second and third hands shown. There also is the strong two-suiter like the fourth hand given. There is the less solid suit with side strength, shown in the fifth hand.

♠64 ♥AKQJ643 ♣85 ♦64
♠AKQJ63 ♥A953 ♣85 ♦64
♠AKQJ63 ♥K953 ♣K5 ♦64
♠AQJ42 ♥AQJ1065 ♣3 ♦64
♠AQJ1083 2 ♥AJ2 ♣97 ♦A2

A strong five card suit accompanied by a biddable suit of four cards may be worth an opening bid of two like the next hand shown. The second hand below also calls for an opening bid of two although there is no second biddable suit, the great top honor strength plus the seven probable tricks is too great strength to risk possible loss of game by an opening bid of only one.

♠AKQ84 ♥AK76 ♣Q1 ♦62
♠AQJ ♥6J ♣K52 ♦AKQJ7

Under The Official System procedure the assisting hand does not jump the opening bid of two because its bidder promises another bid either if assisted or shifted. On that account the opening bidder must again bid, even if his first declaration has shown the full strength of his hand, because his partner may have considerable strength beyond the values indicated by his minimum bid.

HUMBLE STARTS BY KOWALLIS, LAWRY

PITT'S CO-CAPTAINS IN basketball, Willie Kowallis and Timmy Lawry, whose play so far has been outstanding in a Panther season that is none too brilliant, did not arrive at fame suddenly. Both were just ordinary players in their sophomore year, Kowallis being a regular only for the first semester while Lawry filled in at forward and guard for Charley Hyatt and Eddie Baker.

Willie Kowallis

Few picked Kowallis as a future star when he appeared with the freshmen in 1928-29. He wasn't very big, and, playing a guard, did not come in for a lot of attention, especially as his brother, Tip, and Al Wrobleski were going at a speedy clip at the forwards. On the varsity the following season, however, Coach Carlson moved Willie up to a starting berth to fill the shoes of Eddie Baker, who was on the Pacific Coast with the football team. Kowallis held the position for the first semester, and then was dropped from the squad on account of scholastic deficiencies.

PLAYING A GUARD, Willie gave no sign of the offensive value he was to have in his next two years. In 15 games he scored only 11 field goals and made good on but six out of 11 fouls. On 24 occasions he was called for fouling, which was 10 more times than in the following year, when he drew only 14 in 21 games.

Lawry's collegiate start was even humbler. The little North Sider couldn't make the freshman team, and in his sophomore year he appeared in only 16 games, and just for a few minutes on each occasion, at that. His scoring record for that season was four field goals and three out of four fouls, and he had two personals called against him. The next year, Timmy was high-score man for the Panthers, coming in eight points ahead of Kowallis.

LAWRY'S START, IN fact, was even more inauspicious than that of Johnny Brown, the same Brown who was the big man in the Panthers' win over Carnegie last week, before being bottled up by Notre Dame. For Brown saw action for a few minutes in no fewer than 21 games that season, scoring seven field goals and three out of five fouls.

Last year, however, playing on a team which seldom gained enough of a lead to make possible the liberal use of reserves, Brown failed to do so well. He appeared in only nine games and in those he missed three opportunities to convert free throws.

THE SALE OF Hack Wilson by the Cardinals to the Dodgers surprised nobody. In spite of statements by the Redbird officials to the contrary, it had been generally believed that Wilson would be transferred to another club, as there was clearly no room for him in the St. Louis outfield, and after Max Carey had made a special trip to Martinsburg, W. Va., to visit the slugging outfielder it wasn't hard to guess that that other club would be Brooklyn. Even in Flatbush no immediate steady job looms for Hack unless he can displace Lefty O'Doul, for Babe Herman, of course, is a fixture, and Carey says he has decided to keep Johnny Frederick. The best in sight for Wilson, therefore, is an alternating role with Frederick in center when the Dodgers are facing left-hand pitching. Whatever Wilson may amount to, however, Carey is just that much ahead in playing material, having given up only an outfield farm-hand in Rob Parham besides a bundle of cash, so that Max must be said to have made a good move for his club in his first trade.

Rogers Hornsby

THE LISTING OF Rogers Hornsby as a bench manager for 1932 may have been a little premature. The Cub pilot has intimated to friends that he may be found playing second or third base, and some of the Chicago critics are predicting that he will be in action in close to 100 games.

Bill Herman is slated tentatively for the keystone bag and Stanley Hack for the hot corner, and it is likely that at least one and possibly both, will be in the lineup when the season opens. But no Windy City enthusiast is so optimistic as to expect that both are going to make good this year. They lack experience and their hitting ability remains to be proved in fast company. The club will be fortunate if one of them comes through.

THAT UNCERTAINTY AS to batting strength extends to other parts of the young Bruin team. Vince Bartin, Bill Jurges, Mike Kreevich and Johnny Moore can't be counted on any more safely than Herman or Hack to deliver on the offensive.

With Hack Wilson's wallop gone and creaky legs threatening to deprive the team of Riggs Stephenson and his punch, the Cubs may be sorely in need of batting power, and that's the lack which is expected to bring Hornsby back. The Rajah may decide to step in to bolster the attack if spring training—and he's going to start work with the first squad on February 17—convinces him that his legs and feet will stand the strain

CHARLEY HARVEY, manager of Steve Hamas, is 66 and has been piloting fighters for 45 years, yet the former Penn State athlete is only his second promising heavyweight to get anywhere near to a title shot. The other was Tom Heeney. The rest were all little fellows, stopping at welterweights. They included Mysterious Billy Smith, Martin Flaherty, Marty McCue, Johnny Summers, Owen Moran, Jack Harrison, Jem Driscoll, Matt Wells and a host of lesser lights.

DRISCOLL AND MORAN were two the greatest little fighters ever brought to this country from England, and Harvey recalls that he might have had a third who, pound for pound, was as great as either of the pair named. Old Charley admits that that was where he mad, one of the poorest guesses of his long career.

"That boy was Jimmy Wilde," he said. "But Jimmy weighed only 85 pounds, and I couldn't see any future in fooling around with a fellow as tiny as that. He was working as 'boots' in Jem Driscoll's hotel in Cardiff, and, though Jem urged me to take him, I refused. Jeeminey, what a mistake that was."

YOU NEVER HEAR about the majority of hockey injuries. The players take their bumps and keep right on. There are no gamer athletes. But this season there have been so many major mishaps, particularly in the National League, as to break all records. They're calling it the black year of hockey.

Lester Patrick

A gashed leg and an operation to sew up the tendons necessitated 146 stitches for Helgie Bostrum, Eddie Shore is laid up with a broken shoulder, Cooney Weiland's nose has been broken three times, Tiny Thompson has a floating rib, Stew Adams a broken arm and Normie Smith a broken finger. Roy Worters and Doug Brennan went down with injured knees, Harry Oliver, Red Beattie, Bun Cook, Art Somers, Hib Milks, Earl Seibert and Johnny Gottselig are nursing severe leg injuries.

LESTER PATRICK says he once played on a team that for 10 years did not have a major casualty, but this season five of his New York Rangers have been put on. Aurel Joliat, brilliant left wing of Les Canadiens, advances the opinion that the cause is the heavy body-checking, made doubly severe by the strenuous schedule resulting from the cutting of the league to eight clubs. In other seasons, he says, there was plenty of rough play, but with only two games a week to be played the skaters were given an opportunity to rest and recover. Now a club sometimes plays four games in one week, with no chance for recuperation. Joliat says the legitimate body check is not the one that does the most damage, but rather such other rough stuff as board checks, charging and cross checks. Among the remedies suggested are a lighter schedule and a higher player limit that will allow the clubs to carry more reserves.

COACH REID MAY RELEASE TWO PLAYERS

By CARL W. SHATTO

Although he wouldn't mention any names, Coach Charley Reid, of the Yellow Jackets, local representatives in the International Hockey League, has indicated that at least one, and possibly two players would be put on the well-known block today.

Reid is reported to be ready to give several members of the team their unconditional releases, if he cannot get rid of them through the waiver or trade route, which at this time appears most unlikely.

The reason for the big commotion may be laid to the Jackets' 5-0 setback in Cleveland Saturday night. Reid was very discouraged on his return here and has set his mind to immediate action to remedy the situation.

During the last month the Yellow Jacket mentor has been negotiating with several league pilots in an effort to put through a desirable deal. The results of the negotiating were nil. He almost had several aces, including Pete Palangro, of the Syracuse Stars, but the New York club couldn't see any players on this side of the trade.

At any rate, Coach Reid is certain radical changes in the lineup will take place for Thursday night's game against the Buffalo Bisons in Duquesne Garden. With Syracuse's victory over Cleveland last night, the Yellow Jackets became possessors of the cellar position—one not readily relished by the local club.

In spite of their lowliness, however, the Jackets are not out of the running for a playoff berth. The race is so close that they still have a good chance of gaining one of the four money positions.

GAME BOARD RE-FIRES FOUR

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Four minor employes of the Board of Game Commissioners—storm center of a controversy regarding the board's administration—were dismissed again today.

Dismissal of the men after only a week of service since their return was announced by Charles G. Stone, the executive secretary, who himself has resigned because of the employes' reinstatement on orders from the Governor's office. Stone said the dismissal had been ordered by Adolph Muller, president of the board.

Those dismissed are Albert Trombino, a messenger; John Paxton, William Sowers and Samuel Worley, clerks. Stone said that since their return they had adopted a defiant attitude and persisted in that attitude even when called into his office for a conference today.

The long-drawn-out controversy which has centered about the men began last June, when they filed an unsigned letter with an attache of the Governor's office. The letter made a variety of charges against the personnel of the commission and charged maladministration in every branch of its activity.

Advised of the letter, and after learning of the charges, members of the board ordered an immediate inquiry. None of the major charges made in the letter was substantiated and the board ordered the immediate dismissal of the four youths.

The Governor's office demanded the employes' reinstatement with full pay. Rather than sanction return of the youths, five members of the board, including Ross Leffler, the president, resigned.

VINDICATION FOR LEFFLER

Officials and other prominent members of the various sportsmen's associations in Western Pennsylvania said they believed the second dismissal of four State Game Commission employes, as reported today from Harrisburg, was a vindication of the resignation of Ross L. Leffler, president, and four other members of the commission. Leffler, whose home is in McKeesport, quit with the others as a result of charges made by the four minor employes who were discharged but later reinstated at the command of Gov. Pinchot.

Nineteen Western Pennsylvania organizations were represented at a meeting held last Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce at which time Gov. Pinchot was flayed severely for what the sportsmen claimed was political interference with the Game Commission.

Mrs. Pinchot's name also was brought into the discussion. It was alleged the Governor's wife asked for a change in the Game Commission. This was shown in a copy of a letter from Duncan C. McCallum, personnel director in the Governor's office, to Executive Secretary Stone, which demanded a change "because Mrs. Pinchot wants this done."

LOUGHRAN TO REST

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight boxer recently knocked out by the sensational Steve Hamas, plans to sail tomorrow for a month's rest in Mexico. He then will begin training for a comeback.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: THE WORLD'S CHAMPION MILK COW—Segis Pietertje Prospect, the greatest milk producer of the world, was one of a herd of dairy cattle. Her record for one year is more than 37,000 pounds. She has two records above 35,000 pounds, and is the only cow of any breed in the United States to produce more than 2,865 pounds of butter in two years. The famous cow was born in 1913 and died in 1925. In 1928, a huge monument was erected in her honor by the company that owned her.

PITT, CARNEGIE BREAK EVEN IN CONTESTS

GAMES TONIGHT

Geneva at Carnegie Tech.
Geneva Reserves at Carnegie Plebes.

By JESS CARVER

As formidable and dangerous a combine as exists within this territory when it is right comes to town tonight to swap tricks with Carnegie Tech. This team, Geneva College's Covenanters, an in-and-outer if ever there was one and you can take it there has been, with a flock of veterans and no less than four extremely clever individual stars, ought to give the Tartans a great ball game.

Ken Loeffler

But these Genevians should have given other teams great ball games in the past, too. Unfortunately, the Covenanters seem to have experienced great difficulty in maintaining their pace. At times, and against the toughest of opposition, such as Westminster and the Dukes, Ken Loeffler's charges have played like champions, and won. Other times, against opposition less rugged, they've slipped and staggered and been taken.

TEAM NOT CONSISTENT

So far this year, Geneva has defeated Waynesburg, twice; Bethany, West Virginia and Wash-Jeff, but has lost to Westminster and Allegheny. Westminster did them up very badly last week. The rumor is out that all is not so hunky-dory with the morale of the team; that dissention has poked up its ugly knob and that Coach Loeffler and one or two of his troupers have had clashes of temperament.

Loeffler has a set of four fine stars, and veterans too, in Slim Ransom, a whale of a center; Cliff Aultman, Walt Manning and Slim Montgomery. Hal Fair, Art Grahame, Kent Sole and Ginsberg, the latter a sophomore, former Beaver Falls High School star, complete a stellar list of performers. When they go, they go, and usually leave little to be desired in the way of establishing a winning margin. But when they are all carboned up, they miss badly.

The Carnegie Tech-Geneva basketball game at the Tech gym tonight will be broadcast over WWSW by Jack Keough, of WCAE, and Jess Carver of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports staff.

THREE PIRATES HOLDOUTS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Holdouts are showing quite conspiciously on the Pirate family tree this mid-winter day, but the officials of the club do not seem to be unduly alarmed.

The latest to join the ranks of the dissenters was Paul Waner, hard-hitting rightfielder, who is credited with being the highest-salaried performer on the club. Brother Paul, with his family, is wintering at Miami Beach, Fla.

Lloyd Waner, star centerfielder, was the first of the Buccos to announce his displeasure over 1932 pay. Other holdouts reported are Pitchers Larry French and Ervin Brame, and Gus Suhr, firstbaseman, but apparently Gus' troubles have been ironed out.

The Waner brothers were famous holdouts three years ago. At that time both demanded enormous advances and in the end compromises were effected. On the present occasion, the club has ordered reductions of the salaries of the two little Oklahomans and apparently both are opposed to the downward revision.

Owner Barney Dreyfuss, of the local club, is slowly recovering from a serious operation which he underwent in a New York hospital. In his absence the important contract work of the Buccaneer outfit is in the hands of Treasurer William E. Benswanger and Secretary Sam Waters.

Both Benswanger and Waters are of the opinion that the difficulties will be erased in time to allow the dissenters time to condition themselves for the championship grind.

LEACH A HOLDOUT

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Fred Leach, New York Giant outfielder, says he has returned his contract unsigned because the offer was not sufficient.

Hunk Anderson Has Hot Fight With Tarpon

BOCA GRANDE, Fla., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, the late Knute Rockne's successor as football coach at Notre Dame, thinks a tarpon's fight for life and liberty is comparable to the human battle in a hot college football game.

Anderson, here for a short vacation, caught his first tarpon in the Boca Grande Pass yesterday, a 110-pounder. And it took him the better part of an hour's fight to land the fish.

"Whew," the Rambler coach said, as they measured the tarpon. "That's the kind of fight I want my football players to produce next season. There wouldn't be any question about winning then."

LAYTON BOWS TO DENTON

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Tiff Denton, Kansas City veteran, last night won his first victory in the world three-cushion billiards championship tournament, defeating Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., 50 to 46, in 57 innings.

Young Jake Schaeffer, of San Francisco, rated as peerless at balkline, found his stride and defeated Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, 50 to 31, in 40 innings.

Cleveland Gets Western Open

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The 1932 Western Open golf championship will be held at the Canterbury Golf Club here, it has been announced by officials of the Western Open.

The meet will be either the first week in June or the first week in July, the date to be definitely determined later.

CENTRAL LOOP REORGANIZED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A 140-game split-season schedule, opening April 27 and closing September 5, was adopted yesterday for the 1932 season by officials of the reorganized Central Baseball League, meeting here.

Frederick W. Howell, of Dayton, O., league president, said the first half of the season probably will end June 20, although the date will be subject to vote of the participating clubs. Night baseball will be permitted, the decision resting with each club.

Representatives of the five teams — Fort Wayne, Ind., and Dayton, Akron and Canton, O., and Erie, Pa.—posted $500 forfeiture bond to assure operation of the circuit. An additional $1,500 must be posted by March 1.

President Howell said it was hoped to operate the league on an eight-club basis, but that if this proved impossible a six-club circuit will be formed. Possibilities for the sixth, seventh and eighth teams are Springfield, Portsmouth and Youngstown, O., and South Bend and Gary, Ind.

Two additional meetings will be held before the opening of the season, to be called by Howell at a date and meeting place designated by him.

The reorganization of the league, which was inoperative last year, has been undertaken under a plan to operate on a budget system, limiting salaries to $2,500 per month for 15 players, including the manager, and providing a monthly check of gate receipts in each city.

BOWLING MARK SET

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 25.—What is believed to be a city bowling record here was established at the Elks Club when Bernstein's team rolled a duckpin score of 925. On the team were Eddie Baer with 197, Pete Amberson, 191, J. Myers, 190, Charles Kinnear, 185, and Frank Lowrey, 109.

TITUSVILLE COPS

Long's Review Of Sports At 6 P.M.

Sports fans will listen to James J. Long's weekly review of sports over Radio Station WCAE at 6 o'clock tonight, instead of at 6:30, the usual time.

The popular sports commentator of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will have his usual pithy talk, brought right up to the minute.

On Wednesday night, at 7, the weekly Sports Quiz session of the Trained Seals of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports department will be on the ether from the same station. It will feature Charley Reid, coach and Tory Gregg, captain, of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets Hockey Club, of the International League. They will be interviewed by Carl W. Shatto, hockey expert of this newspaper.

Harry Keck, sports editor, who will be master of ceremonies, has arranged a novelty for the occasion in the form of a cross-fire with other members of the sports staff on topics of general interest.

American Olympic Skaters Beat Japs

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—America's Olympic speed skating team has had its first chance to sample foreign competition. It came through with a clean sweep.

Japanese Olympic entries were the opponents of the United States in an exhibition here yesterday. Only one Japanese placed in a heat.

Four events were skated. Allan Potts, of New York, took the 440; Jack Shea, of Lake Placid, the half-mile; Herbert Taylor, of New York, the mile, and Irving Jaffee, the three-mile.

DAY BEATS BROWN

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Andred Day, colored schoolboy, made his amateur golf record yesterday, to win the Greek circles amateur championship with a 4- and 2 victory over John Brown, who played his home in Portland, Me., each year to attend Miami High School.

SMITH LEADS LOCAL SCORERS

Bob Smith, flashy Carnegie Tech star, raised his margin of advantage in leading local collegiate scoring again last week, when he added 10 points to his credit for a grand total of 120 for 13 games, including 48 field goals and 24 fouls. Tim Lawry, Pitt forward, is running a poor second with a total of 107 points for 16 games, 35 of them being two-pointers and 37 foul shots. Feldman and McDougal, of Duquesne, have garnered 80 points. HYATT, WALKAUSKAS TOP SCORERS

SCHENLEY HIGH PLAYER HAS 72 POINTS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Arthur Hyatt, brilliant center of the Schenley High quintet, leads the individual scorers of Section I and Frank Walkauskas, star forward of the Allegheny High five, heads the scorers in Section II of the City League race, according to latest figures.

Scoring records including games of last Friday show Hyatt setting the pace in Section I with 72 points representing 31 field goals and 10 fouls, while Walkauskas paces the Section II passers with 56 points representing 24 field goals and eight fouls. The scoring records follow.

Shots and Passes

Ray Peters, athletic director at Oliver High School, is eager to fill two open dates on his basketball card for next fall. October 1 and October 8 are available for high schools desiring a home attraction. Arrangements may be completed by calling Ray Peters at Oliver High School.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening will be a busy day for the high schools in the City League and W. P. I. A. L. The schedule calls for games in every one of the 18 W. P. I. A. L. sections due to the fact that no games will be played Friday because of the February graduation exercises to be conducted at all schools.

The City League headliner tomorrow is the battle between Fifth Avenue and Connelley, two of the three schools in a deadlock for first honors in Section I. Schenley, the third team, will face a real test in the improved Allderdice passers at Schenley. Fifth Avenue, Connelley and Schenley each show records of four victories and one defeat in league competition.

South Hills and Perry stake all their hopes of overtaking Allegheny in the Section II fight on their battle at South Hills tomorrow. The two teams are tied for second place, each showing four victories and one defeat. This game should prove the feature attraction in Section II.

The long-awaited battle between New Kensington and Har-Brack, co-leaders in Section V of the W. P. I. A. L., takes place tomorrow night on the New Kensington floor. Each team has entered the league scoring column by defeating a reserve and the winner takes undisputed possession of first place. Carl Gooch's Kensington charges must pass this test if they hope to win the sectional crown.

First place in Section III will go to the winner of the New Castle-Butler game at New Castle tomorrow night. Like New Kensington and Har-Brack, both New Castle and Butler have scored four straight league victories. Butler, always noted for its fine basketball teams, must prove a stumbling block to Phil Bridenbaugh's smooth-working floor machine.

A three-way deadlock for first place is a possibility in Section VI tomorrow night. Kittanning, undefeated leader, opposes Nanook Campbell's Ford City quintet and Leechburg trumps over Darlington. Kittanning, Ford City and Leechburg will be tangled in a three-cornered tie for the top position. Ford City is leading the pack at present with four victories in four starts.

Tied for first place in Section XIII, North Union and Georges will break the deadlock tomorrow night when they clash on the Georges Township floor. The two teams have scored five victories to six league starts.

Schenley High, due to the scoring abilities of Art Hyatt, is leading Section I in regulation field goals with 71 to its credit. Harry Springgate, Allegheny cyclone, is the Section II leader in this department with 70.

BECK LEADS AMATEURS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Qualifying rounds for amateurs entering the eleventh Texas open golf tournament began today here yesterday. Ed Beck, Corpus Christi, Texas, led with a 79, seven strokes above par.

Hart is the 20-year-old, 6-foot 3-inch heavyweight from Troy Hill who is being trained by Joey Reynolds for a career in the ring. He has worked out with Primo Carnera in New York.

GARDEN BOOKS BELMONT-BASS

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Sylvan Bass, of Baltimore, will box the main bout of a show in Motor Square Garden, Tuesday night of next week.

The pair met in the same ring last season, with Bass holding a lead until the bout had to be stopped in an early round because of a severe gash on one of Bass' eyes, caused by a butt.

Joe Raymond, of Baltimore, nephew of Joe and Vince Dundee, will box Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, in the semi-final.

Benny Bass and Frankie Boiarski, of Erie, will box the windup at the Garden on February 15, with Tony Galento, Jersey City heavyweight, appearing as a finalist against Natie Brown, of New York, in the East End arena on February 8.

Guldahl Victor In Arizona Open

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Ralph Guldahl, tall, youthful professional from Detroit, shot a sub-par round of 68 on the final 18 holes to win $600 first place money in the $2,500 Arizona open golf tournament here yesterday. His total was 285, five strokes ahead of the field.

John Perelli, Chicago, finished second with 290. Harry Cooper, Chicago, was one stroke behind in third place with 291. Archie Hambrick, Zanesville, O., pro, followed with 292.

Rangers, Collegians In Benefit Game

A benefit basketball game for the destitute school children of Stowe Township will be staged between the Rox Rangers, coached by Toby Uansa, and the Stowe Collegians led by Bernie Andrews, on the Stowe High School floor Thursday night.

The proceeds of the game will be turned over to the fund that maintains the soup kitchen for the needy. McKees Rocks and Stowe Township college stars will appear in the lineups.

Giants, Hakoahs Gain Semi-Finals

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The New York Giants today had advanced to the Eastern semi-finals of the National Soccer Challenger Cup competition by defeating the Bethlehem Steel team, of Baltimore, 4 to 2. The Hakoah soccer team also reached the semi-finals by routing the Germany Hungarians in Brooklyn, 4 to 1.

'COLOR BAN' LIFTED

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The British Boxing Board of Control has lifted the color ban. This development today, with announcement that the boards will recognize the winner of the Sept. bare Thursday night between Larry Gains, Canadian Negro, and Dan McCorkindale, South African, title holder, as heavyweight champion of the British Empire.

Bill Dummer, who served as matchmaker at Hickey Park, Millvale, last summer, will act in a similar capacity for Eddie Kapphan's new club in the Hill district, it was announced today by Kapphan. Incidentally, the opening show has been set back one week to Friday of next week, due to the short time remaining for Dummer to prepare a bill this week.

Kapphan has had considerable difficulty getting started. He first signed Jack White as matchmaker, but White decided he didn't want the job. Charley Jones also declined it. Dummer is jumping into the breach with considerable enthusiasm.

BREAK FOR MOOSE SHOW

The postponing of the inauguration of the new club cuts down a crowded schedule for the week. With Motor Square Garden unavailable for boxing due to the automobile show holding forth there, Apples Meyers, reopening the Moose Temple tomorrow night, has the local field all to himself, with a Paul Pirrone-Tiger West show. Jim McGurr operates in McKeesport on Thursday, with two 10-round bouts and two six-rounders carded, and the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U., junior championship tournament is listed at the Keystone A. C., Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Davy Grove, of the North Side, will box Frankie Bauer, of Cleveland, and Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, will oppose Young Terry, of Akron, in the two 10-rounders in McKeesport Thursday night.

Entries close tonight for the A. M. A. tournament, which already has a heavy list of hopefuls in the field.

DAVIES IN CANADA

Amateur shows at Ambridge and Beaver Falls tomorrow night are added features, and another amateur show is listed at the William Penn Hotel on Wednesday, while the Pitt and West Virginia University varsity teams tangle in the Pitt Pavilion Saturday night.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, boxes Bobby Leitham at Toronto, Canada, tonight, with Joey Thomas, local featherweight, meeting Eddie Edelman at Wheeling, W. Va. Gorilla Jones and Odonne Piazzi box the final elimination of the N. B. A. middleweight tournament in Milwaukee tonight.

Louis Little Club Honored at Banquet

Honus Wagner, greatest of all major league shortstops, was the principal speaker at the steak dinner given the members of the Louis Little basketball and dramatic clubs in the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night. Wagner gave an interesting talk on baseball stars of the past and present.

The Louis Little Club won the first half basketball championship of the Y. M. H. A. Intra-Mural League. Bill Miller, advisor of the club, was toastmaster. Other speakers were Miss Edith Lazarus, directoress of house activities; Monroe Fruchthander, Jack Allen, Mike Umansky, Coach George Wheeler, Attorneys Louis Little and Harry Bluestone and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Mickey Cochrane Under Knife Again

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Mickey Cochrane, catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, will undergo a minor operation in the Pennsylvania Hospital today for the removal of a small remnant of his tonsils.

Some time ago Cochrane had his tonsils removed and recently was reported to have sinus trouble. The trouble, however, was found to be due to a bit of one of his tonsils which escaped the surgeon's knife.

'CYCLE RECORD BROKEN

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A world speed record for 45 cubic inch displacement motorcycle was set at crowded speedway yesterday by Howard Wherry of Berkeley, who made a mile in 40 2-5 seconds. The previous record of 41 3-5 seconds was held by Al Chatterton, Ohio, Wilson, of San Francisco, broke the national three-mile record for 21.25 cubic inch motorcycles with a time of 2 minutes 5 and 3-5 seconds in winning the three-mile race.

NATIONAL SKATE CHAMPIONS CROWNED

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Two national champions were crowned and a third retained his title yesterday at the close of the two-day national amateur speed skating championships held on a millpond near here.

James Webster, of St. Paul, won the title in the senior men's division, formerly held by Frank Stack, Canadian, and Helen Bina, Chicago, was awarded the championship in the women's division, formerly held by Loretta Neitzel, of Detroit. Wilbur Marks, Chicago, retained his title as boys' intermediate champion.

NORWAY TEAM COPS

GARY, Ind., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Norway's ski-riders yesterday gave another demonstration of why they are favored to win the Olympic title, by winning four of the first six places in the annual tournament of the Ogden Dunes Club.

Birger Ruud led the Norwegians, setting a new world record for artificial slides, leaping 195 feet to better the record of 169 feet set by Casper Omen, of Canton, S. D., last year.

RECORDS BROKEN

CANTON, S. D., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Record-breaking performances marked the eleventh annual ski tournament of the Sioux Valley Club here yesterday with the hill mark of 183 feet, falling seven times before the onslaught of riders from a dozen clubs.

A new mark of 192 feet was set by Svere Fredheim, Minneapolis, after a battle with Roy Mikkelsen, of Chicago, who started the record-smashing with a leap of 185 feet. Both Mikkelsen and Fredheim exceeded the old mark twice. The Chicagoan's best was 190 feet.

MONTREAL DEFEATED

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP)—In a fast game which was not decided until the last second of play, the Lake Placid hockey team yesterday defeated the Montreal All-Stars, 3 to 2.

rapping Western Reserve, Saturday. Coach Hogan had his Tartans out for a long drill and hopes he has the boys right for tonight. Lou Jagnow broke into the action against Reserve and likely will start at his old position at forward against Geneva, with Smith paired with him. Stentz or Edlblut, probably the latter, at center and Capt. Jimmy (Brute) Leonard and Red Fergus at the guards.

Both Pitt and Tech broke even in their campaigning last week, Pitt whipping the Plaid and losing to Notre Dame, and Carnegie bowing to Pitt and winning from Western Reserve. The Dukes got away to a fine start on their jaunt to Lewisburg and Washington, won three in a row and then were smacked down by George Washington.

TITANS WIN PAIR

Westminster won two conference games, beating Geneva and Thiel, and the Covenanters took Waynesburg and Bethany after dropping the important one to Westminster.

Allegheny kept going by nailing Thiel, and Wash-Jeff broke into the victory column for the first time with a triumph over Bethany. These were the important happenings of the week. Tonight's probable Tech lineup:

Racing Card Aids New Orleans Relief

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A special Sunday racing program, with all track funds donated to unemployment relief in New Orleans, attracted 5,000 spectators to Jefferson Park, where the racing season closed Saturday.

The Welfare Day purse, headliner, was won handily by B. Baushman's filly Constance Ann, ridden by J. Neel and worth $7.20 for each $2 mutuel ticket.

Racing will be resumed today with the Fair Grounds track opening its season in Orleans Parish.

OLDTIME BOXER DIES

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 25.—(AP)—W. J. (Lone Star) Gay, who in 1890 held the world amateur championship in boxing, wrestling and swimming, died here today. He was a contender for the world light-weight crown when he fought Frank Erne at New York. He was defeated in the eighteenth round. His widow survives.

GRIFFITHS TO WED

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The engagement of Helen Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hayes, and Harold A. Griffiths, Notre Dame, '31, basketball star, has been announced. Miss Hayes is a student. Griffiths is president of a hat company in Chicago.

British Ice Pro Skates Well On Stilts

His skates, each weighing eight pounds, are attached to stilts 22 inches high. In an exhibition Saturday Taylor skated 62 seconds on one foot. In this stork-like fashion he skated back and forth between 12 oranges placed three feet apart.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
LAST NIGHT'S RESULT

N. Y. Rangers	4—Detroit 3

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Detroit took a firmer hold on second place in the International Hockey League by defeating Windsor, 3 to 1, last night. The battle with the cross river forces drew 14,571 fans, the largest hockey crowd here since 1929.

Detroit's sticks were too potent, especially in poke and back checking, for the Bulldogs, and except for the last few minutes, when the Canadian forces swept in mass formations, the locals had the game well in hand.

The game was closely officiated, which brought many penalties, Manager George Hay getting a major when his stick cut Huggins' face in a face off. The lineup:

Windsor		Detroit
Kerr	G	Levine
Arbour	R. D.	Rochelle
Gallagher	L. D.	Colville
Hamilton	C.	Hay
Dugard	R. W.	Goodfellow
Richardson	L. W.	Collins

By TOM BIRKS

With the greatest soccer crowd of the season on hand, Morgan and the Castle Shannon Morrys battled to a 1-1 tie in the semi-final round of the West Penn Cup, at South Park, yesterday afternoon.

Both goals came in the first half. Fred Donnelli crossed the ball hard after 17 minutes of play, and Buff neatly headed the ball into the corner of the net for the first.

Shannon's goal was the result of a brilliant run and cross by Wilson. He neatly tricked Urbanic, upset the Morgan defense, crossed the sphere, and Zeewan had an easy time slipping the ball past Burnaby.

8,000 FANS ATTEND

The firs 20 minutes found the Shannon defense getting a terrific bombardment from the Morgan forwards, but, while Van Jura and Peckovitch kicked well, it was Morgan's fault a score was not made. A noticeable lack of co-operation was evident in the forward line. Johnny McCosky and Lyons, playing splendid soccer, were the only players to live up to their reputation.

Morgan's defense appeared shaky, but Shannon's looked wonderful and never hesitated. Chappel and Dave Mathews held the forwards in a vice-like grip, however. A draw probably was a true result.

Urbanic could not get the Morgan line together, and Fred Donnelli went to center, but he did not achieve more success than Urbanic. A. Wilson and Zeewan were dangerous for the Morrys and ran the ball great, but the Shannon attack was not impressive.

REPLAY SCHEDULED

The replay will be staged in three weeks. Sunday the West Penn Cup committee is going to put on the junior replayed game in the cup ties, featuring the Owls and Castle Shannon Juniors. This game has been put off for a number of weeks.

A week from Sunday brings the National amateur champions to Pittsburgh in the Western semi-final round of the National amateur cup. The Akron Goodyears clash with the Morrys in what appears to be one of the greatest matches of the season. It will be played at South Park.

HEIDELBERG WINS

In Panhandle League games, Heidelberg defeated Gladden, 3 to 1; Sturgeon nosed out Cedar Grove, 2-0, and South View and Primrose battled to a scoreless tie.

In an independent contest, Duquesne Republican set down Fitz Henry, 4 to 2. The Morgan-Morrys lineup:

Morgan—1		Shan. Morrys—1
Barnaby	G	Bedick
Urbanic	L. B.	Van Jura

MARKET FAILS AS REFLECTOR OF TRADE

Internal Laws Controlling Stocks; Real Conditions Not Shown by Activities

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Jan. 25.—The stock market of late has been responding to its own laws of internal behavior, rather than mirroring conditions in the real world outside.

The January rally, which was checked late last week, was largely a mechanical rebound from the oversold situation in December. A combination of dire forces operated last month in a manner which might well have established the bottom for the bear cycle. With a background of adverse business news and with commodity prices at a new ebb, there was in addition a torrent of selling from those who believed it might be their last chance to establish losses for tax purposes. Such liquidation came on top of selling at the behe of banks which wanted to clean up the dregs for window dressing purposes at the beginning of the new year.

Mr. Rukeyser.

It was to be expected that the selling pressure would be relaxed immediately after the turn of the year. But quixotically the perverse stock market declined sharply in the opening business days of the new year. It developed that such early weakness was due entirely to several special weak situations. By the third business day, underlying forces were asserting themselves. The tax and bank selling had abated, relieving pressure from the price structure at the very time when reinvestment funds were flowing into the market place. The reinvestment dollar had extraordinary purchasing power, and certain undervalued second grade bonds and shares rebounded with unwonted celerity. The comeback was hastened by willingness of the more venturesome to acquire quasi-investment issues at 50 cents on the dollar.

When such buying and short covering were completed, however, the market was without motivation for several days. Recognizing that the upward surge was no longer the line of least resistance, traders sought profit opportunities in fighting the rally.

Meantime, if general business can hold its own through these critical winter months which in human terms represent the most difficult period, there will be at least negative progress. For before long seasonal influences will again operate to push the line of business activity above the bottom.

Guaranty Trust Sees Better Business

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Guaranty Trust Company finds that a "perceptible improvement in business sentiment has appeared since the beginning of the year."

At the same time the bank calls attention to some serious problems that remain to be faced.

Bank failures are still numerous. Many local governments are experiencing great difficulty in meeting their current financial requirements. The real estate situation in numerous localities is unfavorable. General tax increases are inevitable. No substantial revival in construction is visible or in current prospect.

BUSINESS

Coal Cleaning Plants Of Pittsburgh Coal Adding New Markets.

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

USE OF CLEANING plants and improved mining methods made it possible for the Pittsburgh Coal Company to expand its markets to some extent last year. The annual report is expected to show a decline of about 16 per cent in the company's production. This will compare with a drop of 19.1 per cent in the total bituminous coal production of the entire country. Officials believe that a recovery in general business will be reflected materially in future sales in new markets.

With business on a down grade the company will show a larger deficit for 1931 than was reported for 1930. The loss for the year was less than the total charges for depreciation and depletion so that the cash position was not impaired.

Following the break with the United Mine Workers and the starting of the coal strike in 1925, the company has been waging a slow uphill fight to overcome difficulties arising from the inequalities of wage rates with other districts, unfavorable changes in freight rates and falling prices.

* * *

Plant Modernization Nearing Completion

MODERNIZATION OF plants has been undertaken in order to produce operating costs which would enable competition with all districts. High cost mines were abandoned or their workings were consolidated. Modern tipples were installed and old mining methods were replaced by electrical machinery. This was followed by the building of cleaning plants at the largest mines. These have enabled the company to produce coal low in ash and sulphur which can compete with the naturally superior fuels of some of the other districts.

Following three years of costly strikes the company was successful in securing a sufficient force of miners willing to work on a nonunion basis. Pittsburgh district mines are still paying higher wages than the average of West Virginia and Kentucky mines which originally precipitated the long series of wage cuts.

* * *

Trend of Earnings Starts to Improve

THE COMPANY STARTED to show losses in 1925. In 1926 with labor troubles at their most acute stage the loss was $2,175,949. This was after charging off depreciation and depletion of $2,114,617. In each year since then the loss has been less than the reserves. By 1929 improved operating methods and expanding sales reduced the loss to only $28,758.

Further improvement was blocked by the decline in general business activity. The loss for 1930 was $1,387,901 but this was after deducting depreciation and depletion of $3,801,784. In each year since 1925 the provision for these reserves has been increased.

The company was in a good current financial condition at the close of 1930 and no particularly marked change is expected to be indicated in the annual report for 1931. The balance sheet of December 31, 1930, showed current assets of $21,521,500 against current liabilities of $4,276,757. Cash amounted to $3,859,068 and merketable securities to $3,181,845.

The principal capital expenditures last year were for new equipment at coal cleaning plants and a six-mile connection between the Youngstown and Suburban Railway and the Pittsburgh, Lisbon and Western Railroad. Both lines are owned by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The connection cost about $500,000.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Advance

Local Market Quiet

STOCKS CREEP CAUTIOUSLY HIGHER

Market Advances Slowly In Sluggish Trading by Early Afternoon; Steel Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—In hope of relatively good news from United States Steel's dividend meeting tomorrow, and from the Chicago railway wage conference within a day or two, the stock market crept cautiously higher today.

The list opened with a little further scattering continuation of the movement of late last week, but offerings were quickly absorbed and the list began to work higher in sluggish trading. By early afternoon there were numerous advances of 1 to 2 points in principal issues.

The [illegible] merchandising, miscellaneous industrials made real progress. Issues up 1 to 2 points included Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, New Haven, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, United States Steel, American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers shares. Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck, General Foods, National Biscuit, Westinghouse, American Can, Case, Consolidated Gas and others. Auburn pushed it more than 3.

In advance of United States Steel's dividend meeting tomorrow afternoon traders were inclined to keep to the sidelines.

Week-end steel trade reviews reported some further gradual increases in production, the publication Steel, placing current ingot output at 28 per cent of capacity.

The industries is hopeful that an agreement on a wage reduction may bring the railroads back into the steel market. Expenditures for maintenance of way and equipment have been sharply reduced, and improvement in railway finances might prompt considerable deferred work of that character. For instance Baltimore and Ohio spent approximately $42,000,000 of maintenance of way and equipment for the first 11 months of 1931, as reduced from $60,000,000 in the like period of 1930, and $75,000,000 in the same 11 months of 1929.

DROP NOTED IN U. S. WEALTH

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The total national wealth of the United States in 1930 was $329,700,000,000, the National Industrial Conference Board said today.

The total national income for the same year was $71,000,000,000.

If the board said, these sums could have been distributed equally among all the families in the nation, each family would have had $10,961 of capital and $2,366 of income.

The total wealth—tangible physical assets—fell $32,100,000,000, or 8.9 per cent, from 1929, while income representing the sum of personal income of all individuals in the country, plus business savings, dropped $14,000,000,000, or 16.4 per cent.

The last estimate of the United States Census was in 1922, showing national wealth of $320,800,000,000. The per capita wealth in 1930 was $2,677 as compared with $2,977 in 1929, and the per capita income was $578 in 1930 as compared with $701 in 1929. Pennsylvania's per capita wealth in 1930 was $3,068.

Forbes

Constructive Developments Still Continue.

—By B. C. FORBES

CONSTRUCTIVE developments continue.

It cannot yet be said, however, that industry and business show general, definite improvement.

VERY ENCOURAGING is the substantial rise in wheat, accompanied by strength in other grains. Cotton, too, holds its ground. Nothing would do more to stimulate confidence and activity than a sustained betterment in major farm values. While it is true that we have become the foremost industrial nation in the world, agriculture directly employs approximately a third of our population, and the whole people are affected financially by the amount realized for our crops.

Mr. Forbes

EMPLOYMENT REPORTS create at least somewhat stronger rays of hope. The Empire State returns reveal less than normal seasonal decrease. Both Detroit and Cleveland record actual gains. From some centers come statements that certain industrial plants are taking on additional workers. One survey discloses that, despite the extreme caution observed by buyers last year, one out of every seven concerns, in 504 different lines of business, earned more profit than in 1930.

WASHINGTON AGAIN cheered the financial and business world by promptly legislating into existence the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Both its president, Gen. Dawes, and its chairman, Eugene Meyer, enjoy in unusual degree the confidence of men of affairs. Other happenings at Washington have made a favorable impression, especially among skeptics who feared Congress would be gratuitously disturbing factor.

Proposed changes in the federal reserve law are scrutinized with acute vigilance. Happily, the more influential law makers taking part are regarded as unlikely to force through dangerous innovations.

LESS IS NOW HEARD of threatened "inflation." Nothing could be more absurd than to describe anything already done or seriously recommended as really inflationary. We have a long way to go before overdone deflation has been corrected.

The easy money policy adopted by the federal reserve authorities is essentially timely. While it has not had electric effect upon either business or securities, it cannot well fail gradually to have beneficial fruits.

THE MERCURIAL stock market indulged in a sharp relapse on Friday, but on Saturday recovered from its fright. Delay in reaching a rail wage agreement was blamed. Probably the move was hatched, for no concrete reason, in the minds of professional bears. Let nobody imagine that bear selling has ceased to be an influence. Stock quotations still average 12 per cent higher than earlier in the month. Both domestic and foreign bonds are also substantially above their early January bottom.

One pleasant incident was the instantaneous absorption of $100,000,000 New York City obligations. The yield, 6 per cent, appealed to investors. So did the reading of the riot act by bankers to Mayor Walker and his colleagues in the city administration. Definite progress is believed to have been made in checking extravagant tendencies by tax levyers throughout the land.

BROKERS' LOANS once again dropped. They now total only $513,000,000 contrasted with $5,804,000,000 in 1929, a decrease of over 90 per cent.

Just as the steadily mounting loan account in 1929 was a convincing signal that disaster was being courted, so the drastic dwindling in borrowing can now be interpreted as a signal that the foundation has been laid for emphatic recovery.

Foreign or other events may temporarily delay an impressive upward movement, but that such a movement will come sooner or later, is as certain as the rising of the sun.

Canned Food Prices Termed Ruinous

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The prices of most canned foods are ruinous, Francis A. Harding, of Watertown, Mass., president of the National Canners' Association, told the National Canners' convention. The situation means ruin for the canning industry if things are not alleviated during the next 12 months. He said curtailing of production in 1932 "would be unsound."

GARY DISTRICT BUSINESS UP

GARY, Ind., Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Credit for taking the lead in business revival was given today to the steel and railroad industries.

Work for hundreds of men was provided with orders for steel rails and cars totaling $2,500,000 to Indiana's Calumet district. Nine thousand tons of rails will be rolled for the Chicago and Erie Railroad. The order was divided between the United States Steel Corporation at Gary and South Chicago and the Inland Steel Company at Indiana Harbor.

Twenty-five refrigerator cars will be built at the shops of the Cudahy Packing Company in East Chicago, and 150 hopper cars for the Northern Pacific will be built by the Pressed Steel Car Company at Hegewisch. Indiana Harbor and Gary mills will turn out 2,000 tons of steel for the cars.

East Chicago mills have received large orders for tinplate from Middlewest canneries. Several thousand men are expected to be recalled when the railroad wages are adjusted at the Chicago conference. Large orders are anticipated at that time.

Preferred Holders Get Bellas Control

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Preferred stockholders of National Bellas Hess Company are now in voting control of the company as the result of omission of four dividends. A meeting of preferred holders is scheduled for February 11.

THE BEAST OF THE CITY

"Just what I say—yeh don't want no trouble. Maybe you wasn't so sure about them two fellers. Maybe when yeh glom 'em in court yeh won't be so sure. Ye're a busy feller and work in de store an' yeh don't have time to stand out on de street an' see everything what's goin' on. Do yeh?"

"What do you mean—I ain't bothering nobody—I saw them fellers—I couldn't help it—"

"Lissen," and the other shoved his face across the counter until his nose almost touched the old man's, and his voice was very hard. "I think it'd be better for yeh if yeh wasn't so sure. One o' dem boys is got an old mudder an' de udder one is keepin' his six little brudders and sisters—"

"Ain't it? Well, if some of de boys by mistake should happen to touch off a pineapple under de back o' dis store where yeh live wit' your family, and blow ye all to hell or if somebody should happen to ask yeh to go out ridin' down a one-way street or if dey pick up de body o' your kid in a sewer wit' some lead weights for jewelry—wouldn't DAT be too bad?"

The little merchant's face went green. He opened his mouth and tried to talk but nothing came out.

"Do yeh ever hear o' Belmonte?" clicked the gangster. Grossman began to collapse. "If yeh had de hull army an' navy behind yeh and yeh pulled any o' dat stuff on his boys in a courtroom, he'd have yeh chased aroun' de world an' dey'd croak yeh in a synagogue . . . but he can be jus as nice as he can be fierce."

He turned to the other hoodlum. "Got any jack on yeh?" The other one nonchalantly slipped his hand in his vest pocket and flipped two yellow bills on the counter. "Yeah, I got a little chicken-feed." The bills slowly unfolded; they were two grand notes.

Two thousand dolars! Sam Grossman and his father and his father's father before him had never seen $2,000. The hold on his forearm was released. Grossman clung to the counter for support but his head leaned forward and his eyeballs bulged as he stared in fascinated concentration on the money.

"See? It takes yeh five minutes to figger out the denomination o' two grand notes. Your eyes is terrible, brudder, an' yeh know it. Yeh couldn' never be sure o' nuttin' what yeh seen or t'ink yeh seen. Do yeh see what I mean?"

"I guess yeh see . . . an' if yeh don' see you ain't gonna see nuttin'—long . . . Well, so long an' good luck . . . come on, Charley. Our friend here didn' see no guys doin' no shootin'. In fact, he wouldn know us if he seen us again . . . would yeh, old timer?"

In the ante-room to the chief's office sat Daisy. She looked as though she had just been outfitted by the smartest establishments on the avenue. Her make-up was meticulous. Only one who knew her well would have noticed that her eyelids were swollen and the contour of her pert face was drawn.

The copper-secretary to the chief opened the door and beckoned her. "Okay, the chief'll see you." Daisy walked into the presence of the man to whom she owed her liberty, the man who was trying to send her lover—his own brother—to the electric chair. Fitz looked abstracted. He waved a hand, not unfriendly, and mumbled. "Sit down, Daisy. What do you want?" Daisy crossed to his desk and leaned both her hands on the edge and brought her face toward his.

"Chief, I wanna make a deal with you." Fitz looked up sharply and silently waited the proposition. "I think I could get Ed to turn State's evidence if you'd square the District Attorney to spring him for it."

"Did—did Ed send you to me with that message?"

"No. They haven't let me see him since they threw him in. I haven't slept a wink—just prayin' and tryin', in my own dumb way, to see if there ain't some way to save my man—your brother—from the chair. An' I thought——"

Synopsis

Jim Fitzpatrick, police captain noted for his honesty, succeeds in having Daisy Beaumont freed after she is arrested on a false charge. Four racketeers are found murdered and Fitzpatrick suspects Guiseppe Belmonte, overlord of a huge vice ring. Belmonte is arrested by Fitzpatrick, but is soon released. Ed Fitzpatrick, sergeant of the vice squad, promises to help his brother Jim to bring Belmonte to justice. They discover that Daisy is employed by the vice leader. Ed admires Daisy and visits her. Belmonte plans revenge on Jim with Daisy's help. Ed is detailed to guard a fortune in gold bullion being transferred from a bank. Becoming drunk, he plans to steal it himself and reveals his plans to Mike Cholo. The next day the gold is stolen and Lieut. Makowsky is killed while chasing the robbers. Two of the bandits are arrested and tell Jim that Ed planned the robbery. Jim orders Ed's arrest on a murder charge.

Now Go On

Jim's copper-secretary announced that Daisey was calling.

"Shut up. God knows its terrible enough that my brother should be a robber and a murderer, without making him a squealer. He was one of them. They went in together, now let them stick together, and let them burn together . . . and you get out!"

Daisy staggered back.

"My God! Haven't you got a heart?"

"Yes—Belmonte says I've got my shield pinned on it."

* * * *

Michaels the shyster, the man who soused all night with the riff-raff of the Big Burg—who ogled with drunken eyes of lust the faces of underworld molls—mouthpiece of organized viciousness and lawlessness—who wrung the hearts of juries and broke the hearts of prosecutors and policemen—turned at a high-spot in his final argument and asked the judge if he might have five minutes' leave from the courtroom. The judge nodded.

The 12 men fidgeted in the box and blinked and looked around the room. In the front row of spectators sat two young men, dudishly dressed, hair oiled and slicked back, derbies in their laps, looking like a small-time vaudeville team. They had never taken their eyes from the eyes of the witnesses during the testimony for the state—except to switch them to meet the eyes of the jurymen.

Behind them sat Daisy Beaumont. She had wept through most of the trial. She had taken the stand and denied everything except that she knew Ed Fitzpatrick. On cross-examination she had denied hotly that she had ever visited the chief and offered to have Ed Fitzpatrick turn state's evidence for his life. Michaels had never been better than in his gentle examination of Daisy.

Ed Fitzpatrick sat with "No-neck" Mike and "Ginger Slim." Ed's attitude was one of sullen defiance, and he never once glanced toward his brother, seated with Tom across the room. Sam Grossman, the cigar-store owner, sat a bit shame-faced over near Jim; and the little boy and old woman, who had before identified the two killers, seemed terror-stricken. The D. A. had raced and ranted at the three witnesses, but they had stuck to their stories that they could not be positive of th.. two men—no, not positive.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

AMONG THE more recent additions to the New York criminal code is something that is called the public enemy act. It's an elastic sort of thing, and I imagine it was passed to give the police a little more leeway in dealing with suspicious characters. Briefly, the public enemy act permits the police to arrest anyone who consorts with underworld members. In other words, if you're seen dining with one of the more notorious crooks, you are liable to arrest. Fair or not, there it is.

The other afternoon one of the boys around Broadway was picked up on that very charge. Pete is the gentleman's name and, although he is a shrewd gentleman in his chosen racket, he doesn't know very much about law. I don't think he had any education whatsoever, and he makes no bones about it. As he, himself, will tell you, "there ain't a college professor in the woild what makes what I make." So that is that.

As soon as Pete was shoved into the Tombs, he began to cry loudly for his attorney. He would never have gone to the Tombs in the first place if his lawyer had been in town, but Pete hadn't been able to locate him until he had already been held. Now it was up to his attorney to get his bail and have him released.

His attorney nodded.

"I'll do the best I can, Pete," he returned. "But first I want to know if you understand what you are charged with?"

The other man shook his head.

"I gotta admit, counsellor," he said, "that it ain't very clear to me. If you don't mind, would you gimme the whole rap in your own words? Then maybe I'll get a better idea."

"Pete," he asserted pompously, "you have been incarcerated under section 17893 of the Penal Code. It is charged herein that you did willfully and of your own volition consort with characters of a suspicious nature."

He raised his eyes and folded the papers.

"There it is, Pete," he murmured. "Now what have you to say for yourself?"

Pete swallowed hard. It didn't take a detective to recognize the fact that Pete was just as much in the dark as he had been before. But that wasn't going to stop him. Not with his training.

"It's a rotten lie, counsellor," he cried. "I was never near the place and I got an absolute alibi!" . . .

ALL OF which brings to mind my favorite courtroom story. If I'm not mistaken, it was Evelyn Hoey who told it to me over in London some time ago. At any rate, it concerns an elderly Italian who was summoned to court as a witness in an automobile accident.

It was his first appearance in a courtroom and he wasn't at all awed by the surroundings. When it came time for him to sit in the witness box he smiled genially at the crowded courtroom and bowed happily to the judge.

"Did you or did you not," he thundered, "see my client driving the automobile? Answer yes or no."

The Italian raised his hands.

"Well," he began, "I tella you. I was acomin'—"

The judge interrupted him.

"Wait a minute," he said, "Don't answer that question, Tony. Attorney for the defense will frame his question in a different manner."

"Well," responded Tony, "I tella you. I was acomin'—"

Once again the judge stepped in.

Tony looked more puzzled than ever. Once more the attorney attempted a question. Once more Tony began his "Well, I tella you." And once more the judge interrupted him.

This was too much for Tony. He rose to his feet.

"Hey, listen," he shouted to the judge, "I moosta get back to my barb' shop. You no wanta hear my story? Go home!" . . .

* * *

IT ACTUALLY happened in one of the Times Square barrooms the other night. A well-known comedian was sitting at a table with a new-found girl friend and was romancing her all over the place. Both of them were completely fried and there wasn't a soul in the joint who couldn't hear every word they said.

"You're a gorgeous thing," he muttered lovingly. "You got most beautiful eyesh I ever saw."

The comedian swayed closer.

"Open 'em," he said seriously, "I'd like to see 'em." . . .

* * *

TEXAS GUINAN, who seems to grow younger with the years, is back in town again. I met her last night for the first time in several months.

As usual, Miss Guinan was filled with ideas, notions and black coffee.

As we talked I said something to Miss Guinan about the penalty of remaining away from Broadway too long. I pointed out that people forget, or some such thing. Miss Guinan laughed.

"Not when you're on the front pages as much as I am, Mark," she assured me. "And that's not conceit talking because I wish they'd let me alone. But it doesn't seem to work out that way. No matter what I do, publicity seems to follow me.

"When you're in such a position, people don't have a chance to forget you. They follow your movements. And while many of them may not agree with some of the things I say and do, they still know about me. You understand?"

Since that seemed the easiest way to end the discussion, I said I did. A few minutes later a middle-aged couple entered the club. The woman stopped at our table and shook hands warmly with Texas.

"How are you, my dear Miss Guinan?" she gushed. "I haven't seen you in some time. Have you been away?" . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

The first Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club Mail Box, published in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph, contained only letters relating to club activities. We hope, next week, and each succeeding Sunday, to be able to publish letters on other subjects.

It would be interesting to know, for instance, what sort of books our boys and girls like to read. We know that boys like stories of adventure—but tell us the names of some of them. It might help some other boy who likes the same kind of stories.

Another good subject for a letter would be familiar and historic sights in Pittsburgh. There are many interesting places and things in this great city of ours, but unless we have eyes to see them, and minds to remember them, they mean nothing. Take a walk through the park nearest your home—there are any number of parks in Pittsburgh—then write a letter telling what you saw. There will be statues, lakes, trees, winding walks, men and women, groups of children. Tell, in your letter, what you remember best. Was it a gigantic statue of a great man, or was it a policeman leading a little child across the street? Was it the bare trees outlined against the sky, or a ragged man sitting on a bench?

A third subject might tell about your ambitions. What would you like to be when you are through school? A mechanic? An artist? A doctor? A teacher? A librarian? A nurse? Maybe you are one of those children who dream of traveling in foreign lands and exploring uncharted parts of the world. We may have boys in the Junior Komic Club whose names will be flashed in the headlines as having accomplished unheard-of feats of bravery and daring. Tell us of your dreams!

One subject is enough for a letter—books, interesting sights or your ambitions.

Only letters from members of the club will be published in our Mail Box, but you may join the club by enclosing a slip of paper or a card giving your name and address and the chapter to which you would like to belong.

Chapters are located at the Arsenal, Belmar, Cameraphone, Davis, Etna Harris, Kenyon, Manor, Mt. Oliver, Plaza, Rowland, South Hills, Schenley, Enright theaters, Pittsburgh, and the Memorial (McKeesport); Prince (Ambridge); Grand (Greensburg), and State theaters (Washington).

Address your letters either to the manager of the theater or to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Rowland: Mary Alice Hull, James Swoger.

Etna Harris: Andrew Benscies, Lois Garrard, Helen Schafer.

South Hills: Arthur Vossberg, Donald Brown, Helen Rodgers, Raymond Lawlor, Elizabeth Oxenreiter, Mary Fleming.

Manor: Thomas Jones, Leon Simon, Milton Snyder.

Davis: James Fardner.

Memorial (McKeesport): Jesse Schwartz, Harold Weigand.

Prince (Ambridge): James Morton, John Boyd, Mike Nitkulimich.

FOR A FEAST OF FUN WITH THE SUNDAY SUN. TELEGRAPH COMICS TUNE IN ON WCAE—12:30 NOON EVERY SUNDAY — FOR UNCLE BOB AND BETTY. HAVE YOUR SUNDAY COMIC SECTION OPEN AND WAITING.

Storm Signals

The People Are Becoming Aroused Over the Extortionate Charges Imposed by Public Utilities.

The constitution of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association, formed here last week by representatives of 32 municipalities, calls for public ownership of the public utilities.

The Philadelphia Record, which is NOT a Communistic organ, proposed in an editorial on Saturday that the city acquire and operate Philadelphia's entire transit system.

These things are not as isolated and disconnected as they may seem. They are all symptoms of popular dissatisfaction with the treatment received from the public utilities. They are storm signals warning the utilities that the people intend to have good service at fair rates, and that if they cannot get them in one way they will try another.

The utilities companies receive many valuable privileges from the people. They are allowed the use of the public streets and highways for their lines. They are exempted from certain forms of property taxation to which all other companies are subject. Many of the utilities are granted a monopoly by the state—no other companies are allowed to compete with them.

In return for this protection and these privileges and favors the utilities are expected to charge the public for their service no more than is necessary to give them a reasonable return on their investment. In Pennsylvania 7 per cent is regarded as a reasonable return.

There is good ground for suspicion that some of the utilities in Pittsburgh are earning considerably more than 7 per cent even though their books may not show it.

There is good ground for suspicion that stock has been watered, investments inflated, and the finances of the companies deliberately juggled, for the purpose of confusing the public, through the formation of holding companies. It is this suspicion that is back of the impending Congressional investigation of holding companies.

The shares and bonds of some of our public utilities are among the most valuable of investments. At a time when other concerns are having a hard task earning dividends they continue to give a rich return. There would be no objection to this if their earnings were based on fair rates, but abundant evidence is at hand that many rates are extortionate—the 25-cent fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, for example, for a 10-cent bus ride.

Rates will have to come down. Nearly every other necessity of life has come down, and the utilities might as well reconcile themselves now as later to the requirement that they get into step.

They are trying in every possible way to dodge a reduction. They are trying to bamboozle the public into believing it is necessary in the public interest that they shall become swollen with profits.

Their organization at Harrisburg, the Pennsylvania Electric Association, presents in its current "news bulletin," for example, the statement of Page Golsan, vice president of Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., that "a rate of 7 cents a kilowatt hour may be more beneficial to the common good than one of 6 cents, even though the latter rate still yields a proper return on the base rate."

But the public will not be bamboozled. Nor will it forget that the Duquesne Light Company charges as much as 9 cents a kilowatt hour for domestic service.

An Agricultural State

Pennsylvania's Expert Farmers Have Given It High Rank in Many Crops.

The State Farm Show held in Harrisburg last week did not begin to attract the attention that the state agricultural fairs attract in some of the southern and western states. It is hard to think of Pennsylvania as a great agricultural state because of the greater attention paid to manufacturing and mining. But if you are one of those who have never thought of Pennsylvania as a great producer of the fruits of the soil, consider our record for last year:

Pennsylvania was first among the states in cigar-filler tobacco, first in buckwheat, fourth in the quantity of potatoes, but first in the value of the crop; fourth in grapes, fifth in apples (fourth in value), fifth in maple products, sixth in tame hay (third in value), seventh in commercial apples, peaches and rye, tenth in winter wheat and pears, twelfth in corn, and thirteenth in oats.

Pennsylvania has expert farmers.

"God Bless the Alantic Ocean!"

Europe can pay her debts—the so-called war debts—if she will put her house in order. They are a PRIOR lien, and there is no reason why the private loans of international bankers should be given preferential treatment.

But so long as her expenditures for war take preference over her expenditures for peace, so long as marching men are more important in her scheme of things than working men, so long as she prefers ancient hatreds to new friendships, one can only exclaim with the late Baron Rosen, who came to America as a refugee from Russia, "God bless the Atlantic Ocean," and WISH THAT IT WERE TWICE AS WIDE.

Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era," and other important works. Now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It was hardly necessary in the discussion of the pending proposition to cut the pay of most federal officials, except the President, to inject Mr. Hoover's financial status into the debate. It is not proposed that there shall be any cut in his salary, although other rulers during these distressing times voluntarily have cut theirs. It might be possible to cut the President's traveling allowance, since his duty at present is in Washington. But there is no serious disposition to do even that. However, Mr. Hoover's fortune was brought into the debate with interesting results.

It is commonly understood that he is worth in the millions, but an administration spokesman announced that he had made much money but had "given it away" so lavishly on charity that he has less than a million left. The amount he gave to the emergency relief certainly would have made no impression on a fortune of millions, but he may carefully have concealed his benefactions.

But even so he still remains the richest President we have ever had. His entire life had been devoted to money-making before the war, and he was deeply interested in mines in far places in the Old World. Even now, with his fortune reduced to "less than a million," he still remains the richest of the Presidents.

* * *

Jefferson Died Penniless

Few of our Presidents have possessed more than a comfortable competence. Many of them were very poor. Washington was a rich man for his time; and Jefferson was rich when he entered the public service, but he died penniless because he had to neglect his plantation, and idolators from all quarters of the world ate him out of house and home.

During the days of his retirement it was commonplace for 30 and 40 guests to breakfast, lunch and dine at Monticello, and many of these were utter strangers. That is the reason he was compelled to sell his library—which became the nucleus of the Congressional Library.

No other President could be said to be rich. Most were merely comfortable. Some were very poor. But statesmanship cannot be measured in terms of money possessed. Hamilton left nothing, and never had much; and the younger Pitt died hopelessly in debt and the nation discharged his obligations.

* * *

Rather Late in the Day to Begin

Our sympathy and concern today may well be confined to the millions who are denied the right to work for bread; to the millions with whom mere bread is a problem.

In New York City this problem is accentuated by the possibility of a cut, demanded by the bankers if at all, in the $20,000,000 relief fund voted by the municipal government. The individual contributions raised in New York by the President's committee are not a drop in the bucket.

The President is determined that not one penny shall go from the Federal Treasury to prevent starvation. He insists that smaller governmental units shall make the appropriations; and if the bankers insist that they shall not, it is just too bad for the hungry. Notice has been served by the welfare leaders that any cut in this would be "calamitous and would spread suffering and hunger," since "acute need faces 800,000 unemployed."

The President's "American relief" measures are for the relief of banks and railroads, but before the session is over Congress will have the opportunity to vote for measures intended for the relief of hungry men, women and children. It is rather late in the day to begin to think about them, and Congress should have been called in extra session to grapple with the problem of the starvation of the people.

Public works could, and should have been launched, and the public works that Mr. Hearst, Senator Wagner and Senator La Follette have in mind would add billions in value to American property. If the danger of starvation continues and increases because private contributions, supplemented by appropriations from small governmental units, have been exhausted, Congress will probably pass a measure for the relief of the unemployed. It is not likely that Mr. Hoover will veto such a measure.

Mr. Coolidge's Version Of the Depression

Meanwhile Mr. Coolidge, touted by some as the only hope for his party, has written his version of the depression, from which it appears that no one is responsible. Certainly no element or group. Assuredly no party. Of course a party was responsible for the counterfeit prosperity, but its responsibility ceases when depression comes as a result in large measure of its policies.

Forced to admit that human greed had something to do with the conditions now, he points an accusing finger at the greed of workingmen and farmers. Didn't the workingmen demand high wages when profits were so enormous in one industry that a million dollar bonus could be given a high salaried official? And then this choice morsel:

This is an amazing suggestion for two reasons; one is that, while President, Mr. Coolidge found it so easy to leave the farmers out of consideration, and the other is that the farmers were hurrying toward bankruptcy throughout the whole of Mr. Coolidge's regime.

* * *

'The Regime of Andrew Mellon'

It is not fair to Mr. Hoover to hold Mr. Coolidge's administration up as a rebuke to him, since the policies of Mr. Hoover have been a mere continuation of those of his predecessor. Indeed, Mr. Hoover was an important part of the Coolidge administration.

That peculiar little transaction in the matter of the Peruvian loan came under Mr. Coolidge's rule, though Mr. Hoover, as a member of his cabinet, was directly involved through his department.

It is unfair to concentrate the blame for present tragic conditions on Mr. Hoover; they came too soon after he took office. The stage had been perfectly set for the tragedy during Mr. Coolidge's time; he merely retired from the stage before the presentation. Thus was Mr. Hoover left to take the role of the villain in the piece.

The counts in the indictment of Mr. Hoover are that he was an important figure in the policies of the Coolidge regime which made the crash inevitable as the process of the sun; and that he has failed utterly in measuring up to the necessities since the crash came. There is not an economist in the land who does not know that the collapse that came in 1929 was made certain by the conditions that were not only tolerated but encouraged by the Coolidge regime.

After all, it was Mr. Coolidge, not Mr. Hoover, who, when the public was beginning to pause in contemplative mood over the madness of the market, gave out a statement from the White House assuring the prospective investors that their misgivings were without foundation. That, we believe, is the first instance in history where a President took a step to influence the battling of the bulls and bears.

Mr. Coolidge does not care for the nomination; he does not want a frank review of his administration. That must wait on history. And when history is written both the Coolidge and Hoover administration will be treated under the caption: "The Regime of Andrew Mellon."

* * *

'They Hired the Money, Didn't They!'

Mr. Coolidge has one advantage, however—he, unlike Mr. Hoover, was too robust an American to join in an effort to transfer the debts of 14 nations to the backs of our own people. When they talked to him about it, he answered crisply: "They hired the money, didn't they?"

And come to think of it, we believe they did; and used it for their own benefit.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Who's Loony?

Who—or which—is the "dumbbell?" The beautiful woman with the one-cylinder mind, who uses up her last brain-cell in the campaign to get her man? Or the man who marries that kind of woman?

* * *

Think it over! Faith Baldwin scores in her tilt with William McFee, when she declares that few women are so stupid that they do not manage to get their man. And that it is usually the beautiful-and-dumb type that succeed in annexing the kind of man who will give them pearls, furs and glittering motor cars.

Not that this proves the superior intelligence of women. Oh, no. It merely proves the low rate of intelligence of men, in matters of love and marriage.

* * *

A woman doesn't HAVE to be intelligent or brilliant in order to marry the man she wants. All she has to be is calm, nonchalant—and bright enough to SEEM stupid. In the marriage game, three working brain-cells are better than a whole set.

* * *

The average smart American business man fears and dreads a brainy woman as he does Communism or poison ivy or hay-fever. Her brilliance strikes him dumb—but not with admiration. It bores him worse than spinach or crooners of his morning exercises.

The trouble with a brilliant woman is not that she knows or THINKS too much, but that she makes a MAN think too much. And the Tired Business Man doesn't want to be made to do mental hurdles or jump through intellectual hoops. He doesn't want to think about books or art or psychoanalysis—or anything except how to make money!

* * *

If he chooses a dumbbell, he can just jog along in the old rut, and still be 20 miles ahead of her, and be regarded as the oracle of the family and the world's greatest wit. He can put on a paper cap and blow a toy whistle and she'll think him the life of the party.

* * *

What a man wants, when he marries, is not a bureau of information, but a cheer-leader; not a higher education, but louder APPLAUSE. Not an inspiration—but a relaxation.

* * *

If most New York women (as Mr. McFee intimated) are not mentally stimulating, it is because they have found that brains are a drug on the marriage market; and they prefer orange blossoms to laurels.

* * *

As long as men prefer a Ford mind in a Rolls-Royce chassis, women will continue to doll up to look like Rolls-Royces and to try to act like simple little flivvers. As long as a dimple is more potent and deadly than an epigram, they will spend more time in the beauty parlors than in the library.

* * *

But the dumbbell is not the little moron who is smart enough to get the man she wants—but the man who lets her GET him. And then wants something else!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Writes a mighty civil professor from Dublin, to my infinite pride, that he is reading a collection of my poor essays to his classes. Also came autographed volumes from Ogden Nash, Robert Ripley and Gene Fowler for my library.

All afternoon at my stint and writing a long letter to my sister in Kansas City. Thence to see Wellington and Kate Cross and Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer, two favorite stage people, there. And Wellington and I talked of Cameron, Mo., his birthplace, about 50 kilometers from mine.

In the evening to Freddy Landeck's tasty spare ribs and sauerkraut dinner to the Duke and Duchess of Manchester on the eve of their sailing to Cuba. And among guests were the Fred Pusinellis, the Bobby Adkins, the lovely Janet McGrew and Ralph Ketcham. So home late to bed.

* * *

They were telling hunting stories. And some one recalled the tale Ryley Wilson, the West Virginia wit, used to tell. A boy in a small town trudged past the general store with three squirrels strung over his shoulders.

"That big one," observed one of the loungers, "must have given you trouble, sonny!"

"Yessir," was the reply, "I had to throw at him twice."

Many frayed European aristocrats, marooned in New York, support themselves in comparative luxury these days with carefully camouflaged gambling parlors. They lodge in apartment houses in exclusive areas and give cocktail parties. A capper in the role of a guest suggests a roulette game. The host admits he has the paraphernalia and it is brought out. A small stake game is jockeyed into high play, and those who lose, lose heavily. And the host somehow rarely loses. The luck of the game, heigh ho.

Bruno Lessing, the writer, is reputed to have the largest and finest collection of canes in America. He has gathered them on all parts of the globe. Perhaps the most prized is a stick of pink ivory from South Africa. The pink ivory is from a tree whose full growth is not attained under 150 years.

Word from London is that Paul Troubetzkoy, the painter-sculptor whose bulk suggests a Potsdam guard and who is a familiar figure in New York art circles, has married again. Troubetzkoy, in lighter moments, amused friends with his Herculean strength bending a silver dollar double with thumb and forefinger and tearing decks of cards apart at a single wrench. A vegetarian, he attributes his muscular power to this diet. But Count Von Luckner, who can perform the same feats, is a heavy meat eater. So there you are. And how have you been?

* * *

While George Bernard Shaw is likely the most famous vegetarian, history records many notables who abstain from all meat. Among them were Newton, Tolstoy and Leonardi da Vinci.

* * *

In a musing moment today I wondered what a fellow would do if, upon running into and being introduced to a group composed of Zona Gale, Zoe Akins, Achmed Abdullah and Ben Ali Haggin, he would be called upon suddenly to introduce them to someone else. I once introduced a Robert Morten to Morton Roberts like this: Mr. Morberts meet Mr. Robten.

* * *

And there is Ring Lardner's tale of the stew stumbling into a taxi. After a few blocks, the driver inquired: "Where to?" Knitting his brow, the fare finally replied: "You'll be the first people I tell when it comes to me."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

It's time that pop-eyed old theory that "any boy may be President" should be exposed.

Thousands of husky youngsters—all of them eager and willing to work. But give them a job and see what happens. They'll still be eager . . . still willing. And they'll tackle that job with all they have. But—a good 75 per cent of them will make a mess of it. And, if it happens to be in the "skilled labor" class, 90 per cent of them will fumble the ball. Why?

Because they've never been trained to do that job, or any other jobs, well. And the majority of them, as men, would spend most of their lives failing.

This is a Democracy—say we to Young America. Equal rights for everyone. You've as much chance to be President as the next fellow. Lookit Lincoln. Or maybe if you can't be President, you can find some other nice, soft job, just as good. So be smart! Watch your chance! This is the land of Opportunity.

So for six or eight, or ten or twelve years we pass the youngster along through school, filling him with noble sentiments and grand expectations as he goes. Then out he goes into the world equipped with—what?

Equipped with several ideas. The first being that he's as good as anyone else and he's not going to do anyone's dirty work. The second being that the world owes him a Position . . . perhaps not in the White House, but at least some situation befitting a free, white, equal-rights American citizen. And the third being that life's a washout and society's a double-crossin' so-n'-so if he doesn't get that job.

Three ideas—and all of them pop-eyed. For of course the simple truth is—

Somebody has to do the dirty work. In fact, most of us have to do dirty work—that being about the only kind of work we can do and there is.

Any boy can't be a President.

And the world doesn't owe us any sort of a job whatsoever. We must create and maintain our own jobs.

But does the average American school boy know all this? Has he been prepared for that Common Lot which is his inevitable fate—and in which lies his only chance of happiness and success? Has he been trained to do the Ordinary, Hickory Shirt jobs which await him? He has not. He has only his three pop-eyed ideas. And where do they lead him?

THEY LEAD HIM TO THE BREAD LINE...OR THE "SLAVE MARKET"...OR THE PRISON CELL, WHERE AT LAST HE WILL HAVE A CHANCE TO LEARN THE TRADE WHICH THE SCHOOLS OF HIS COUNTRY DIDN'T TEACH HIM!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

"And that reminds me of a story."

Nearly every public speaker uses this phrase as an introduction to a yarn which he implies has just come to his mind.

Whereas he has carefully selected the story in preparing his talk so that it may fit into his address at the certain point where he injects it.

Even if they are well told, usually they are so old that people want to groan when they hear them.

It is taught, oratorically, that a humorous story should be used to relieve the monotony of a talk that is especially serious.

Often a story is illuminating and impresses a point which the speaker wishes to bring out more clearly, but more often they have little bearing on the main thought.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Belief

Belief is man's surpassing power,
Belief is his most splendid dower,
Belief in good—
The soul's rich food

Belief that, somehow, right prevails,
Though each dear, earthly promise fails,
Will lend new strength,
Until at length
Men glimpse their dreams long-waited sails.

Though scoffers raised their cruel mirth
Belief has given new worlds to earth.

Would you aspire? Would you achieve?
Then, though men question, flout, deceive,
Through loss, through pain,
Let no faith wane:
You must believe, believe, believe!

Isn't It So?

Money may talk, but about all it says to some of us seems to be, "Nothing doing."
